CONDITIONS, ETC.

First.—It must be understood, that in all instances the usual mail road between the points abovementioned is to be travelled; and where no mail has heretofore run, that course is to be adopted which the Postmaster General may direct, or the contractor specify in his tender.

Second.—Intending contractors must give due consideration to the winter difficulties of the roads, and to the necessity for provision for the crossing of rivers or creeks by boat or otherwise, and they must bear in mind that no excuse for delay will be even entertained unless supported by certificates from persons of known respectability as to the cause of delay, and that it is attributable to no want of liberal provision both for ordinary duties and to overcome difficulties arising from stress of weather, or from the occurrence of accidents to the men, horses, or vehicles employed.

Third.—Contractors will be not merely bound to convey on and within such days and hours, and with such celerity (not less than six miles an hour) as the Postmaster General may direct, all mails, bags, letters, packets, and newspapers, which may be delivered to them, under the authority of the Postmaster General, or any Postmaster, but further, to provide for that service such means of conveyance, both as respects description and extent as may meet every emergency, and all variations in the bulk of the Mails, whether or not the transmission of such Mails (either as respects address or contents) has been or is now customary. When there appears in the opinion of the Postmaster General, or any officer by him duly authorised, any failure in respect of such ample provision, the deficiencies may be at once repaired by the hire or purchase of every requisite at the contractor's cost and risk.

Fourth.—Contractors can obtain the permission of the Postmaster General to convey, in addition to the mails, such limited number of passengers or weight of parcels as their means may appear equal to, such authority being, however, no plea or excuse for delays of mails, the conveyance of which must always be the paramount consideration; and the Postmaster General or other proper officer can at once revoke or modify such permission when it appears that delays have ensued or are likely to ensue from passenger traffic. Every vehicle employed in the mail service must have painted on its door or body, in conspicuous characters, and in addition to the words "Royal Mail," or other sufficient indication of its being so employed, a statement of the number of passengers which it is permitted to convey. For every passenger, or corresponding weight of parcels carried in excess of such authorized and exhibited number, a penalty of Twenty pounds sterling will be levied.

Fifth.—Contractors will be bound to prevent the conveyance of any letter or packet by any of their servants or passengers or otherwise through their instrumentality, to the prejudice of the Post Office revenue; but they are bound to deliver along the prescribed or usual mail road, all loose letters and private bags entrusted or tendered to them either by or under the authority of a postmaster; as well as to convey, and, at the first Post Office arrived at, deliver up every loose letter or private bag which, beyond the precincts of a post town they may be required by any one to take charge of.

The penalty on the contractor for every offence in these respects, as well as for the delivery or receipt within a post town, or within a mile of a Post Office, by a mail man of any article subject to postage charge, shall be Five pounds.

Sixth.—Contractors will be liable to a fine of Ten Shillings for every five minutes' delay after the specified time of starting, unless such delay be under instructions and to await any overdue Mail for further conveyance; and a like penalty will be inflicted for every ten minutes' delay in arrival, except for the first five or ten minutes respectively.

Seventh.—Contractors are particularly to remember that both on the main and branch roads they will be fined for the full delay that may, in consequence of their late arrival at any point of such road, ensue in the further transmission of each mail entrusted to them, and not merely for the amount of late arrival at such point. The delaying Contractor is bound to forward the Mail by express to its final destination, or till it overtakes the proper conveyance at a Post Office in time for due transference through the hands of a Postmaster.

The Postmaster General will, when it appears not inconsistent with the public service, authorise arrangements, dependent upon his continued approval, between Contractors for conjoining lines, to avert, by awaiting one another's arrival, ill consequences to themselves and the public, but it is to be distinctly understood that the proper responsibility of each party to such an arrangement will not be altered or removed.

Eighth.—The Postmaster General will offer and pay, at the cost of the Contractor, such reward as in his judgment may appear fit, for the recovery of any lost Mail, letter, packet, or newspaper.

Ninth.—For every separate mail package damaged by wet or otherwise injured, through failure on the part of any contractor to make adequate provision for its protection, such contractor shall be liable to a penalty of one pound sterling, and to a further fine of sixpence for each damaged letter, packet, or newspaper, of its contents.

Tenth.—Drivers, postmen, and all persons in any way employed on the mail service must be free and of certified good character, and they, as well as the horses, vehicles, and all other mail appliances of every kind are to be at all times subject to the inspection and approval or rejection of the Postmaster General. Every contractor failing within such reasonable time as may be allowed him to remedy any deficiency in any of these respects shall for every such act be mulcted in a sum not exceeding ten pounds.

Eleventh.—Contractors employing, or required to employ, wheeled vehicles, boats, or vessels, will be required, on the requisition of the Postmaster General, to provide free seats therein for officers or servants of the Department travelling on the public service; such officers will be counted as authorised passengers.

Twelfth.—All fines and penalties incurred under contract, may be either deducted by the Postmaster General from the payments becoming due to a contractor, or recovered by ordinary legal process, and all such fines are to be considered over and above any penalties established by any Act of Council.

Thirteenth.—In all tenders the same division of the roads as shown above must be adopted, and each division (to be designated by number) must be separately tendered for; but a contractor, desirous of uniting several lines in one service, may accompany his separate tenders for each with an offer of reduction in the event of all, or any special lot of his tenders being accepted. But tenders for sub-divisions of the roads as above will be entertained, provided that by separate tenders each road as defined be completed.

Fourteenth.—No tender will be entertained which does not bear the bonâ fide signatures of two responsible persons, engaging to enter into a bond with the Contractor in double the amount of contract for the due performance of all its stipulations and the safety of the Mails.

Fifteenth.—Contractors will be strictly bound not to sub-let any portion of their contracts without the consent of the Postmaster General.

Sixteenth.—The Postmaster General may appoint deputies to exercise all or any of the powers reposed in him by the contracts.

Seventeenth.—All further particulars may be obtained at the General Post Office, Melbourne, where intending contractors are requested to apply.

Eighteenth.—Contractors will have to prepare their own accounts (forms for which can be had at the General Post Office), and take the necessary steps for their collection themselves, according to any regulations which exist or may be issued.

Nineteenth.—Contractors will enjoy no exemption from payment of tolls, puntage, or any similar charges.

Twentieth.—Conveyance by wheeled vehicles will be in all cases, where practicable, preferred.

By His Excellency's Command,
JOHN FOSTER.
