COUNCIL.

THE Legislative Council having met pursuant to summons, His Excellency the GOVERNOR took the Chair. New Members sworn:—His Excellency Major-General Sir Maurice Charles O'Connell, K.C.H., commanding Her Majesty's Forces in New South Wales and its Dependencies; and Phillip Parker King, Esq., Captain, R.N. His Excellency the GOVERNOR then read the following Address:—

WM. MACPHERSON,
Clerk of Councils.

GENTLEMEN OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL,

I have called you together at this unusual season of the year, in order to propose to you the measure for the establishment of a Police Force, beyond the settled districts of the Colony.

The vast interests which have grown up in those distant parts of the Territory, and the number of persons of all classes now engaged in depasturing Sheep and Cattle beyond what are called the Boundaries of Location, might be sufficient of themselves to call for the protection of a Police Force; but the necessity for it is rendered far more urgent, by the frequent aggressions made of late by the Aboriginal Natives upon the Flocks and Herds of the Colonists, as well as on the lives of their Stockmen—by the outrages which have been committed on the Aborigines, as well as by them—and particularly by one atrocious deed of blood, for which seven unhappy men have suffered on the scaffold.

The Bill which I shall lay before you proposes to accomplish its objects, by giving to the Crown Commissioners, who already perform certain functions in those districts, far more ample powers than they now possess; and by providing that each Commissioner shall be accompanied by a moving Police Force, sufficient to repress the predatory attacks of the Natives, and to keep order amongst all classes.

As it appears to me perfectly just, that the persons who are to be protected by this Force, should bear the expense of maintaining it, the Bill provides for this object, by means of an assessment on Cattle and other Stock.

In proposing however a New Tax upon a portion of the people of this Colony, it is not sufficient, I think, to shew that it falls upon persons who may properly bear it; it is further necessary to prove that the Tax itself can not be dispensed with. Without therefore entering into any elaborate statement of finance which at the present season of the year would be premature, I will request the attention of the Council to a few facts, tending to shew that it would be highly unwise, in the present state of our Finances, to incur any new expenses without providing, at the same time, the means of defraying them.

The total Revenue of the year 1838, exclusive of Crown Lands, was £202,960 7s 5d, being £26,739 12s 7d, less than it was estimated at by Sir Richard Bourke: The total expense for the same year, 1838, (exclusive of Immigration), cannot yet be exactly ascertained; but it may be taken at about £295,000, being an excess over the Revenue of the year, of upwards of £92,000.

The excess of Expenditure over Income, for the present year must be taken, I am sorry to say, at a still higher sum.

In the Financial Minute, which I laid before the Council on the 7th August last, it was estimated at £100,798 6s 4d.; since that time, however, new charges have arisen, which are to be provided for; and the increased price of provisions of every description, has caused all our Contracts to be made at a higher rate than that which is set down in the Estimates. The excess of Expenditure over Income, for the year 1839, will therefore, I now apprehend, be much greater than what I considered probable in August last.

This excess of ordinary Expenditure, over ordinary Income, though greatly increased within the last two years, is not one altogether of sudden growth; for, from the most accurate accounts I have been able to procure of the three preceding years, viz, 1835, 1836, and 1837, I find there was an aggregate excess of Expenditure over Income, in those three years, of about £100,000; so that in no year since 1834, would it have been possible to keep the Expenditure of the year within its Income, without either stopping the Public Works, or adding to the Taxation of the People.

Gentlemen, I have thought it right that these circumstances should fairly be placed before you, though there is nothing in them that ought, in my opinion, to occasion the slightest degree of alarm; and I am fully persuaded that, by cautious and prudent measures, the appearance even of embarrassment may be avoided. Economy, however, is necessary—not descending to parsimony, which would be unwise in a new and rising State—but an economy which will tend rather to call forth the energies of the People than to repress them.

I have never ceased, since I entered on the Government, to express my determination to enforce such an economy; and, however arduous and unpleasant the task, I trust, Gentlemen, with your assistance, to be able to accomplish it.
