FALKLAND ISLANDS.

HIS Excellency the Governor is pleased to direct the publication of the following Despatch from the Secretary of State, with its enclosures, pointing out the advantage to vessels returning to England from the Pacific, of touching at the Falkland Islands.

By His Excellency's Command,
E. DEAS THOMSON.

Downing street,
25th September, 1849.

SIR,—I have the honor to transmit to you, for your information, the enclosed copy of a letter from the Admiralty, accompanied by one from Captain Maxwell, R.N. containing some favorable remarks on the Falkland Islands, and pointing out the great saving of time which he considers that Her Majesty's ship 'Dido' effected on her passage from the Pacific to England by calling at those Islands instead of at Rio de Janeiro.

Considering the large number of vessels which return from the Australian Colonies round Cape Horn, I have deemed it right to put you in possession of this information, and I shall be glad if you will communicate it to the Harbor Master, and take any other means which may appear to you suitable for making it known among the Commanders of Shipping, leaving them of course, however, to exercise their own judgment, and without offering any recommendation for which the Government could be held responsible.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your most obedient humble servant,

GREY.

The Governor of New South Wales.

Admiralty,

10th September, 1849.

Sir,—With reference to your letter of the 24th ultimo, transmitting a Despatch from the Governor of the Falkland Islands, I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to send you herewith a copy of a Report on the state of those Islands, from Captain Maxwell, late of the 'Dido,' dated the 12th of May last, and I am to acquaint you, that my Lords are sorry that this copy was not sent at the time. My Lords request that the same may be laid before Earl Grey.

I have, &c.

(Signed) W. A. B. HAMILTON.

Herman Merivale, Esq.
&c. &c. &c.

Malvern Wells,

Worcester, 12th May, 1849.

Sir,—Conceiving that any information tending to shorten the voyage of Her Majesty's ships from the distant stations in the Pacific Ocean, may prove worthy the notice of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, I beg leave to call their attention to the advantage which would be derived in such cases, from touching at the Falkland Islands for water and refreshment in preference to the Ports in the Brazil, which are generally resorted to for that purpose.

From recent experience, and having in command of Her Majesty's ship 'Dido,' returned from New Zealand by that route, and made the quickest passage on record, I am in a condition to state to their Lordships, that the 'Dido's' passage from Cape Horn was shortened 20 days at least, by going to the Falkland Islands instead of Rio de Janeiro, and which will be evident, on a reference to that ship's log and track compared with those of any other of Her Majesty's ships which may have called at that port, in making the same voyage at the same season.

The 'Dido' left Fort William (East Falkland) on the 5th December, and arrived at Spithead in 49 days—an average passage from Rio de Janeiro at that period of the year being not less than 50 days, and as the Falkland Islands are in the direct route from Cape Horn to both places, it is manifestly fair to assume that the whole of the time that would have been occupied in the passage between those Islands and Rio was saved, and which passage is estimated, on the average, at 3 weeks.

The saving of three weeks' wear and tear, wages, and victualling of a ship returning home to be paid off, is, I need scarcely observe, an object of consideration.

Their Lordships having access to the journals of numerous voyages, and the best sources of information as to the prevailing winds in these seas, I need only state that a ship coming home direct from the Falkland Islands, is enabled, in proceeding to the northward, to shape a course so as to cross the southern Tropic about the Meridian of 25 degrees west, thereby deriving the full advantage of the south-east trades so as to pass rapidly through them; whereas, in sailing from Rio de Janeiro, a vessel is 20 degrees to the westward on the same parallel, and is frequently compelled to proceed 6 or 8 degrees to the south before making sufficient easting to weather the Brazil coast.

With respect to refreshments for shipping, the Falkland Islands furnish abundant supplies of cattle, which can be obtained at a cheap rate at the Port of Stanley, the seat of Government, or at Port Louis in Berkeley Sound, and ships can water with facility at either of those ports; vegetables are scarce, but the Governor was giving every encouragement and assistance to the Colonists to grow them in sufficient abundance for the supply of shipping, which I have no doubt they will speedily accomplish, and in the meantime I found wild celery an admirable substitute when boiled in the soup for the ship's company; spirits, salt meat, and other articles of sea victualling, can be supplied from the Government Stores at Stanley; and if that Port was resorted to, private establishments, with supplies of naval stores, would soon be formed. A patent slip is expected to be sent out from England, a site for which had been already fixed upon in December last. It appears, therefore, very desirable that the admirable position of the Falkland Islands and the facilities afforded to navigation by the British Settlement there, should be made known extensively, and rendered available for the mercantile marine as well as for Her Majesty's ships navigating to and from the Pacific.

Trusting that I may not have unduly trespassed on their Lordship's time,

I have, &c.

J. H. MAXWELL,

Captain R.N.

The Secretary of the Admiralty.

PASSENGERS' ACT.

HIS Excellency the Governor is pleased to direct the publication, for general information, of the following Order made by Her Majesty in Council, in virtue of the provisions contained in the Passengers' Act 12th and 13th Vict. cap. 33.

By His Excellency's Command;
E. DEAS THOMSON.

At the Court at Osborne-House, Isle of Wight, the 6th day of October, 1849, present, The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by an Act passed in the session of Parliament held in the twelfth and thirteenth years of the reign of Her Majesty, intituled the "Passengers' Act, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine," it is enacted, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by any Order in Council, to be by Her made with the advice of the Privy Council, to prescribe such rules and regulations as to Her Majesty may seem fit, for preserving order, and for securing cleanliness and ventilation on board of passenger ships proceeding from the United Kingdom to any port or place in Her Majesty's possessions abroad, and the said rules and regulations from time to time in like manner to alter, amend, and revoke, as occasion may require;

And whereas it is expedient to revoke an Order in Council made at a Court held at Osborne-House, Isle of Wight, on the fifteenth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, in virtue of the provisions of an Act (now repealed) passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her Majesty, intituled "An Act to make further provision for one year, and to the end of the then next session of Parliament, for the carriage of passengers to North America," and to make a new Order in Council which shall extend to passenger ships proceeding from the United Kingdom, not only to North America, but to any port or place in Her Majesty's possessions abroad, out of Europe, and not being within the Mediterranean Sea;

Now, therefore, Her Majesty doth, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, and in pursuance and exercise of the authority vested in Her by the said "Passengers' Act, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine" order, and it is hereby ordered, that the said Order in Council of the fifteenth of April one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight be, and the same is hereby revoked; and that the following shall henceforth be the rules for preserving order and for securing cleanliness and ventilation to be observed on board of every passenger ship proceeding from the United Kingdom to any port or place in Her Majesty's possessions abroad, out of Europe, and not being within the Mediterranean Sea.

1. All passengers who shall not be prevented by sickness, or other sufficient cause, to be determined by the surgeon, or in ships carrying no surgeon, by the master, shall rise not later than seven o'clock a.m. at which hour the fires shall be lighted.

2. It shall be the duty of the cook, appointed under the twenty-sixth section of the said "Passenger's Act, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine," to light the fires and to take care that they be kept alight during the day, and also to take care that each passenger, or family of passengers, shall have the use of the fire-place, at the proper hours, in an order to be fixed by the master.

3. When the passengers are dressed their beds shall be rolled up.

4. The decks, including the space under the bottom of the berths, shall be swept before breakfast, and all dirt thrown overboard.

5. The breakfast hour shall be from eight to nine o'clock a.m. provided that, before the commencement of breakfast, all the emigrants, except as hereinbefore excepted, be out of bed and dressed, and that the beds have been rolled up, and the deck on which the emigrants live properly swept.

6. The deck shall further be swept after every meal, and, after breakfast is concluded, shall be also dry-holystoned or scraped. This duty, as well as that of cleaning the ladders, hospitals, and round-houses, shall be performed by a party taken in rotation from the adult males above fourteen, in the proportion of five to every one hundred emigrants, and who shall be considered as sweepers for the day. But the single women shall perform this duty in their own compartment, where a separate compartment is allotted to them, and the occupant of each berth shall see that his own berth is well brushed out.

7. Dinner shall commence at one o'clock p.m. and supper at six p.m.

8. The fires shall be extinguished at seven p.m. unless otherwise directed by the master, or required for the use of the sick, and the emigrants shall be in their berths at ten o'clock p.m. except under the permission or authority of the surgeon; or if there be no surgeon, of the master.

9. Three safety lamps shall be lit at dusk, and kept burning till ten o'clock p.m., after which hour two of the lamps may be extinguished, one being nevertheless kept burning at the main hatchway all night.

10. No naked light shall be allowed at any time or on any account.

11. The scuttles and stemports, if any, shall, weather permitting, be opened at seven o'clock a.m. and kept open till ten o'clock p.m.; and the hatches shall be kept open whenever the weather permits.

12. The coppers and cooking utensils shall be cleaned every day.

13. The beds shall be well shaken and aired on deck at least twice a week.

14. The bottom boards of the berths, if not fixtures, shall be removed and dry-scrubbed, and taken on deck at least twice a week.

15. A space of deck-room shall be apportioned for a hospital, not less, for vessels carrying one hundred passengers, than forty-eight superficial feet, with two or four bed-berths erected therein; nor less for vessels carrying two hundred or more passengers, than one hundred and twenty superficial feet, with six bed-berths therein.

16. Two days in the week shall be appointed by the master as washing days; but no washing or drying of clothes shall on any account be permitted between decks.

17. On Sunday mornings the passengers shall be mustered at ten o'clock a.m. and will be expected to appear in clean and decent apparel. The Lord's day shall be observed as religiously as circumstances will admit.

18. No spirits or gunpowder shall be taken on board by any passenger; and if either of these articles be discovered in the possession of a passenger, it shall be taken into the custody of the master during the voyage, and not returned to the passenger until he is on the point of disembarking.

19. No loose hay or straw shall be allowed below for any purpose.

20. No smoking shall be allowed between decks.

21. All gambling, fighting, riotous or quarrelsome behaviour, swearing and violent language, shall be at once put a stop to. Swords and other offensive weapons shall, as soon as the passengers embark, be placed in the custody of the master.

22. No sailors shall be allowed to remain on the passenger deck, among the passengers, except on duty.

23. No passenger shall go to the ship's cookhouse without special permission from the master, nor remain in the fore-castle among the sailors on any account.

24. In vessels not expressly required by the said "Passengers' Act, 1849," to have on board such ventilating apparatus as therein mentioned, such other provision shall be made for ventilation as shall be required by the emigration officer, at the port of embarkation, or in his absence by the officers of customs.

25. And to prevent all doubts in the construction of this Order in Council, it is hereby further ordered that the terms "United Kingdom" and "Passenger Ship" shall herein have the same significations as are assigned to them respectively in the said "Passenger's Act, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine."

And the Right Honorable Earl Grey, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.
