A CONDITIONAL PARDON.
HIS Excellency the GOVERNOR directs the publication of the following Notice of Messrs. Imlay of Twofold Bay, offering a Reward of Forty Pounds to any Person who may give such information as shall lead to the Conviction of two men therein described, who have recently robbed their Hut at Bega, and ill-used the Person in charge. And His Excellency as a further inducement to the guilty parties being brought to justice, is pleased to promise that application shall be made to Her Majesty for a Conditional Pardon for any Prisoner of the Crown who may give such information as shall lead to the Conviction of the Offenders.

*By His Excellency's Command,

FORTY POUNDS REWARD.

WHEREAS, on the morning of the 9th Oct. two ruffians came to one of our sheep stations, at Bega; one of them presented a musket to the breast of the person in charge, with the intention of shooting him, but the piece missed fire—they then knocked him down, and tied his hands—after which they proceeded to the hut where his wife was in bed with two young children, one of them an infant at the breast—the ruthless unmanly villains struck the poor woman on the head and breast, and otherwise abused her, and swore they would murder both her children if she made the slightest noise or resistance: They then robbed the hut of a fowling piece, balls, percussion caps, a silver watch, a one pound note, and various articles of wearing apparel of considerable value. The undersigned will give the above reward to any person who will give such information as will lead to the conviction of the offenders.

One of the ruffians was about five feet six inches in height, had on at the time moleskin trousers, a dark cloth jacket, straw hat, his face covered with a handkerchief or comforter. The other was about five feet in height, wore at the time dark plaiding trousers, dark jacket, black and red silk handkerchiefs, striped shirt, straw hat, face covered with a comforter, dark whiskers seen below it.
