NOTICES TO MARINERS.—AUSTRALIA, NEW GUINEA, PAIFIC OCEAN, ETC.

THE following Notices, which have been issued from the Admiralty Hydrographic Office, are published for general information.

PETER LALOR,
Commissioner of Trade and Customs.

Department of Trade and Customs,
Melbourne, 2nd August 1877.

The information contained in these notices is to be carefully considered, to be noted in the Sailing Direction*, and compared with the chart when the ship is navigating the parts to which it refers.

HYDROGRAPHIC NOTICE.—[No. 11.]

Australia Directory, Vol. ii.—Notice No. 23.

NEW GUINEA, SOUTH-EAST COAST.<sup>1</sup>

The following information relative to a portion of the south-east coast of New Guinea is derived from the journals of the Reverend Messrs. Macfarlane and Lawes, of the mission steam vessel Ellangowan (1876).

[All bearings are magnetic. Variation 6½° easterly in 1877.]

Hood Lagoon, situated in latitude 10° 4' S. longitude 147° 52' E., is about 15 miles in circumference, with a clear entrance and anchorage inside; Dundee River empties itself at its head, and is about 300 yards wide at its mouth, narrowing to 80 yards at a mile's distance. The river was shallow at the entrance, but just inside, the depth was found to be 9 feet; it appeared to have its rise in a range in the interior, behind Mount Astrolade.

Amongst the natives food did not appear very plentiful, with the exception of coconuts.

Coutance Island, 18 miles eastward of Hood Lagoon, is about half a mile long and a quarter of a mile wide, close inside the barrier reef, and about 7 miles from the mainland; it is well wooded, and has a sandy beach.

Marshall Lagoon, to the northward of Coutance Island is about 150 yards wide at its mouth, with a bar stretching nearly across, inside which, it opens out to about 5 miles in circumference, and is deepest on its western side, on which is situated the village of Aloma. The lagoon then narrows to about half a mile, after which it opens out to a finer sheet of water, about 4 miles long and 2 miles wide, with a village on its eastern side (probable name Vanike). This second part of the lagoon is shallow in the centre, and narrows at its head into a river about 120 yards wide, which again widens to 200 yards, after which it narrows. The course of this river, to which the name of Devitt was given, was followed for a mile and a half, where it opened into a small lagoon, from which two branches ran, one N.N.W. and the other S.E. The S.E. branch was followed for a short distance; its width was 100 yards and depth 2 fathoms.

The natives of the village in the large part of the lagoon bartered freely, but appeared frightened; their houses are situated on a sand-bank, surrounded by water, and thus the village has the appearance of being built in the water.

Robinson Harbor, found in the north-east part of Cloudy Bay, is about 5 miles long, in a north-east direction, by about three-quarters of a mile wide; it was about 200 yards wide at its entrance, with from 2½ to 3 fathoms water. A succession of small hills run along one side, covered with trees to the water's edge, and small creeks were numerous.

Sewell and Percy islands are situated eastwards of Eugenia Islet, about 3 miles from the head of Cloudy Bay. Sewell Island, the western of the two, is about a mile and a half in circumference, and 100 feet in height. Percy Island is low and wooded, about 2½ miles in length, and separated from Sewell Island by a channel, with 3 fathoms in it, and 150 yards wide.

Mullens Harbor, situated in the eastern part of Orangerie Bay, eastward of Dufauré Island, is about 8 miles long east and west by about 4 miles wide, and has depth of from 9 to 11 fathoms. The entrance, which is on the western side of the harbor, is about 2 miles wide and appeared free from obstruction.

The villages in the vicinity of Mullens Harbor are numerous and well populated. The natives are light in color, and are a fine looking race; hoop-iron was in great demand among them, their behaviour was friendly, but a disposition to steal was often displayed.

Between the eastern side of Dufauré Island and the mainland, is a good passage about three-quarters of a mile wide and from 6 to 10 fathoms deep, through which the Ellangowan steamed.

Isabel Cove affords a small but good anchorage, sheltered from all winds. It is about 11 miles south-eastward of Dufauré Island and immediately northward of Roux Islands, and fresh water is easily obtained from a stream near the beach, close to one of the villages, of which there are three on the shores of the bay, called Bau, Gogohe, and one other. The houses of the natives seemed poor.

South Cape, the southern extremity of New Guinea, was found to be an island, the Ellangowan steaming through the channel which divides it from the mainland. Rugged Head, immediately westward of South Cape, had also the appearance of being an island, separated from the main by a similar channel.

Pacific Ocean.—[Notice No. 35.]

The following information relating chiefly to sunken dangers searched for in the vicinity of the south-western approaches to the Fiji Islands from Australia, has been received from Lieutenant W. U. Moore, commanding H.M. surveying schooner Alacrity, (1876).<sup>2</sup>

Meteor Shoal.—The position of this danger, reported to be situated in latitude 18° 22' S. and longitude 178° 53' E., was passed at a distance of 4 miles on the morning of 27th October 1876, but no signs of shoal water could be seen. A fresh trade wind was blowing at the time of passing, with considerable swell, and the weather was bright and clear.

Tui Lau Breaker, reported by a small schooner of that name to have been seen 4¼ miles S. ¼ W. of Mount Washington, Kandavu Island (thus placing it in latitude 19° 46' S. and longitude 177° 43' 30" E.), was searched for in vain by H.M.S. Nymph in October, and Alacrity in November 1876. Lieutenant Moore states that the latter vessel "spent two days working backwards and forwards, looking for breakers or discolored water. The weather was bright and clear. Swell sufficient to cause a heavy break on anything with less than 2 fathoms, but not enough to prevent good observations. Nothing was seen from the topsail yard (60 feet above the sea level)".

This danger has therefore been expunged from the Admiralty charts.

Agua Ongea Reef (Nuku Ongea of the chart), has been reported by Captain Caverly, of the Pacific Mail Company's steam ship City of New York, to be in longitude 178° 20' W.; or 10 miles eastward of its position on the Admiralty chart.

Conway Reef, which lies in latitude 21° 45' S. and longitude 174° 37' E., was visited by a boat from the Alacrity, on that vessel's passage to Sydney from Fiji, November 1876, but no signs of any persons having been upon the reef were found.

The cay was about 6 feet above water, with two bushes of scrub visible; it was about 180 yards in length by 80 yards in breadth, and the sea was seen breaking on it from a distance of 7 miles.

La Brillante Shoal.—The position assigned to this danger by M. Le Comte Dubouzet in latitude 23° 13' 59" S. longitude 169° 55' 38" E., and in which it has been placed upon the Admiralty charts, was passed over by the Alacrity on the afternoon of 26th November 1876, and no signs of shoal water were seen. Upon sounding, 320 fathoms of line failed to find bottom.

This shoal was unsuccessfully sought after by Captain Denham, in H.M.S. Herald, in 1854, and therefore expunged from the Admiralty charts. It was subsequently, however, reported to have been seen from the British merchant ship Creole, in almost the same position as that assigned to it by M. Le Comte Dubouzet, and again placed upon the charts in latitude 28° 14' S., longitude 169° 55' E.

Two other vessels have reported having seen this danger, which appears to be of very small extent, and it seems from the various accounts, that the longitude hitherto assigned to it (169° 55' E.) is about 9 miles westward of its proper position, which probably should be in latitude 23° 14' S., longitude 170° 4' E.

Pacific Ocean.—[Notice No. 36.]

SOUTH-WESTERN PART.—FIJI ISLANDS.

The following information relating to Nandi Bay, in the island of Viti Levu, is from a recent report and survey of Lieutenant W. U. Moore, commanding H.M. surveying schooner Alacrity (1876).

[All bearings are magnetic. Variation 10° easterly in 1877.]

VITI LEVU.

Nandi Bay (Tomba Ko Nandi) is an extensive opening in the land upon the west side of Viti Levu, measuring about 5 miles across north and south by about 4 miles in depth.<sup>1</sup>

The rivers Vunda, Na Soso, and Nandi, emptying themselves into the bay, are small, and appeared accessible only for boats and small craft.

Approaches.—Outlying islands and barrier reefs afford partial protection to Nandi, through which there are passages available in daylight only. The southernmost of these, Navula passage, about 16 miles S. by W. of the south point of Nandi Bay, is about half a mile broad and clear of rocks. The prevailing south-east trade wind becomes easterly in direction and baffling between this passage and the anchorage in Nandi Bay, rendering the approach of a sailing vessel tedious.

The passage between Perry and Palmer islands, situated about 18 miles westward of Nandi Bay, was taken in the Alacrity from east to west, it appeared about two miles wide in the narrowest part, and may be safely used in daylight.

The Malolo passage, about 4 miles N.W. of that of Navula, is also reported to have a good channel, and there are probably others to the northward of the Hudson islands.

Anchorage.—The depths in Nandi Bay are moderate, shoaling from 11 fathoms in the north-west part to 2½ and 3 fathoms about a mile from the shore in the south-east, the bottom being muddy. Off the mouth of the Nandi River in the south portion of the bay are some low islands and detached coral patches, rendering a near approach to the shore hazardous in large sailing vessels.

The best protected anchoring ground, which, however, is very confined, lies between Iakulau Island and the shore of the south-west part of the bay, near the mouth of the Nandi River, in about 4 fathoms mud, with the eastern extremity of Iakulau Island bearing north, the south end of Malan Islet (low and sandy) N.E. by  $\frac{1}{2}$  E., and the corn store at the mouth of Nandi River, east. In this position a vessel will be about  $\frac{1}{4}$  cables distant from the south-east point of Iakulau Island.

The holding ground throughout Nandi Bay is excellent, and with the customary precautions it is considered that a well-appointed vessel could with safety ride out a gale, but the south-east trade wind which is at times deflected here to north-west, occasionally raises sufficient sea to prevent cargoes being embarked or disembarked in boats, and to render landing difficult.

Hurricane wave.—In 1869, during an unusually severe cyclone, the water in Nandi Bay is said to have risen 10 feet above the ordinary high-water level, inundating for a distance of several hundred yards the flat land between the mouths of the Nandi and Vunda rivers, and causing considerable damage; and again in 1871, two small schooners, the Nanovi and Clyde, lying at anchor in the south-east part of the bay, about a quarter of a mile from the shore, were surprised by a cyclone, during which the Nanovi foundered, and the Clyde had to cut away her masts, and was washed into the Na Soso River.

Caution is therefore necessary during the months in which bad weather may be expected (November to April), should a vessel of necessity be at anchor in Nandi Bay, to be prepared for these storms, and if possible select a well-sheltered position south-eastward of Iakulau Island for anchoring in.

Fresh water cannot be obtained by means of ships' boats in Nandi Bay without difficulty, the River Vunda in the north-east part of the bay being alone available for the purpose, and that at a distance of  $\frac{1}{4}$  miles from its mouth.

Hydrographic Office, Admiralty, London,
10th May 1877.

The substance of this notice, as soon as it is received on board, is to be inserted in red ink on the charts affected by it, and introduced into the margin, or otherwise in the page, of the Sailing Directions to which it relates. See Instructions, Navigation and Pilotage, p. 172.

[No. 37.]

AUSTRALIA—BASS STRAIT.—KING ISLAND, EAST COAST.
Non-existence of Squirrel Rock.

With reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 2, of 12th January 1876, on the reported existence of a sunken danger (Squirrel rock), bearing N.E. by N. from Sea Elephant rock, distant about 4 miles; and on which the barque Flying Squirrel was stated to have been wrecked—

The following particulars, resulting from a survey by Staff Commander H. J. Stanley, R.N., have been received:—

After a careful examination of the locality in January 1877 no indication of a sunken rock near the position assigned, nor any trace of shoal water could be found at a greater distance than was known to exist, viz.,  $\frac{1}{4}$  miles in a northerly direction from Sea Elephant rock.

This danger has consequently been expunged from the Admiralty charts.

By Command of their Lordships,
FREDK. J. EVANS,
Hydrographer.

London, 20th March 1877.

Every license granted under subdivision VII. of section 47 of The Land Act 1869 shall be subject to the conditions set forth in the schedule hereto, and to such special conditions and payment in advance of such fee as the Minister may determine, and shall be issued by an officer of the Department of Lands and Survey duly authorized on that behalf.

Schedule.

1. This license shall not be deemed to prevent the land comprised therein or any part or parts thereof from being sold, leased, or licensed under any of the provisions of parts I., II., or III. of The Land Act 1869, except subdivision VII. of the 47th section thereof, or proclaimed a common, or occupied by virtue of any miner's right or business license, or alienated or dealt with under the authority of The Land Act 1869, or any other Act now or hereafter to be in force, otherwise than for pastoral or depasturing purposes, or resumed by order of the Governor, acting by and with the advice of the Executive Council, for railways, roads, telegraph lines, dams, reservoirs, races, catchwater drains, pipe tracks, quarries, or other public purposes; and no licensee shall in any such case be entitled to compensation other than the return of such portion of the fee paid by him as the Minister may think fit.

2. If the licensee, or any person claiming an interest through or under the licensee in the land comprised in this license shall, at any time during the period for which the license has been issued, employ any person to apply for a license of an allotment under The Land Act 1869, contrary to the true intent of the provisions thereof, or shall give or take, or cause to be given or taken, any negotiable security for the purpose of defeating or evading the provisions of, or shall in any way whatsoever, directly or indirectly, commit or be privy to a fraud upon the said Act, this license shall be void.

3. No land comprised in roads from time to time surveyed and marked out within the boundaries of the land comprised in this license shall be deemed within the operations of this license.

4. This license entitles the holder thereof during the period therein specified to use the land in respect of which the same is granted for depasturing purposes only, and does not confer any right to build thereon, or to cultivate or fence any portion thereof; but if the holder thereof desire such use of the land beyond such period, notice to that effect must be given by him to the Minister one month prior to expiry thereof.

5. The interest in this license may not be transferred without the consent of the Minister and payment of a fee of One pound (£1), and upon sanction of transfer thereof a new license will issue to the transferee.
