NOTICE TO HOLDERS OF MINING LEASES.

SEVERAL cases having been brought under my notice in which, in consequence of the holders of certain gold and mineral leases neglecting to maintain the posts defining the boundaries of their leaseholds, holders of miners' rights have unknowingly occupied portions of such leased lands, and after incurring expenses in working the same, have, after their discovering payable gold or mineral therein, been ejected by the lessees as trespassers: It is hereby notified to all holders of mining leases that upon complaint being made and proof furnished to this department, that the posts required by the covenants of any lease to be erected and maintained on the leased land are not so maintained in their proper positions, the lease will be liable to forfeiture.

COMMON.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency SIR CHARLES HENRY DARLING, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of Victoria, &c., &c., &c.

WHEREAS by The Land Act, 1862, it is amongst other things enacted, that when any Crown land remains unsold in or within five miles of any municipal district, or upon or within five miles of any gold field, or in or within five miles of any town not contained in any municipal district, or within any agricultural area of which at least one-fourth part has been selected, the Governor in Council may proclaim such land to be a municipal common, or a gold fields common, or a town common, or a farmers' common respectively, as the case may be; and it is also enacted that the Governor in Council may at any time increase, diminish, alter, or abolish any common proclaimed before or after the passing of the said Act: Now therefore I, Sir Charles Henry Darling, the Governor of Victoria, with the advice of the Executive Council, do hereby increase the common hereinafter mentioned, in accordance with the above-recited provisions of the said Act, that is to say:—

THE JONES CREEK GOLD FIELD COMMON described in a Proclamation bearing date the 15th June, 1863, is hereby extended by the addition thereto of the area hereinafter described, viz:—County unnamed, parish of Waanyarra: Commencing at the north-west angle of the existing common; thence by the west boundary of that common bearing south one hundred and twenty chains; thence by a line bearing west one hundred and thirty chains; thence by a line bearing north one hundred and twenty chains; and thence by a line bearing east one hundred and thirty chains to the point of commencement. Area available for commonage about 1550 acres.—(65.K.1037.)

Given under my Hand and the Seal of the Colony, at Melbourne, this thirteenth day of March, in the year of our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and in the twenty-eighth year of Her Majesty's reign.

(L.S.) C. H. DARLING.

By His Excellency's Command,
J. M. GRANT,

President of the Board of Land and Works.
GOD SAVE THE QUEEN!

REVISED SAILING DIRECTIONS FOR PORT PHILLIP.*

THE following Sailing Directions for Port Phillip, including the Ports of Melbourne and Geelong, are published for general information in lieu of those published at page 467 of the Government Gazette of 1861, which are hereby cancelled.

JAS. G. FRANCIS,
Commissioner of Trade and Customs.
Department of Trade and Customs,
Melbourne, 24th February, 1865.

APPROACHING THE PORT FROM THE WESTWARD.

Vessels bound to Port Phillip from the westward usually make the land about Moonlight Head or Cape Otway. Moonlight Head lies about W. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. seventeen miles from Cape Otway. It is a dark looking cliffy headland, about 200 feet high. Immediately behind the Head, and at about right angles with the coast, the back land forms a high and well timbered ridge, running far inland, and sloping down to the N.W. and S.E.

From Moonlight Head the coast-line falls back a little, and continues high and rocky for about eight miles, when the land becomes lower, and a sandy beach of several miles in extent commences. The land behind the beach is lower than that to the eastward or westward of it, and rises to the N.E. into high and heavily timbered hills, which may be seen in fine weather from seawards upwards of fifty miles. After passing the sandy beach, and about two miles west of the Cape, is a small bay open to the south, but not safe for anchorage. The small rivers Aire and Johanna empty their waters in the bight between Moonlight Head and Cape Otway, the first river distant five, the latter nine, miles from the Cape.

Cape Otway, the north-west point of the western entrance to Bass' Strait, is about 250 feet high, of a dark brown color with patches of coarse sandstone, undulating grass hummocks, and openly timbered. It is marked by a lighthouse colored white, a flagstaff, and an electric telegraph station; the latter is in hourly communication with the capitals of the three colonies; it is shut out by a small hummock from the view of vessels approaching from the westward until they are abreast of the Cape.

The land trends from the Cape in an E.N.E. direction towards Point Franklin, which is low and sandy, with a reef stretching about half a mile from it to the S.E. This point forms the south-western side of the small river Parker, at the mouth of which the Victorian end of the Tasmanian electric telegraph cable is secured, and where the lighthouse stores are landed. As there is usually a heavy surf on at the mouth of the Parker it is dangerous for small vessels to attempt a landing there.

From Point Franklin the coast is steep and high, bounded by dark-colored abrupt cliffs well wooded on the top, trending in a north-east direction to Apollo Bay, where shelter can be found from gales between N.W. and S.S.W. This bay is about a mile and a-half deep, situated immediately under the summit of the Otway ranges, and to the N.E. of Point Bunbury, on which two conspicuous beacons are placed to mark the Henty Reef. A reef, nearly covered at high water, extends about three cables' length in a S.E. direction from Point Bunbury.

Cape Paton lies about N.E. by E. nine miles from Apollo Bay; it is a bold steep dark-looking headland, wooded to the water's edge, from which the coast, of the same abrupt character, trends in a N.E. direction to Loutit Bay, closed in on its S.W. side by a high bold head. The bay is formed something like Apollo Bay by a projecting reef stretching a quarter of a mile to the S.E., from a low grassy point, it affords shelter from winds between N.W. to S.S.W.

From Loutit Bay the coast trends about N.E. by E. six miles to Split Point, which is of a reddish-brown color, and forms like three cliffs or heads close together with dark ravines between; the point is bare of trees, and has a small islet of a similar color close to the shore lying N.E. from it. From thence to Sandy Point, where the Otway ranges terminate, consists of bold projecting points with sandy bays between, and grassy plains rising inland, bare of trees, with clumps of scrub here and there. From Sandy Point the coast runs low and forms a deep bight, in which a bold, isolated, saddle-shaped hummock appears, known as Flinders Point or Barwon Head; from thence to Point Lonsdale the coast continues of the same low sandy character.

Telegraphic intelligence.—In passing within signalling distance of Cape Otway vessels, whether bound to Port Phillip or not, are recommended to show their numbers and communicate any public intelligence they may be in possession of.

A sunken reef lies off Cape Otway about one and a half miles in a S.E. to S.S.W. direction; the screw steamer Black Bird, drawing thirteen feet, recently struck upon this reef. It is advisable to round the Cape at a distance of not less than four miles, and when the lighthouse bears W. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. six miles steer N.E. fifty-six miles to Port Phillip entrance.

Keep an offing until daylight.—Strangers, if when abreast of Split Point, find there is not sufficient daylight to take them to pilot's waters, should bring the ship under easy sail and stand off and on shore till daylight, not shoaling their water to less than twenty fathoms.

Henty Reef.—In running for Port Phillip be careful to avoid a sunken rock with not more than eighteen feet over it, which lies about two miles off shore, near Apollo Bay, and thirteen miles from Cape Otway.

Four beacons on the mainland mark the position of this rock; two on Cape Bunbury, bearing from each other S.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ S., and N.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., the inner one painted white, the outer red; two on Point Hayley, situated about nine miles N.E. from Cape Otway, bearing from each other E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., and W. $\frac{1}{2}$ S., the inner one painted white, the outer black.

The position of the rock is marked by the intersection of two lines drawn through these beacons.

This danger is known as Henty's Reef, is steep too, having ten fathoms all round within a cable's length of its shoalest part. As the sea only breaks on the reef in bad weather, vessels should give it a good berth in passing.

Caution not to Heave to.—On no account should a vessel be hoisted to when waiting for daylight near the Heads. Several vessels that have done so have drifted into danger; two (the Sacramento and the Earl of Charlemont) were lost, one on Point Lonsdale, the other on Point Flinders, from this cause, combined with inattention to the lead and state of the tide.

Current.—Should Cape Otway be rounded early in the evening, with a fresh southerly breeze, it is necessary to beware of over-running the distance, as the current, after a prevalence of westerly or southerly gales, is often found to set strong along the land to the N.E.

APPROACHING THE ENTRANCE FROM THE SOUTH-WEST.

If the weather be at all clear after passing Split Point, high land will be seen opening out on the starboard bow; this is Arthur's Seat, rising inland over the waters of Port Phillip, with a steep declivity to the N.W., but sloping gradually with an even outline to the S.E. Proceeding onward the land about Cape Schanck will be seen more to the eastward, making at first like a long low island, and also trending to the S.E.; and as you near the entrance Flinders Point will open out on the port bow, which is an isolated saddle-shaped scrubby hill, about 150 feet high, and is an excellent mark for the port, there being no high land at this part of the coast near it. Care should be taken in thick or hazy weather not to mistake Flinders Point for Port Phillip Heads, which, in several instances, has led to vessels going ashore.

APPROACHING THE HARBOR FROM THE EASTWARD.

Vessels steering for the Heads from the southward and eastward usually make the land about Cape Schanck, which cannot be mistaken, from the bold precipitous character of the coast. The opening into Western Port to the N.E., and the unbroken trending of the coast in a N.W. direction, thence to Port Phillip Heads. The extremity of Cape Schanck is distinguished by a marked isolated basaltic rock, called the Pulpit; it and a small reef awash lies off the Cape three cables' length in a S.E. direction. There is a fixed and flashing white light upon the highest part of the Cape, the tower of which is painted white. Vessels having passed Cape Schanck should keep a good offing in running down towards the entrance until they open out the Shortland's Bluff lighthouses, which are not seen before bearing N. $\frac{1}{2}$ E., owing to the high land of Point Nepean intervening, nor when near the Heads; bring the Point Lonsdale lighthouse to the westward of N.W. before opening out the high lighthouse to the west of the obelisk.

Flinders Point Reef.—A detached reef lies about a mile in a S.W. by W. direction from Flinders Point, with deep water just to the southward of it.

Point Lonsdale.—Point Lonsdale forms the western side of the entrance to Port Phillip, and bears from Flinders Point E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. 6 miles, and W. 2 miles from Point Nepean; it is neither so high or well marked in outline as the latter, but can now easily be distinguished by a light and look-out house, telegraph station, and tidal flagstaff, near its south-east extremity. The light and look-out house is a wooden building, 40 feet high, painted in alternate horizontal bands of red and black, each 10 feet deep, commencing with red at the top.

Point Nepean.—Point Nepean terminates the peninsula which slopes gradually W.N.W. from Arthur's Seat; it forms the eastern side of the entrance, is higher than Point Lonsdale, and consists of a series of sandy hummocks slightly covered with low bushes. A small rocky islet, upon which there is a cone shaped red beacon lies W. two and a half cables' length from Nepean Point.

Shortland's Bluff.—Shortland's Bluff is situated inside the Heads, about two and a quarter miles N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. from Point Lonsdale; it is well marked by two lighthouses, an obelisk, electric telegraph station, and flagstaff, the lighthouses are 1056 feet apart, and bear from each other S. 33. W. and N. 33. E. The Obelisk stands a little to the eastward of the low lighthouse, it is 50 feet high, colored lower half white upper half red, and is the leading mark to clear the Corsair and Lightning rocks.

High lighthouse.—The high lighthouse exhibits a fixed bright white light, visible from seaward to vessels in the offing from about E. by N. to N., but vessels close in with the Lonsdale land will not see the light except from N.E. by E. to N. The light is visible within the Heads from S.W. by W. to about N.E. by E., i.e. from the Swan Spit lighthouse round southerly to Lonsdale Bight.

The tower is built of bluestone, and remains its natural color. The centre of the light is one hundred and thirty feet above high-water level, and visible at a distance of seventeen miles, allowing ten feet for the height of the eye, and at lesser distances according to the state of the atmosphere.

Low light.—Fixed red and white. The low lighthouse tower is painted white.

The centre of the light is ninety feet above high-water level. The white light is visible at a distance of fourteen miles, and the red light at a distance of ten miles, and at lesser distances according to the state of the atmosphere.

The low light shows white from about N.E. by E. to N.E., and from N.N.E. to W. by N.; and red from about N.E. to N.N.E.

* These Sailing Directions are published in lieu of those contained in the Gazette of 7th March, 1865 (page 561, &c. ante), in which occur some inaccuracies.

These bearings, it will be observed, show the low light to be white from Point Lonsdale to a safe berth clear of the reef; thence red to a safe berth clear of the Corsair Rock; thence white to a line passing from the lighthouse through the south channel to the southward of the Pope's-eye and black buoys, and to the northward of the white buoys, so that vessels caught after dark with light winds or adverse tide in the south channel will be aided in their passage through by a bearing of the light.

The change of color from red to white is intended to warn vessels approaching Points Lonsdale and Nepean Reefs to haul to the eastward or westward, as the case may be, to get into the stream of red light which will lead them clear of both reefs.

The two lights in one is the safest course for vessels of heavy draught entering between the Heads.

Swan Spit Light.—The Swan Spit lighthouse is built on piles on the S.W. end of the spit, in fifteen feet at low water, two hundred and fifty fathoms off shore.

There are two small sand knolls outside of the lighthouse, with not more than twelve feet of water over them, bearing respectively from the lighthouse E.N.E. and S.E. by E., distant the former 65, the latter 50 fathoms.

Vessels must not approach the lighthouse nearer than seventy fathoms, outside of which distance there is a clear channel of one-third of a mile, with three, four, and five fathoms water.

This light shows white from about E.N.E. to N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E., and from N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. to N. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W., and red from N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. to N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. and N. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. to S. $\frac{1}{4}$ W.

These bearings show white from the Queenscliff jetty round to a safe berth clear of No. 1 black buoy; thence red to a safe berth clear of the Royal George white perch buoy; thence white to the chequered buoy on Nicholson's Knoll; thence red across the Symonds and Luella's Channels, and up the West and Cole's Channels.

Temporary lighthouse on Point Lonsdale.—Fixed red and green.—A temporary fixed harbor light is exhibited on Point Lonsdale, to guide vessels clear of the Lightning and Lonsdale Rocks. This light is colored green to seaward and red towards the harbor and Point Nepean, and illuminates an arc of about fifty degrees of the horizon, and is visible, the green light at a distance of about four miles, the red light about seven miles, within the following bearings:—

Green light from about N.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. to N.W. by N.

Red light from about W. $\frac{1}{4}$ N. to N.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W.

These bearings are magnetic and are given from the ship, not from the lights.

PILOT WATERS.

Pilots.—The pilot vessels cruise from three to twelve miles outside the Heads, borrowing on either shore according to the weather.

Pilot flag.—Pilot vessels carry by day a red and white flag in horizontal stripes, white uppermost, at the mainmast head, and between sunset and sunrise exhibit a bright light at the foremast head, and show in the waist a flash-light every quarter of an hour.

Signal for a pilot.—Vessels steering for the port are bound to show the usual flag for a pilot when within four leagues of the entrance, and if the pilot vessel be in sight, they must wait a reasonable time to allow a pilot to board. Vessels which miss the pilot schooner will be boarded by a pilot from a whaleboat when they are inside Point Lonsdale; but all ships should, if possible, take pilots outside the Heads. All vessels trading between this and any other Australian port are exempt from pilotage, provided the master holds a certificate from the Victoria Pilot Board that he is competent to pilot his vessel. Such vessels, on arriving within four leagues of the entrance, must have a large white flag hoisted at the mainmast head, to be kept flying until past Swan Point, under a heavy penalty, which is rigorously enforced, in order to prevent the pilots' time being unnecessarily taken up running after ships which do not require their services.

Tidal signals.—The following tidal signals are exhibited daily at Point Lonsdale flagstaff between sunrise and sunset, and the signal-keeper has instructions, if he sees ships approaching the Heads and running into danger, to warn them by means of Maryatt's signals. Strangers therefore should watch these signals.

Flood-tide signals.—A blue flag will be hoisted half-mast high when the tide begins to flow in the middle of the entrance between Point Lonsdale and Point Nepean; it will be kept flying all the first quarter of the flood tide.

The second quarter, a blue flag at the mast-head.

The third quarter, a red flag half-mast high.

The last quarter, a red flag at the mast-head.

Ebb-tide signals.—During ebb tide the signals are as follows, viz.:

The first quarter, a blue flag half-mast high, with a ball underneath.

The second quarter, a blue flag at the mast-head, with a ball underneath.

The third quarter, a red flag half-mast high, with a ball underneath.

The last quarter, a red flag at the mast-head, with a ball underneath.

Irregularity of tides.—By attention to these signals, the true state of the tide, which cannot always be ascertained by the usual process of finding the time of high-water, will be known, the strength and duration of the tide being so much influenced by the wind and weather.

Causes of wreck at the Heads.—A careful enquiry into the casualties which have occurred at the entrance of this port has shown that in nearly every case they have taken place in consequence of the vessels either attempting to enter the Heads at night without a pilot or against a strong ebb-tide, which it must be remembered runs partly athwart the entrance with great force, frequently at the rate of seven knots an hour, causing a high, confused, tumbling sea, which in southerly or westerly gales often breaks from point to point. A shipmaster must not suppose that because he has a fine fair wind outside the Heads he can always force his ship against the ebb. To this error is attributable the loss of several ships. The wind, although fresh outside, frequently falls light just as a vessel gets in the tide-ripple between the Heads, when she becomes unmanageable; and even with a strong breeze vessels often sheer athwart the tide, which hereabouts forms a series of strong irregular eddies.

Entrance to Port Phillip.—The entrance to Port Phillip is between Points Lonsdale and Nepean, bounded by reefs off each point, and two outlying sunken dangers, the Lonsdale and Lightning Rocks. The former on the west, the latter on the east side of the fairway, leaving a clear navigable channel of half a mile between them, with five fathoms close to the Lonsdale Rock and from seven to nine fathoms in mid-channel, and close over towards the Lightning Rock; but ships of heavy draught should endeavor to keep in mid-channel, as the strong tide-ripple causes them to plunge several feet below the level of the water.

Lonsdale Reef.—Lonsdale Reef extends S.E. from the Point three cables' lengths, is about one cable length broad. The greater part dries at low water.

Lonsdale Rock.—Lonsdale Rock lies S. 56° E. six cables' lengths from the tidal flagstaff; it is a small pinnacle rock, having only eighteen feet water over it, with four and five fathoms close to. There is a navigable channel, one hundred and fifty fathoms wide, between the end of the reef and the rock, for vessels, in daylight drawing under fourteen feet.

Nepean Reef.—Nepean Reef extends from the point to the rocky islet; thence W. four and a half cables' lengths to the Corsair Rock. The reef dries at low water to the islet, the remainder is covered with from one to three fathoms water. A small detached ten-foot rock lies about one hundred and fifty feet N.N.E. from the Corsair; several pinnacle rocks have recently been found to exist between the latter and end of Nepean Reef, which completely blocks up the narrow channel hitherto supposed to exist there.

Corsair Rock.—The Corsair Rock may be considered as the outer end of Nepean Reef; it is twenty feet in diameter, having eleven feet water over it; the thwart mark is the cone shaped red beacon on the rocky islet on with Point Nepean white beacon bearing E. and W.

Lightning Rocks.—These recently discovered dangers consist of two rocky patches nearly one hundred fathoms apart, and bear about N.W. by W. and S.E. by E. from each other; a line passing through the Lonsdale lighthouse and tidal flagstaff leads over the centre of both patches.

The eastern patch is about fifteen fathoms in extent, having not more than twenty-nine feet over its shoalest part with seven and eight fathoms close to, and lies eight-tenths of a mile S.W. by W. from the red beacon on Nepean dry rock, and about one mile and four-tenths S.E. by E. from Point Lonsdale flagstaff.

The western patch upon which the Lightning struck is the most dangerous, being situated nearer the fairway, and having only eighteen feet over the head of the shoalest part. Shortly after this danger was discovered about five feet was knocked off the head of one of the rocks by blasting.

The western patch lies about nine-tenths of a mile W.S.W. from the red beacon on Nepean dry rock, and about one mile and one-tenth S.E. by E. from the Lonsdale flagstaff.

To avoid these dangers, all vessels, whether bound in or out, except those of a very moderate draught, should endeavor to keep to the westward of them both.

Victory Shoal.—Victory Shoal lies nearly midway between the low lighthouse and Point Lonsdale, about half a mile off shore, in a line with Shortland's Bluff and tidal flagstaffs. It is a rocky patch about a cable's length in extent, with ten feet over it, and three and four fathoms a little outside. But the whole of Lonsdale Bight is shallow, foul ground, and should be avoided by all vessels.

Royal George Sand.—Royal George Sand lies on the eastern side of the entrance to the West Channel; its western end is about a mile S.W. by W. from the Swan Spit lighthouse, and a mile and a half east from the upper lighthouse. The eastern end is separated from Symond's Spit by a seventeen feet channel, two cables wide. The knoll is marked by two white buoys bearing from each other W. by S. and E. by N., least water eleven feet about midway between the buoys, which lie in sixteen feet.

Pope's-eye Bank.—This shoal or sand is about a mile long, and two cables in width, having two feet on the northern and three fathoms on the southern end, which lies a mile and a half S.W. by S. from Swan Spit lighthouse, and nearly the same distance S.E. by E. from the upper lighthouse. The S.W. end of the Pope's-eye is marked by a red buoy, the Royal George buoy about S.S.W.

Nicholson's Knoll.—Nicholson's Knoll is a small sand ridge off the Quarantine ground, with three fathoms over it, and five, six, and seven fathoms close to. This ridge is of recent formation, and lies in a north and south direction, is about a cable's length in extent; it is marked by a chequered black and white buoy moored on the middle of it. The flagstaff on eastern end of the Quarantine ground bearing S. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W., and upper lighthouse bearing N.W. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W., places you on the ridge.

Inside the Heads.—Inside the Heads for the first two and a half miles the bay is free from other dangers; above that distance it widens to the north and east, and for ten miles is covered with sandbanks, through which there are several channels, three only being buoyed, namely, the South, West, and Cole's Channels; the others are narrow and intricate.

South Channel.—The South Channel is nine miles long, free from dangers, varying from one to a quarter of a mile in breadth; soundings very irregular, varying in the centre from seven fathoms at the western end to twelve and twenty fathoms off Point King, and decreasing to four and half fathoms at the eastern end, shoaling gradually from the middle to three fathoms at the sides, then suddenly to two fathoms and less. It is marked by thirteen buoys, eight black on the port hand, and five white on starboard, the former marked with odd, the latter with even numbers, commencing from seaward; the first and last black buoys and the easternmost or Capel Sound white buoy are each surmounted by a staff and ball.

West Channel.—The West Channel is five miles long and about half a mile broad, free from dangers, with an even bottom having from three to four fathoms through it, shoaling suddenly towards both sides. This channel is most used, and is marked by a lighthouse, lightship, and fourteen buoys. The lighthouse is built on piles in fifteen feet water on the Swan Spit. The lightship is moored in seventeen feet, at the north end of the channel, is painted red, has two masts, and shows two fixed white lights. There are five black buoys on the port hand with odd numbers, and eight white buoys on the starboard hand with even numbers. The first white buoy on the Royal George bank and the large cone buoy (No. 12), on the N.W. elbow of the bank which forms the east side of the channel, are surmounted by a staff and ball.

Cole's Channel.—Cole's Channel is the westernmost, is three miles long and about one quarter of a mile broad, with thirteen feet in the fairway, shoaling gradually to the shore, but suddenly towards the bank which separates it from the West Channel. The entrance to this channel is above Swan Island; it is but little used. There are two red buoys on the starboard hand.

MARKS TO CLEAR THE DANGERS AT THE ENTRANCE AND SHOALS INSIDE THE HEADS.

To clear Lonsdale Reef.—Vessels drawing under fourteen feet may, in the day time, pass between Lonsdale Reef and the rock by keeping Swan Point a little open east of Shortland's Bluff; and to pass to the eastward of these dangers, keep Swan Point beacon open east of Shortland's Bluff, until the lighthouse on Point Lonsdale opens well out clear of the tidal flagstaff.

To clear the Lightning Rocks.—Keep the high lighthouse open to the westward of the Obelisk until you open Lonsdale Lighthouse well out to the northward of the tidal flagstaff when bound inwards, and well out to the southward when bound out.

To clear the Corsair Rocks and adjacent dangers.—Keep the south end of a two-storied building (situated close to the high lighthouse) open to the westward of the Obelisk until you open the white beacon on Point Nepean well out to the northward of the red beacon when bound inwards, and well out to the southward when bound outwards.

To clear Victory Shoal.—Keep Swan Spit lighthouse open east of Shortland's Bluff.

To clear Royal George Knoll.—Keep Swan Spit lighthouse to the eastward of N.E. by E. until the outer end of Queenscliff jetty bears W. by S.

To clear Pope's-eye Bank.—To pass to the westward of the southernmost end of the Pope's-eye do not bring Swan Spit lighthouse to the northward of N. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E.

To clear the bank between Shortland's Bluff and Swan Spit light.—Keep the Lonsdale lighthouse open of Shortland's Bluff.

To clear Nicholson's Knoll.—To pass to the northward, keep the rocky islet a little open of Point Nepean. To pass to the southward, shut in the rocky islet with Point Nepean; when the eastern flagstaff of the Quarantine ground bears S.W. by S. you are above the knoll.

DIRECTIONS FOR ENTERING BETWEEN THE HEADS.

Waiting the turn of tide.—It is advisable for vessels waiting the turn of tide outside the Heads to keep Point Lonsdale shore abroad, where the tide runs fairer, and in bad weather small vessels incur less danger from tide ripple and will have smoother water.

Proper time to enter the Heads.—Should a pilot not have been taken on board outside the Heads, and the last quarter ebb signal be up, or it be flood tide, steer, when within three leagues of the entrance, to bring the high lighthouse on Shortland's Bluff to bear N.E. by N., upon which line of bearing, as you approach the Heads, the low lighthouse will be seen to seaward, of the upper one, when steer as follows:—

Fair wind and flood tide.—With a fresh fair wind and flood tide, keep the two lighthouses in one until you bring the rocky islet off Point Nepean open to the westward of that point, when you are in clear of the reefs.

Scant wind and flood tide.—With a scant or light wind (easterly) and flood tide, do not shut Swan Point beacon in with Shortland's Bluff.

Entering against ebb tide.—Directions for the West Channel.—Entering the Heads with ebb tide, steer, when within two miles of the Heads, to get the low lighthouse about a point open east of the high one, until you draw near Point Lonsdale, when haul as close round the reef as practicable, taking care, however, if your draught is over fourteen feet, not to shut Swan Island beacon in with Shortland's Bluff, nor on any account to shut in Swan Point with the Bluff, until you are clear of the reefs, and have the rocky islet off Point Nepean open to the westward of that point, when, if bound through the West Channel, steer N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. for the first white buoy, which is surmounted by a staff and ball, and lies on the E. side of the S.W. end of the West Channel, giving Shortland's Bluff a berth of two cables' length in order to avoid a ledge which runs about that distance S.E. of it; the white perch buoy and the red buoy on the Pope's-eye shoal are to be left on the starboard hand, and, when within a cable's length of the former, haul a little to the northward to pass between it and the Swan Spit lighthouse, taking care not to keep Point Lonsdale lighthouse to the westward of Shortland's Bluff until you bring Swan Island beacon on with the Swan Spit lighthouse, to which give a berth of three-quarters of a cable's length in passing; then steer about N.N.E., keeping the lightship a little on the starboard bow until past No. 12 white buoy which has a staff and ball, when bring the lightship on the port bow, passing her to the eastward; and if bound to Hobson's Bay steer N. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. for Gellibrand's Point lightship; if to Geelong, steer N. by W. for Prince George buoy, and follow the directions for that port.

Vessels under fifteen feet draught may enter the West Channel between the Royal George and Pope's-eye sands by keeping about midway between the white perch buoy and the red buoy until Swan Island beacon comes on with the white cask buoy bearing N.W. by N., when steer for the Swan Spit lighthouse leaving the cask buoy on the port hand.

With a scant wind against ebb tide.—Vessels with a scant wind proceeding up channel against the ebb must not stand too close over towards the east bank, as they are liable to be horsed on it, especially at the north end of the channel.

Vessels working in between the Heads standing to the westward must keep Swan Island beacon open of Shortland's Bluff until Point Lonsdale lighthouse is well open of the tidal flagstaff, when vessels of light draught may stand more in shore, keeping Swan Point a little open of Shortland's Bluff, making due allowance, however, for the set of the flood tide; and above the Bluff, standing to the westward, do not shut in the Lonsdale lighthouse with the low lighthouse until you are a cable's length above the pile lighthouse when do not stand inside the line of buoys.

South Channel inwards.—If bound through the South Channel, after clearing the Heads, steer along the south side of the Bay, with Flinders Point kept just open of Point Lonsdale, in from nine to eleven fathoms, until Point King bears S. by E., leaving the red buoy on the Pope's-eye Shoal on the port hand; and when the white buoy off Point King comes on with that point keep the flagstaff on Observatory Point a large sail's length open to the southward of a small knob on the top of the western ridge of Point Nepean, which mark leads up in mid-channel until the white cliff bears S. by E., when bring the flagstaff just open to the southward of the knob, until the easternmost white buoy comes on with a white tower on the top of Arthur's Seat, which will lead through the channel, leaving the perch white buoy on the starboard hand, and when to the eastward of it, keep it open of Observatory Point flagstaff astern until the easternmost black buoy is on with Mount Martha, then steer E. by N. for the latter buoy, leaving it on the port hand, when, if bound to Hobson's Bay, steer N. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. twenty-seven miles; or, if bound to Geelong, N.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. fourteen miles for the black buoy off Prince George's Bay. (See Sailing Directions for Geelong.)

Beating up the South Channel.—Vessels beating through the South Channel must be guided by the lead, not standing into less than four fathoms on either side, nor within the line of buoys; and when past the east white buoy there is plenty of room between the middle ground and the shore, which may be approached within half a mile into five fathoms, and when clear of the middle ground, and to the northward of Mount Martha, you can stand to the westward until the northernmost land of Inland Head comes on with Station Peak.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE GUIDANCE OF VESSELS NAVIGATING THE ENTRANCE TO PORT PHILLIP AT NIGHT.

Vessels from the southward and eastward will see the high light (fixed white) on a N. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. bearing, and the white low light (fixed white and red) on a N. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. bearing, as they proceed to the N.W. to bring the two lights in one, the low light will change its color from white to red on a N.N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. bearing.

Vessels from the southward and westward sighting the high light to the eastward of N.E. by E. should, to avoid the Barwon light, haul out to the eastward to open the low light, which will be first seen white on a N.E. by E. bearing, and as they proceed to bring the two lights in one the low light will change its color from white to red on a N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. bearing.

A reference to the chart will show that, as hitherto, the best and safest course between the Heads is to keep the two Shortland's Bluff lights in one line on a N.E. by N. and S.W. by S. bearing; but should the wind become scant and the vessel compelled to make a tack when in the vicinity of the Corsair Rock or the Point Lonsdale Reef, these dangers will be avoided by vessels of light draught so long as the Shortland's Bluff low red light is kept in sight. Vessels so circumstanced must be careful to go about, or haul towards mid-channel before the low light changes from red to white.

Point Lonsdale light.—The light (fixed red and green) on Point Lonsdale has been established to warn vessels, entering or departing at night, of the vicinity to, and when they are clear of the Lonsdale and Lightning Rocks.

Vessels steering from sea to Port Phillip, and near the entrance, will first see the Point Lonsdale green light on a N.W. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. bearing, and so long as they have it full in view they are to seaward of the Lonsdale and Lightning Rocks; when the two colors, red and green, begin to blend, it indicates vicinity to the line which passes on a N.W. by W. bearing from the light over these dangers.

When the Lonsdale red light opens out full vessels are inside of them, and when they shut it in on a W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. bearing they are inside of the Corsair Rock.

Vessels steering towards the West Channel will avoid the reef off Shortland's Bluff, and the bank between it and Swan Spit, and also clear the Royal George Sand, when in their vicinity, by not opening out the white light on Swan Spit, but keeping the red light in sight until within three cables' length of it, when they will be above the Royal George buoy, and should haul to the eastward, and open the white light, giving the lighthouse a berth of three quarters of a cable's length in passing.

Vessels navigating the South Channel are reminded that the low light on Shortland's Bluff now shows white from sea up the South Channel to the east end of Capel Sound.

Vessels below Capel Sound white perch buoy will be aided in their passage up or down the South Channel, and avoid the north sand by not shutting the light in, it being masked on a west by north bearing.

With a view of keeping the fairway to the West Channel clear, vessels of light draught are recommended, when anchoring off Shortland's Bluff, to bring up as close over towards the shore as possible on the N.W. side of the fairway, indicated at night by the Swan Spit light changing from red to white on a N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. bearing, and by day the Swan Spit lighthouse just opens E. of No. 1 black buoy.

Vessels of heavy draught should anchor on the S.E. side of the fairway, which is indicated at night by the Swan Spit light changing from red to white on a N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. bearing, and by day the Swan Spit lighthouse just opens W. of No. 2 white perch buoy.

Masters of vessels about to anchor at night off Shortland's Bluff are requested to note that the low light shuts in on a W. by N. bearing.

After passing the West Channel lightship steer N. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. for the lightship off Gellibrand's Point, which point forms the western side of Hobson's Bay. A long shallow flat sand stretches out a mile and a half from the eastern shore; its western end is marked by a white upright buoy with a perch in five fathoms bearing N.E. by N. from the lightship. The water shoals gradually from the buoy to high water mark; to the southward and eastward of the buoy the bank trends away in the direction of the Red Bluff between St. Kilda and Brighton.

The best anchorage in Hobson's Bay is in four fathoms, the old lighthouse from S. to S.W. moor with open haws to the southward, laying the heaviest anchor out to the westward during the winter months, and to the eastward during the summer months.

Beating up from West Channel lightship to Hobson's Bay, Gellibrand's Point.—Vessels beating up from the lightship to Hobson's Bay must not stand into less than five fathoms on either side, nor approach the western shore nearer than three miles until Station Peak comes on with Point Cook; when in, standing to the westward, do not bring the lightship to the eastward of N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., nor until you are at the northward of it approach Gellibrand's Point within a mile. The bottom, that distance off shore from Wilson's Point to Gellibrand's Point, is rocky, with patches having not more than eight feet over them.

East side of Port Phillip Bay.—"Anonyma" Shoal.—The east side of the Bay is clear of danger, and may be approached within a mile from Arthur's Seat right up to the Red Bluff, off which a rocky shoal lies at the distance of a mile, with only four feet water over it, and three fathoms within a cable's length all round to within a quarter of a mile of the beach. A chequered beacon has been placed on the shoal, between which and Hobson's Bay do not stand into less than three fathoms.

River Yarra.—The mouth of the Yarra is on the west side of Hobson's Bay; the fairway is marked by black beacons on the port and red on the starboard hand. A new entrance has recently been cut from Hobson's Bay into the river about two cables' length N.E. of its mouth. This entrance is marked by a black cone-shaped buoy with staff and ball, moored in fourteen feet water at the N.W. angle of Hobson's Bay, which kept in one with two black dolphins, each surmounted by a staff and ball, bearing W. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., mark the port side of the channel, the starboard side being marked by red dolphins. This cut is 270 fathoms long, and 30 fathoms wide; least water, ten feet at low water.

Tidal signals, River Yarra.—The height of water in the Yarra is now shown by a self-acting tide-gauge, erected on the outer red dolphin at the entrance of the river.

To assist persons on board vessels at a distance in ascertaining the height of water shown by the self-acting tide-gauge six projecting arms are fixed on its south side, the upper edge of each arm coinciding with the lower part of each figure on the face of the tide-gauge, which commences with the ten feet mark.

N.B.—The top of the indicator, as it is moved up or down by the tide, shows on the face of the gauge the height of water over the shoalest part of the fairway.

DIRECTIONS FOR GEELONG.

Inner Harbor of Geelong.—Point Wilson Shoal.—Ships bound to Geelong should steer from the West Channel lightship N. by W. six miles for the black buoy, which lies in seven fathoms at the north end of Prince George's Bank. When abreast of this buoy, and the extreme end of Indented Head bearing S. $\frac{1}{2}$ W., steer W. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. until Point Richards bears S. by E., off which a shoal lies due north about three quarters of a mile, with not more than ten feet on its northern end, which is marked by a black buoy bearing from Point Richards N. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. in 4½ fathoms of water; when the latter is on with Point Richards haul up S. W. by W. for the white perch buoy on the southern part of Point Wilson shoal, which may be passed on either side, unless the vessels draught of water exceed fourteen feet; in that case round the buoy as close as practicable, leaving it on the starboard hand. The course is then W. for the anchorage off Point Henry, about a mile off shore in four fathoms, with the middle of the town of Geelong just open clear of Point Henry; but if bound into the inner harbor, steer, when you have the town open, to bring the beacon on the Bird Rock to bear N.W. by N., which will lead you down in three fathoms to the entrance of the ship channel, when the water shoals gradually to sixteen feet within a few fathoms of the white buoy, which must be left on the starboard hand; then steer for the lightship, keeping it just on the starboard bow until close to; pass her on the port side, then haul up for the red buoy, and bring it half a point on the starboard bow, leaving it and all the red dolphins on the starboard hand, and black buoy and dolphins on the port hand. From thence a course may be steered S.W. by S. three and a half miles to the anchorage at three cables' length to the northward of the wharves, in four fathoms water. This ground being soft mud mixed with sand and clay, a long scope of chain is required in strong winds to prevent the ship's driving.

Tidal Signals, Geelong.—The following Tidal Signals are exhibited on board the Geelong lightship, to indicate the depth of water on the bar:—

| | Feet. |
|------------------------------------|-------|
| One blue flag | 10 |
| One ball | 10½ |
| One ball, blue flag over | 11 |
| One ball, blue flag under | 11½ |
| Two balls | 12 |
| Two balls, blue flag under | 12½ |
| Two balls, blue flag over | 13 |
| Two balls, red flag under | 13½ |
| Two balls, red flag over | 14 |
| Two balls, red flag between | 14½ |
| One red flag | 15 |

Directions for the New Channel into Corio Bay and Geelong Harbor.—The artificial channel across the extensive sand-bank which fronts Corio Bay has been deepened to, eighteen feet at low water.

The channel is about one mile and two-tenths long, in an E. by N. and W. by S. direction, and is 132 feet wide at bottom, sloping 165 feet at the surface at its narrowest part.

Entering from sea, the edges of the channel are marked by white beacons on the starboard hand, and black beacons on the port hand.

About half a mile S.E. from the east end of the main channel a passage eighteen feet deep at low water, about a cable's length in a N.W. and S.E. direction, and half a cable wide, has been dredged across the neck of sand which forms the south-eastern side of the deep basin lying to the eastward of the bar. This passage is marked by four buoys, two black on port side, and two white on starboard side.

The easternmost white buoy is cone-shaped, and, as a distinguishing mark, is moored broad end down; it swims nearly upright, and is surmounted by a staff and ball; the other three are cask buoys.

The foregoing sailing directions for Geelong will be sufficient to guide navigators to the upright white cone buoy at the S.E. end of the outer cut; passing which, steer direct for the Bird Rock beacon, taking care to keep it a little open to the westward of a gap in the trees N.W. of the rock, until you begin to bring the line of black beacons in one, which marks the new channel, when haul sharp up and pass through, keeping midway between the two lines of beacons.

As the tides, both flood and ebb, set across the entrance of the new channel, care must be taken that the vessel is kept under good command, and not horsed over on either bank.

Vessels drawing twenty feet can, by choosing a proper time of tide, and employing steam, pass through this channel into Corio Bay up to the wharfs.

The height of water in the new channel can always be ascertained by adding eight feet to the height in the old channel as indicated by the tidal signals hoisted on board the lightship.

Vessels intending to proceed from sea to Geelong, and requiring the harbor pilot, would save time by sending a telegram from the Heads (stating draught of water) to the harbor master, who would have a pilot ready to board the vessel off Point Henry.

Masters of vessels, pilots, and others using the channel, are specially cautioned to keep in remembrance its very limited width, and to use every precaution to avoid collision with other vessels, or the buoys, or beacons.

To prevent accidents, although there is width enough for ordinary vessels to pass each other from opposite directions in this channel, it is advisable not to do so. Persons in charge of vessels are recommended when they see another vessel entering the channel from an opposite direction, to await outside either entrance until she has passed through.

Vessels beating between the West Channel lightship and Geelong.—Vessels bound to Geelong having a contrary wind between the lightship and Prince George's bank buoy should not stand into less than five fathoms, nor bring the lightship to the westward of S. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E., until they open out Station Peak clear of Indented Head, keeping Leading Hill open of the south Red Bluff until they are to the north of the buoy, between which and the red buoy off Point Richards do not stand into less than five fathoms, not bringing Point Richards to the westward of W. by S. Between Point Richards and Point Henry do not stand into less than four fathoms on the south side, nor less than five fathoms when standing to the north, keeping a good mile from the former and three miles from the latter shore.

Point Wilson Shoal.—A rocky bank, upwards of a mile in width, stretches due south from Point Wilson about three miles, with very irregular soundings, varying from ten feet to three fathoms; the white buoy on the southern end lies in four fathoms, with sixteen feet within a ship's length to the northward of it.

Course between Hobson's Bay and Geelong.—Vessels bound to Geelong from Hobson's Bay, whose draught of water exceeds fourteen feet, should steer S.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. twenty-four miles from a fair berth off Gellibrand's Point lightship for Point Wilson white buoy, bringing Point Henry to bear W. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. before Station Peak bears N.W. by W., when follow the directions already given above.

Point Henry to sea by West Channel.—Vessels leaving Point Henry for sea by the West Channel should steer E. for Point Wilson buoy, and from thence keep about a mile off shore until Point Richards bears south by east, when haul up E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. for the black buoy off Prince George's bank; a round hill, visible between the two highest hummocks of Station Peak, kept just open to the northward of the highest, will carry you clear of the bank. After passing the buoy, steer S. by E. six miles for the lightship.

Point Henry to sea by South Channel.—If bound to sea from Geelong by the South Channel, steer after passing Prince George's buoy S.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. twelve miles for the easternmost black buoy, which is surmounted by a staff and ball, when follow the directions given for South Channel outwards.

Best time to leave Hobson's Bay.—Vessels bound to sea by the West Channel will generally clear the Heads the same day by leaving Hobson's Bay two or three hours before daylight, when there is frequently a moderate land or northerly wind. A S. by W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. course from a fair berth off the lightship leads down to the West Channel lightship; after passing which steer for Swan Spit lighthouse, leaving the black buoys on the starboard and the white buoys on the port hand until you pass the lightship, when haul to the S.W., keeping Point Lonsdale a little open of Shortland's Bluff, leaving the Royal George buoy (white) on the port hand; after passing which, and the Pope's-eye (red buoy), the shoals are cleared, when a course may be steered for the extreme part of Shortland's Bluff, giving it in passing a berth of two cables' length, and in passing out between the Heads bring the opposite marks on which are given for entering.

SOUTH CHANNEL OUTWARDS.

Vessels bound to sea from Hobson's Bay by the South Channel should steer from a fair berth off Gellibrand's Point S. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. twenty-seven miles, for the easternmost black buoy off the middle ground, taking care to have the white cliffs bearing S.W. by W. before the top of Arthur's Seat bears S.S.E.; and after passing the black buoy on the middle ground, haul up for the south white cliff until you bring the easternmost white buoy open to the northward of the Observatory Point flagstaff; then keep away for the latter buoy, leaving it on your port hand, when a W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. course will take you down mid-channel, keeping the easternmost white buoy on with the top of Arthur's Seat astern, and the knob on Point Nepean open to the northward of the flagstaff on Observatory Point, leaving the black buoys on the starboard and white on the port hand, and when to the westward of Point King steer to pass midway between Observatory Point and the lighthouse, bringing the latter to bear in one N.E. by N., with which marks on be guided by the state of tides in proceeding to sea.

Vessels leaving Hobson's Bay with strong southerly winds, especially during the summer months, when these winds prevail, will sooner get to sea by working down the east side of Hobson's Bay, and going through the South Channel, where, having smooth water, they will be enabled to lead through the channel right out to sea; whereas by beating down the middle of the bay and taking the West Channel, more swell is experienced, and a large vessel would possibly have to anchor off the lightship, waiting for a shift of wind.

Caution.—No stranger should anchor close to the Heads, except it be to save the vessel from going ashore, although the coasters sometimes, to avoid being carried by the tide inside the Heads in a calm, anchor about a mile outside, where the bottom is sandy, and occasionally in the bight between Point Plinders and Point Lonsdale.

Anchorage inside the Heads.—The waters of Port Phillip Bay spread over a surface of upwards of eight hundred (800) square miles, three quarters of which are available for anchorage, the depth nowhere inside the lighthouses exceeding fifteen (15) fathoms; below them the bottom is rocky and the ground foul, with very irregular soundings. Off Point Nepean there are several deep holes with thirty, forty, and fifty-five fathoms water, and eight and ten fathoms close to.

Anchorage off the Lighthouse.—Vessels detained inside the Heads by contrary winds or tide may, during northerly or westerly winds, anchor with the high lighthouse bearing W. distant about a mile and a half, in from six to seven fathoms. The bottom below the above bearings is rocky. At night, keep the Spit light to the eastward of the West Channel lightship.

Anchorage in southerly gales.—With a southerly gale haul over under Point Nepean, abreast of the Quarantine Station, between Observatory Point and Point King, in from ten (10) to fourteen (14) fathoms, a mile off shore.

Not to anchor in the channels.—Capel Sound.—It is not advisable in bad weather to anchor in either the South or West Channel, on account of the tide and loose nature of the bottom; but in S.W. gales small vessels will find good shelter under Swan Spit in three and a half ($3\frac{1}{2}$) fathoms, the upper lightship just shut in with Swan Point, about half a mile off shore; and vessels bound up and caught in the South Channel with a northerly or N.W. gale will find anchorage in Capel Sound, by bringing the White Cliff to bear S.W., and the top of Arthur's Seat east, in from five (5) to seven (7) fathoms sandy bottom, but if daylight permits it would be better to run back to the anchorages off the lighthouses.

Northern end of West Channel.—Ships detained with southerly gales at the north end of the West Channel, will find good anchorage by bringing the lightship to bear S.W., just shutting in Station Peak with Indented Head.

Hobson's Bay.—Hobson's Bay is capable of affording shelter to upwards of eight hundred (800) sail. The holding ground is excellent, the depth from three (3) to five (5) fathoms over a bottom of stiff clay and mud.

Point Henry.—The best anchorage at Point Henry is with the hospital open clear of the point, in four (4) fathoms of stiff clay and mud, about three-fourths ($\frac{3}{4}$) of a mile off shore.

Port Phillip Bay.—Vessels navigating the bay above the channel may, if necessary, ride with good ground tackle in any part of it, there not being a greater depth than fifteen (15) fathoms all over the bay, and the holding ground good; but the north side is preferable, as the wind usually veers from north round westerly to S.W. making it the weather shore.

Lead to be always kept going.—In these directions it is taken for granted that when a ship is under weigh in pilot waters the lead will always be kept going; no man can be held blameless who neglects so valuable a guide.

TIDES IN PORT PHILLIP BAY.

The tides are so much influenced by the prevailing winds that only an approximate time of high water at full and change can be arrived at, which, with observations made at the undermentioned points, are as follows:—

| High water at full and change. | Vertical rise and fall. | | |
|---|-------------------------|--------------|------------|
| | H. M. | Spring Feet. | Neap Feet. |
| High water, on the beach at Point Lonsdale | 10 50 | 7 | 4 |

Flood tides at the Heads—Swan Point, West Channel, and South Channel.—The flood tide comes from the southward and eastward, increasing in strength as it nears the Heads, setting right into the entrance across and through the opening in the reefs with great force, spreading towards Shortland's Bluff and Point King, and decreasing in strength as it enters the channels, setting towards Swan Point, and through the West Channel in an oblique direction, tending towards the Duck Ponds and Indented Head, and above the lightship to the N.W. across Prince George's Bank, spreading from thence towards Geelong Bay, Point Cook, and Hobson's Bay. In the South Channel, the flood sets to the E.N.E. across the middle ground through the Pinnacle Channel and spreads along the eastern shore towards Hobson's Bay.

Set of Ebb Tide in the Bay.—Set of Tide at the Heads.—Rate of Tide at the Heads.—Current in Hobson's Bay.—The ebb tide sets out of Hobson's Bay towards the S.E. for a few miles, when it takes a more southerly direction towards Prince George's Bank; thence tending through the various channels in an oblique direction, the stream from Simon's Channel joining and turning that of the West Channel below the Royal George buoy, setting away towards the bight between Shortland's Bluff and Point Lonsdale; thence out through between the Heads with great force, the body of the tide setting athwart the entrance towards Point Nepean, and away to the S.E., along the land and into the bight between Nepean Point and Cape Schanck. Between the Heads the tide runs from five (5) to seven (7) knots; in the West and South Channels between two (2) and three (3) knots, and about a knot and a half in the bay above the channels. In Hobson's Bay, during the winter months, there is always a surface current running out, owing to the freshes which run down the river; this current frequently sets along both sides of the bay at the rate of two (2) knots. The tide is weak in Geelong Bay, except in the Ship Channel, where it sets two and a half knots across the bar, and becomes weaker as it spreads over Corio Bay.

Influence of the Wind upon the Tides.—The prevailing winds have a great effect upon the tides, both as regards their height and the time of high water.

A gale from N.N.W., N., and N.E., will keep back the flood tide for an hour, or even an hour and a half later than the time by calculation, and also decrease the height of the tide.

Winds from W. to S.S.W. considerably increase the height of the tide.

Chief Harbor Master.

The mortality of Melbourne and suburbs, together with the mean temperature in the shade, and the mean atmospheric pressure, during the month of February, for the last six years, were as follow:—

| Year. | Number of Deaths. | Mean Temperature. | Mean Height of Barometer. |
|-------------------|-------------------|-------------------|---------------------------|
| February, 1860 | 306 | 65.4° | 29.919 inches. |
| " 1861 | 363 | 65.0° | 29.693 " |
| " 1862 | 335 | 66.7° | 29.814 " |
| " 1863 | 279 | 66.1° | 29.839 " |
| " 1864 | 310 | 62.8° | 29.903 " |
| " 1865 | 386 | 64.4° | 29.868 " |
| Mean of six years | 330 | 65.1° | 29.839 " |

A high rate of mortality prevailed in Melbourne and suburbs during February. The deaths exceeded by twenty-one those in January, and by fifty-six the average of the month during the six years 1860-1865. The mean temperature of the month was nearly a degree lower, and the mean atmospheric pressure was slightly higher than the average of the same month during the years named.

Deaths of males occurred in the proportion of 53 per cent., those of females in that of 47 per cent., to the total mortality. Sixty-four per cent. of the deaths were of children who had not reached their fifth year, against 62, 65, 68, 66, and 64 per cent. in the respective months of February of the five previous years.

As many as 24 deaths occurred on the 6th, 21 on the 18th, and 20 on the 10th and 12th. These were the days of highest mortality. The day of lowest mortality was the 16th, on which only 8 deaths took place.

Three deaths occurred at more advanced ages than 75 years, viz., one of a male aged 76 of dysentery, one of a male aged 79 and one of a female aged 77 of old age.

Four adult males and 3 children died of drowning during the month; a female aged 44, one aged 42, and another aged 37 died of burns; a sharebroker aged 55 was killed by a fall from his horse; a male aged 28 died of a fractured skull; a cabinet-maker aged 44 committed suicide by cutting his throat; a child aged 2 was murdered by being suffocated in a cesspool; the body of an infant, believed to have been destroyed at its birth, was found in the Yarra.

Sixty deaths, or nearly 16 per cent. of the whole mortality, took place in public institutions, as follow:—Melbourne Hospital, 38; Benevolent Asylum, 3; Lying-in Hospital, 5; Immigrants' Home, 2; Yarra Bend Asylum, 5; Industrial Schools, 3; Melbourne Gaol, 4.

The following table shows the number of persons of all ages according to the last census, the number of deaths of persons under and over five years of age, the total at all ages, and the number of deaths to every 1000 of the population during the month of February, in the Statistical District of Melbourne and suburbs, and in each of the sub-districts of which it is composed:—

| Sub-districts. | Number of Persons of all ages in each sub-district on 7th April, 1861. | Deaths of both sexes in February, 1865. | | | Number of deaths to every 1000 of the population. |

NOTE.—The Melbourne Hospital is in Melbourne Proper, the Benevolent Asylum in North Melbourne and Carlton, and the Yarra Bend Lunatic Asylum in Jika-jika parish (remainder of).

Of the 248 children who died under the age of five years, 123, or 49 per cent., were males, and 125, or 51 per cent., were females; 177 were under one year of age, 53 were between one and two years, 7 were between two and three, 7 were between three and four, and 4 were between four and five.

The deaths of persons beyond five years of age numbered 138; of these, 83, or 60 per cent., were of males, and 55, or 40 per cent., were of females; of those dying, 5 were between five and ten, 1 was between ten and fifteen, 9 were between fifteen and twenty, 8 were between twenty and twenty-five, 12 were between twenty-five and thirty, 19 were between thirty and thirty-five, 10 were between thirty-five and forty, 20 were between forty and forty-five, 13 were between forty-five and fifty, 14 were between fifty and fifty-five, 8 were between fifty-five and sixty, 7 were between sixty and sixty-five, 4 were between sixty-five and seventy, 4 were between seventy and seventy-five, 3 were seventy-five and upwards, and 1 was of age unspecified.

The following table shows the causes of the deaths of persons of both sexes under and over five years of age, and the proportions per cent. of deaths from each cause, in Melbourne and suburbs, during the month of February, 1865:—

| Classes. | Causes of Death. | Under five years. | Over five years. | Total. | Proportions per cent. |
|----------|--------------------------------|-------------------|------------------|------------|-----------------------|
| I. | Zymotic diseases | 127 | 21 | 148 | 38.54 |
| II. | Constitutional diseases | 12 | 47 | 59 | 15.36 |
| III. | Local diseases | 42 | 51 | 93 | 24.22 |
| IV. | Developmental diseases | 64 | 5 | 69 | 17.97 |
| V. | Violent deaths | 3 | 12 | 15 | 3.91 |
| | Specified causes | 248 | 136 | 384 | 100.00 |
| | Causes not specified | ... | 2 | 2 | ... |
| | All causes | 248 | 138 | 386 | ... |

REGULATIONS FOR FEMALE REFORMATORY SCHOOLS UNDER THE ACT No. 216.

THE Governor in Council, in exercise of the power conferred by The Neglected and Criminal Children's Act, 1864, has approved of the subjoined Regulations for Female Reformatory Schools, viz.:-

1. The rules shall be read by the matron to every girl on admission to the school, and afterwards monthly.
2. No girl is to have in her possession any article not issued to her by the Government, and any girl may be searched whenever it may be considered necessary.
3. At the ringing of the bell at half-past Five o'clock in the morning in summer, and at Six in winter, the girls shall rise. Three-quarters of an hour will be allowed for washing, dressing, sweeping, rooms, and making beds. Prayers will then be read in the wards, which will occupy about a quarter of an hour, during which the utmost decorum must be observed, and, if necessary, enforced.
4. The girls employed in the preparation of the breakfast will be told off; those not so employed, in preparing for the work of the day, occupying half an hour. Breakfast at Seven in summer, and half an hour later in winter; half an hour allowed for breakfast. Grace to be said before and after every meal. After breakfast half an hour allowed for recreation.
5. At Eight o'clock one-half the number of girls in the institution will proceed to the work of the day, viz., washing, sewing, &c., till Twelve o'clock noon; the other half to lessons in spelling, reading, writing, &c., for two hours. The other two hours to be occupied in preparing the dinner and in other domestic work.
6. At Twelve o'clock noon all the inmates will dine, half an hour being allowed for that purpose, after which half an hour for recreation. At One o'clock all the inmates will reassemble; those at work in the morning will receive instruction in spelling, reading, writing, &c., for two hours; those at school in the morning will be employed in washing, sewing, &c., for two hours. Half an hour for recreation will then be allowed for all, after which, those employed in washing, &c., to return to their employment, and those who were in school to sewing, &c., for two hours, during which the matron shall read an instructive book.

7. At half-past Five o'clock work will cease. The matron will then select the number necessary to prepare the supper, not always the same girls, but all in turn; the others to employ themselves in any innocent amusement.

8. At Six o'clock supper, for which half an hour will be allowed. The matron will then select as many girls as may be necessary to clear away the supper things, &c. Recreation till half-past Seven.

9. Half-past Seven till Eight reading and prayers; at which hour all the inmates will retire for the night. Swearing and indecent language are at all times forbidden.

10. After retiring for the night, conversation of a proper character, and conducted in a proper tone, may be indulged for half an hour, after which all must be silent. Should anything be required the attendant on duty must be applied to, but no unnecessary trouble must be given.

11. Every girl who can read will be supplied with a Bible and Prayerbook.

12. Every girl must be strictly obedient and respectful to the officers of the institution, industrious at her employment, attentive when at school, neat and clean in habits and person, careful of her clothes, books, and other Government property, and quiet and orderly in her general conduct.

13. Should any girl wish to see the superintendent, she will give her name to the matron, who will insert it in a book kept for that purpose. But any girl desirous of complaining of her treatment must do so within a week of the occurrence complained of, or no notice will be taken of the complaint.

14. Any girl wishing to write to a relation may do so once in three months, or oftener if special necessity for so doing be shown, but no attempt must be made to send a letter without permission; and every letter written and received by any girl shall be inspected by the matron or other officer appointed for the purpose, who may, if she deem it fit, withhold such letter until she shall receive instructions respecting it from the superintendent.

15. Relations of girls will be permitted to visit them and converse with them, in the presence of an officer of the institution, at intervals of a month, on application to the superintendent.

16. Ministers of religion will be allowed to visit inmates of their respective denominations every day, except Saturday, between the hours of Eleven a.m. and Three p.m. Divine services will be performed twice on Sundays by the minister of religion appointed for that purpose, or in the absence of such minister by an officer of the institution; but no inmate shall be required to be present at the religious worship of any other denomination than that to which she belongs.

17. Any girl who may infringe these regulations, or be guilty of any disobedience of any lawful order, or of any turbulent, dishonest, or immoral conduct, may be punished by the matron; provided that a record of every such punishment shall be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose; provided also that no corporal punishment shall be inflicted, and that no girl be kept in solitary confinement for a longer period than three days; or on bread and water only for a longer period than forty-eight hours.

18. A dietary scale to be hung in a conspicuous place in each ward.

SHIRE OF CORIO.

BYE-LAWS FOR THE COUNCIL OF THE SHIRE OF CORIO.

THE business of the council shall be conducted on all ordinary occasions with open doors, and shall be open to the public; but any two councillors present may require the exclusion of strangers until it shall have been decided by the council whether the question proposed to be brought forward shall be discussed publicly or otherwise.

2. The regular meetings of the council shall be held on the first Wednesday of each month, commencing at Eleven o'clock a.m., the business to commence as soon as the legal quorum is present; but should such quorum not be present at the expiration of one hour after the said time appointed for meeting, the same shall be entered, with a note of the councillors present, in the minute book; and such meeting shall accordingly be adjourned.

3. The council may be summoned at any time by the secretary, upon receiving a written requisition from three or more councillors, stating the matter to be brought forward at such meeting, provided he shall give each member notice thereof in writing four clear days before the meeting.

4. The first business at each meeting of the council shall be the confirmation of the minutes of the previous meeting; and no discussion shall take place thereon, except as to their accuracy as a record of the proceedings. The minutes then confirmed shall be signed by the president for the time being.

5. After the confirmation of the minutes, the order of business shall be as follows, or as near thereto as may be practicable; but for the greater convenience of the council, at any particular meeting thereof, it may be altered by resolution to that effect:—

- (1.) Reading copies of letters sent.
- (2.) Reading letters received, and considering and ordering thereon.
- (3.) Reception of and reading petitions and memorials.
- (4.) Reading and ordering on reports of permanent committees.

(5.) Reading and ordering on reports of special committees.
6. The orders of the day shall include all matters arising out of the proceedings of former meetings of the council, and any business which the president may think fit to bring under consideration. Any of the council may, however, bring forward such business as he may consider advisable in the form of notice of motion, such notice to be given, in writing, to the secretary by the councillor bringing it forward at the meeting previous to that at which the same shall be taken into consideration.

7. Every petition addressed to the council shall be in proper form, and presented by one of its councillors, who shall be responsible for the petition being respectfully worded; and on the presentation of the same no debate shall take place thereon, unless notice shall have been given in the usual manner; and the only question that shall be entertained shall be that the petition be received, and, if necessary, that it be referred to a committee.

8. No motion shall be proceeded with unless the councillor who has given such notice, or one of the council authorised by him in writing, be present to proceed with the same when called upon.

9. The mover of any motion which may be referred to any committee shall, for the occasion, be a member of such committee.

10. No resolution previously passed by the council shall be revoked or altered, except in strict accordance with clause CXXXVI. of The Local Government Act.

11. The original manuscript of any motion or amendment that is submitted to the council shall be preserved until the minutes of the meeting at which the same has been disposed of are confirmed in the usual manner.

12. Points of order.—1st. Every councillor, including the president, shall stand while addressing the council. 2nd. The decisions of the president shall be final on all questions of order or practice, and he shall state the same without comment or argument. 3rd. No councillor shall digress from the subject under discussion, nor impute motives, and personal reflections shall be considered highly disorderly. 4th. Any councillor who shall use an expression capable of being applied offensively to any other councillor shall, if required by the president, withdraw such expression, and make a satisfactory apology to the council. 5th. That the president call to order any one out of order (whether he be a councillor or ratepayer); and if the person deemed out of order refuse to sit down and be still, the president shall order him by name to leave the room; and if he still persist in his interruptions, the president shall order his removal, or give him in charge and prosecute him as the law directs.

13. Any councillor desirous of making a motion or amendment, shall address the president, and shall not be interrupted unless called to order, when he shall be silent until the councillor calling to order shall have been heard thereon, and the question of order disposed of, when the councillor in possession of the chair shall proceed with the subject.

14. If two or more councillors shall rise to speak at the same time, the president shall decide which of them is entitled to priority.

15. Every motion and amendment shall be entered on the minutes, with the names of the mover and seconder; and on the division thereon, the votes shall be recorded.

16. One amendment only shall be discussed at one time, but if lost, another may be moved before the original motion is put to the vote.

17. A councillor moving a motion shall be held to have spoken thereon; but a councillor seconding a motion without remark shall not be held to have spoken upon it.

18. No councillor shall speak twice on the same question, except by way of explanation or reply upon an original motion of which he may have been the mover, or as the mover of an amendment last carried; after the reply, the amendment or the original motion, as the case may be, shall be immediately put to the vote.

19. All questions before the council relative to contracts, election of officers and committees, shall be decided by open voting.

20. Any councillor may of right require the production of any document of the council relating to the question or matter under discussion.

21. A question may be superseded—1st. By the adjournment of the council, on the motion "That the council do now adjourn." 2nd. By the previous question, viz., "That this question be now put," being proposed and negatived.

22. All contracts shall be made by tender, advertised, if for an amount of one hundred pounds or upwards, five clear days, in a local newspaper appointed by the council. Tenders to be addressed to the president, and only opened at the time of their consideration by the council; the respective amounts, together with the names of the parties tendering, to be entered in every case on the minutes of the council. When a tender shall have been accepted for an amount exceeding one hundred pounds sterling, a contract bond shall be entered into, signed by the contractor, who will then pay a deposit of ten pounds per cent. on the full amount of his contract for the faithful performance of his engagement, and also by the president and one other councillor, or in the absence of the president, the acting president, who shall act as such at meeting at which such tender shall have been accepted; and the expense (if any) of preparing such bond shall in all cases be borne by the person or persons giving such bond.

23. All payments shall be made by cheque, signed by the president and one other councillor, who shall be a member of the finance committee, and countersigned by the treasurer, who shall also stamp such cheque; and no such cheque shall be given unless at a regular meeting of the council.

24. That the council shall have the power to expend the Government grant-in-aid on the main roads of their district, in preference to any other public works; and that the following roads be adopted by the council as the main roads:—1st, Melbourne road; 2nd, Bacchus Marsh road; 3rd, Main Forest road; 4th, Anakie and Ballan road.

25. The valuers appointed by the council shall visit and examine each rateable property within the shire, and shall, after having valued such property, thereupon deliver, or cause to be delivered, to the owner or occupier thereof, a notice setting forth the amount at which each property is valued, together with other particulars necessary to describe such property, and every such notice shall be signed by the valuers.

26. The Shire Hall shall be open on Wednesday of each week between Ten o'clock in the forenoon and Three o'clock in the afternoon, during which time the secretary shall be in attendance for the purpose of transacting the ordinary business of the council. The surveyor shall be in attendance during the hours of business at every meeting of the council.

27. The secretary, surveyor, rate collector, and other officers shall furnish or deliver official reports to the council at each ordinary meeting.

28. Any bye-law may be suspended pro tem. in case of emergency, with the unanimous consent of the councillors present at any meeting.

The above Bye-laws were confirmed at a meeting of the Shire Council, held at the Shire Hall, Duck Ponds, on Wednesday, the first day of February, One thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.
