The mortality of Melbourne and suburbs, together with the mean temperature in the shade, and the mean atmospheric pressure during the month of January, for the last eight years, were as follow:—

	Number of Deaths.	Mean Temperature.	Mean Height of Barometer.
January 1860	407	68.7°	29.827 inches.
" 1861	450	67.2°	29.798 "
" 1862	401	68.0°	29.797 "
" 1863	443	68.2°	29.820 "
" 1864	324	64.1°	29.825 "
" 1865	365	63.1°	29.800 "
" 1866	470	66.3°	29.855 "
" 1867	657	67.0°	29.892 "
Mean of eight years	443	66.6°	29.838 "

A very high rate of mortality prevailed in Melbourne and suburbs during January. The deaths exceeded by 129 those in December; they were also more numerous than in any previous month of January, and exceeded the average of that month in eight years by 244.

The mean temperature was about half a degree above the average. It was not so high as in the month of January during the four years from 1860 to 1863 inclusive, but was higher than in that month of the three subsequent years. The atmospheric pressure was slightly higher than in the same month of any year of the previous seven.

The month has been more fatal to females than to males. Deaths of the former numbered 354 against 333 of the latter, the respective proportions being 52 and 48 per cent. It is unusual for the mortality of males to be exceeded by that of females, and that circumstance has only occurred twice before during the last eight years, namely, in February, 1861, and September, 1862. The excess of female mortality in the month under review was confined to that of children under five. Beyond that age more males died than females.

Seventy-five per cent. of the deaths were of children under five years of age. This is a higher relative rate than has been reached in any previous month of January. In January, 1866, the corresponding proportion was 65½ per cent.; in January, 1865, it was 65 per cent.; in January, 1864, and in January, 1863, it was 64 per cent.; in January, 1862, it was 68 per cent.; in January, 1861, it was 71 per cent.; and in January, 1860, it was 73 per cent.

The large number of 32 deaths occurred on the 12th and on the 25th. The next highest number was 28 on the 2nd, 9th, 24th, and 27th; then 26 on the 11th, 15th, and 19th. The smallest number of deaths in one day was 11 on the 4th, then 12 on the 14th.

Eight persons of 75 years old and upwards died during the month, as follow:—a male aged 75 of natural decay; another at the same age of apoplexy; one aged 76 of apoplexy; and one aged 80 of phthisis. A female aged 76 died of dysentery; one at the same age of bronchitis; and another of old age; also one aged 82 of bronchitis.

The violent deaths during the month numbered 13. Of these three were believed to be suicidal, and the remainder accidental. The following are the particulars of the latter:—A female child, aged 3, was run over by a railway train; a boy of 12, described as a merchant's clerk, died of lockjaw caused by injuries received during the performance of gymnastic exercises; a woman, aged 33, died of a burn caused by her clothes catching fire; a child of a year old was poisoned by an overdose of opium; a boy, aged 5, was drowned in the Saltwater River; a girl, aged 5, in the Darebin Creek; a girl aged 9, a baker aged 42, and a male teacher aged 57, in the Yarra; and a contractor, aged 43, in Port Phillip Bay. The suicidal deaths were as follow:—A gentleman, aged 19, shot himself; a male, of occupation unknown, aged 30, drowned himself in the Yarra; a carpenter, aged 35, cut his throat.

Sixty-eight deaths, or nearly a tenth of the whole, occurred in public institutions, as follow:—Melbourne Hospital 29, Lying-in Hospital 4, Benevolent Asylum 1, Immigrants' Home 10, Immigration Hospital 2, Yarra Bend Lunatic Asylum 4, Carlton Lunatic Asylum 1, Industrial Schools 9, Industrial Home 1, Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum 3, Military Barracks 1, Melbourne Gaol 3.

The following table shows the number of persons of all ages according to the last census; the number of deaths of persons under and over five years of age, the total at all ages, and the number of deaths to every 1000 of the population during the month of January, in the Statistical District of Melbourne and suburbs, and in each of the sub-districts of which it is composed:—

NOTE.—The Melbourne Hospital is in Melbourne Proper, the Benevolent Asylum in North Melbourne and Carlton, the Yarra Bend Lunatic Asylum in Jika-jika parish (remainder of), and the Industrial Schools in South Yarra and Prahran.

* This calculation is made upon the population at the last census, instead of the present population, as there are no means of estimating the changes which have taken place in the different districts since the census was taken.

The deaths of children under five years of age numbered 512, of which 240, or nearly 47 per cent., were of males, and 272, or about 53 per cent., were of females. Of those dying, 245 were under one year of age, 177 were between one and two years, 51 were between two and three, 26 were between three and four, and 13 were between four and five.
