ALTERATION IN LOCAL SIGNALS FOR THE PORT OF WANGANUI

Marine Department,
Wellington, 21st August 1879.

THE following alteration in local signals authorized to be used at the Port of Wanganui is published for general information:—

Two shifting beacons, the inner one higher than the outer one, have been erected on the North Head, which bear red flags by day and red lights by night when the tide serves and the Bar is safe, and are to be taken as guides by mariners crossing the Bar, instead of the beacon and signal mast as heretofore.

Masters of vessels crossing the Bar by day should keep the two beacons in one, and also pay particular attention to the semaphore arm, on account of the curves taken by the channel inside the Bar.

Masters of vessels crossing the Bar at night should keep the red lights of the beacons in one, and pay particular attention to the green light which will be used, like the semaphore arm, for guiding vessels inside the Bar. This green light travels on a yard fixed on the outer beacon, and vessels must be steered in the direction in which the green light is moved.

Masters of vessels should, on arriving off the Bar at night, burn flash or blue lights to make their positions known to the look-out at the pilot station, who will answer this signal with a torch or flare-up light. Sailing vessels should not attempt to cross the Bar at night, as the wind generally dies away or draws off the land.

These alterations will come into effect on and after the 1st day of October 1879.
