REGULATIONS UNDER THE EDUCATION ACT 1872.

THE Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has amended the Regulations for the distribution of the amount proposed upon the Estimates for 1876-7 to compensate teachers for losses sustained through the operation of the Regulations under the Education Act 1872 in the following manner, viz.:-

1. Any teacher who was employed in a common school on the 31st of December 1872 and accepted service in a State school during 1873 may receive compensation for losses he sustained through the operation of the regulations under that Act, between the date of his appointment and the 31st of December 1875, if such losses amount to or exceed ten per cent. of the sum which he would have received during that time if his income had continued at the same rate as in 1872; and such compensation shall be at the rate of one-twelfth part of such teacher's loss for each year's service by him under any Education Act in Victoria, but shall not in any case exceed the amount of such loss.

2. For the purpose of calculating compensation, the income for 1872 will be held to be that obtained by a teacher from all sources connected with the school in which he was employed on the 31st of December 1872, or, if he was not employed in it during the whole of the year, at the rate at which he was employed in such school.

3. The income for the years 1873-4-5 will be held to be that actually earned, provided it be not less than that estimated as obtainable from all sources by a fully qualified teacher on the same allotment under average management.

4. If a teacher has his wife or children (under 21 years of age) employed in the same school with him, his and their positions will be considered together in estimating compensation, i.e., the gain of one will be set off against the loss of another.

5. No teacher shall be entitled to compensation who has received promotion to a position where his annual income exceeds that which he enjoyed in 1872 by thirty-three per cent. of the amount he lost between the 1st of January 1873 and the date of such promotion, and the promotion of a teacher to a position where the income exceeds that which he enjoyed in 1872 by more than ten per cent. but less than thirty-three per cent. of such loss shall be counted pro tanto against any compensation to which he might be otherwise entitled.

6. No teacher who has been dismissed or removed from the service for misconduct will receive any compensation.

7. The administrators or assigns of any teacher deceased may receive the compensation which would have accrued to the deceased up to the date of his death.

8. If a teacher's earnings during 1873-4-5 have been, through any act of his own, less than they would have been had he remained in continuous employment, the teacher shall not be compensated for any loss he may have sustained thereby.

The mortality of Melbourne and suburbs, together with the mean temperature in the shade and the mean atmospheric pressure, during the month of February for the ten years 1867-1876, were as follow:—

	Number of Deaths.	Mean Temperature.	Mean Height of Barometer.

The births of 576 children, viz., 312 boys and 264 girls, were registered in Melbourne and suburbs during the month of February. In the month of January 740 births were registered, or 164 more than in the month under review.

The deaths registered in February numbered 477, viz., 261 of males and 216 of females; the births thus exceeded the deaths by 99. The deaths, though 14 less than those in January, exceeded the average of February during the previous ten years by 46. If, however, allowance be made for the increase of population, they will be found to have been 33 less than the average of those ten years.

The highest temperature in the shade recorded at the Melbourne Observatory during the month was 100.3° on the 8th, and the lowest was 45.6° on the 4th. The mean temperature of the month (66.7°) was 1.1° above the average. The greatest range of the thermometer in any one day (43.7°) took place on the 8th, viz., from a maximum of 100.3° to a minimum of 56.6°. The least range (8.6°) was on the 12th, viz., from a maximum of 72.1° to a minimum of 63.5°. The mean daily range was 21.92°. The mean atmospheric pressure (29.908 inches) was a little above the average.

Males and females died during the month in the proportions of 55 and 45 per cent. respectively. The mortality of children under the age of 5 years averaged 51 per cent., as against 53 per cent. in February 1876; 63 per cent. in February 1875; 54 per cent. in February 1874; 53 per cent. in February 1873; 56 per cent. in February 1872; 65 per cent. in February 1871; 55 per cent. in February 1870; 60 per cent. in February 1869; 57 per cent. in February 1868; and 74 per cent. in February 1867.

Twelve deaths of persons of the age of 75 years or upwards were recorded during the month, viz.:—Those of a female, aged 86, who died of diarrhoea; a female, aged 80, of apoplexy; a farmer, aged 79, and a gentleman, aged 92, of paralysis; a female, aged 78, of valvular disease of the heart; one, aged 80, of bronchitis; another, aged 82, of gastritis; also one, aged 75, of synovitis; and a compositor, aged 80, and three females, aged 75, 79, and 88 respectively; of old age.

Twenty-one deaths from external causes were recorded during the month under review. Of these, 16 are set down as the result of accident, and 5 as suicidal. The following are the particulars:—A clerk, aged 19, and a farmer, aged 55, died of injuries to the skull caused by being thrown from horses; a cooper, aged 49, was passed over by a vehicle; a groom, aged 16, died of peritonitis, and a gentleman, aged 67, of fracture of the pelvis—both the result of accidental falls; a laborer, aged 57, died of the effects of fracture of the ribs; a youth, aged 17, died of an accidental gunshot wound in the head; a male infant and a female, aged 7 and 9 days respectively, died of umbilical hemorrhage; a carpenter, aged 40, succumbed to an attack of tetanus, induced by an injury to the knee caused by his being thrown from a truck; a machinist, aged 20, was killed by lightning; three boys, aged 8, 6, and 10 respectively, were accidentally drowned—the last in the River Yarra; a male infant, aged 9 days, was suffocated in its mother's arms; and a farmer, aged 49, was killed by a shark whilst bathing in Hobson's Bay. Of the suicides—a mining agent, aged 43, poisoned himself with chloral; a farmer, aged 40, drowned himself in the River Yarra whilst of unsound mind; a female, aged 33, was found drowned in the same river, and is supposed to have committed suicide; and a publican, aged 44, and a female, aged 56, hanged themselves whilst in a state of unsound mind.

Seventy-one deaths, or 15 per cent. of the whole, took place in public institutions, viz.:—30 in the Melbourne Hospital, 6 in the Immigrants' Home, 10 in the Alfred Hospital, 4 in the Lying-in Hospital, 5 in the Benevolent Asylum, 10 in the Metropolitan Lunatic Asylum, 2 in the Melbourne Gaol, 3 in the Melbourne Industrial Schools, and 1 in the Melbourne Orphan Asylum.

The deaths of children under five years of age numbered 241, of which 135, or 56 per cent., were of males; and 106, or 44 per cent., were of females. Of those who died, 171 were under one year of age, 55 were between one and two, 6 were between two and three, 2 were between three and four, and 7 were between four and five.

The persons who died at a more advanced age than five years numbered 235. Of these, 126, or 53 per cent., were males, and 110, or 47 per cent., were females; 10 were between five and ten, 9 were between ten and fifteen, 18 were between fifteen and twenty, 16 were between twenty and twenty-five, 12 were between twenty-five and thirty, 21 were between thirty and thirty-five, 22 were between thirty-five and forty, 24 were between forty and forty-five, 14 were between forty-five and fifty, 23 were between fifty and fifty-five, 14 were between fifty-five and sixty, 13 were between sixty and sixty-five, 16 were between sixty-five and seventy, 12 were between seventy and seventy-five, 5 were between seventy-five and eighty, and 7 were upwards of eighty.

The following table shows the causes of death of persons of both sexes under and over five years of age, and the proportions per cent. of deaths from each cause in Melbourne and suburbs, during the month under review:—

The deaths registered during the month under review were, allowing for the increase of population, below the average; and it will be observed, on reference to the table on the preceding page showing the mortality for February during ten years that they were the least recorded for that month since 1873. This may, however, be partly accounted for in the past two years by the fact that the mortality from scarlatina, which was then excessive, is now considerably reduced, only 5 deaths from that complaint appearing in the present returns. Diarrhoea, which was the most fatal disease during the month, caused 79 deaths, as against 89 in January. Six deaths were set down to the consequences of childbirth, or one death of a mother to every 96 births registered. Besides these a death occurred after child-bearing which is included under the head of scarlatina.
