The deaths, the mean temperature in the shade, and the mean atmospheric pressure, during the month of August, of the ten years 1873-1882, also the births during the same month of the nine years 1874-82, in Melbourne and suburbs, were as follow:—

The births of 1,011 children, viz., 539 boys and 472 girls, were registered in Melbourne and suburbs during the month of August. In the month of July 881 births were registered, or 130 fewer than in the month under review. The births were 229 above the average of the previous nine years, but 141 above that average, if allowance be made for the increase of population.

The deaths registered in August numbered 467, viz., 265 of males, and 202 of females; the births thus exceeded the deaths by 544. The deaths outnumbered those in July by 45, and exceeded the average of August during the previous ten years by 66. If, however, allowance be made for the increase of population, they will be found to have been more numerous than the average of the month in those ten years by only 16.

To every 1,000 of the population of the district the proportion of births registered was 3.47, and of deaths registered 1.60.

The highest temperature in the shade recorded at Melbourne Observatory during the month was 67.2° on the 26th, and the lowest was 32.9° on the 22nd. The mean temperature of the month (50.4°) was one-tenth of a degree below the average. The greatest range of the thermometer in any one day (26.9°) took place on the 23rd, viz., from a maximum of 61.9° to a minimum of 35.0°. The least range (4.4°) was on the 18th, viz., from a maximum of 56.9° to a minimum of 52.5°. The mean daily range was 16.4°. The mean atmospheric pressure (29.962 inches) was a fraction below the average.

Males contributed 57 per cent., and females 43 per cent. to the total mortality of the month. Children under 5 years of age contributed 30 per cent. to that mortality as against 31 per cent. in August 1882; 33 per cent. in August 1881; 43 per cent. in August 1880; 36 per cent. in August 1879; 31 per cent. in August 1878; 34 per cent. in August 1877; 32 per cent. in August 1876; 33 per cent. in August 1875; and 30 per cent. in August 1874 and 1873.

The deaths of 25 persons who had attained or exceeded the age of 75 years were recorded during the month, viz.:—Those of a female, aged 75, who died of paralysis; a female, aged 77, of ascites; a female, aged 78, of rheumatism; a female, aged 77, and a laborer, aged 79, of gangrene; a laborer, aged 78, of abscess of the leg; a clerk, aged 75, a teacher, aged 75, a miner, aged 81, and two females, aged 82 and 84 respectively, of bronchitis; a gentleman, aged 81, and a pensioner, aged 83, of heart disease; a laborer, aged 75, and a female, aged 80, of pneumonia; a female, aged 75, and a laborer, aged 82, of congestion of the lungs; a clothes-cleaner and a sawyer, each aged 78, of Bright's disease; a watchman, aged 75, a laborer, aged 76, a plasterer, aged 82, a male cook, aged 83, a female, aged 83, and a female, aged 94, of old age.

Twenty-six deaths were ascribed to external causes during the month, of which 22 were set down to accident, 1 to homicide, and 3 to suicide. The following are the particulars of the accidental deaths:—A male child was killed by a fall at birth; a laborer, aged 37, died of injuries to the chest, his horse falling on him; a constable, aged 42, of rupture of the bladder, the result of a fall from a window; a female, aged 43, of concussion of the brain, caused by a fall whilst intoxicated; a female, aged 69, of fracture of the skull, caused by a fall in the street; a laborer, aged 34, of internal injuries—cause not stated; a publican, aged 46, of pyæmia; resulting from a jar whilst chopping wood; a laborer, aged 46, was crushed to death between two trucks; a male infant, aged 10 months, a male child, aged 1 year, and a female child, aged 2 years, died of scalds, and two girls, aged 8 and 16 years respectively, of burns, the former through her nightdress catching fire; a female child, aged 1 year, a female, aged 40, and a farmer, aged 58, were drowned, and a laborer, aged 70, was found drowned; a newly-born female infant was suffocated at birth; two female infants, aged 1 month and 6 weeks respectively, and two male infants, aged 4 and 6 months respectively, were suffocated by overlying. The homicidal death was that of a newly-born female infant, who was murdered by exposure. Of the suicidal deaths, a lumper, aged 42, shot himself; a butcher, aged 22, cut his throat; and a female, aged 46, poisoned herself.

One hundred and fifteen deaths, or 25 per cent. of the whole, took place in public institutions, viz.:—58 in the Melbourne Hospital, 11 in the Alfred Hospital, 2 in the Childrens' Hospital, 6 in the Lying-in Hospital, 5 in the Immigrants' Home, 14 in the Benevolent Asylum, 5 in the Yarra Bend Lunatic Asylum, 10 in the Metropolitan Lunatic Asylum, 1 in the Austin Hospital, 1 in the Melbourne Gaol, 1 in the Industrial Schools, and 1 in the Protestant Refuge.

The deaths of children under five years of age numbered 141, of which 85, or 60 per cent., were of males, and 56, or 40 per cent., were of females. Of those who died, 98 were under one year of age, 23 were between one and two, 10 were between two and three, 4 were between three and four, and 6 were between four and five.

The persons who died at a more advanced age than five years numbered 326. Of these, 180, or 55 per cent., were males, and 146, or 45 per cent., were females; 7 were between five and ten, 10 were between ten and fifteen, 5 were between fifteen and twenty, 22 were between twenty and twenty-five, 26 were between twenty-five and thirty, 21 were between thirty and thirty-five, 23 were between thirty-five and forty, 30 were between forty and forty-five, 32 were between forty-five and fifty, 40 were between fifty and fifty-five, 26 were between fifty-five and sixty, 22 were between sixty and sixty-five, 18 were between sixty-five and seventy, 19 were between seventy and seventy-five, 14 were between seventy-five and eighty, and 11 were upwards of eighty.

The following table shows the causes of death of persons of both sexes under and over five years of age, and the proportions per cent. of deaths from each cause in Melbourne and suburbs during the month under review:—

NOTICES TO MARINERS — (HYDROGRAPHIC). — AUSTRALIA, NEW ZEALAND, AND PACIFIC OCEAN.

THE following Notices, which have been received from the Hydrographic Office, London, are published for general information.

G. D. LANGRIDGE,
Commissioner of Trade and Customs.

Department of Trade and Customs,
Melbourne, 19th September 1883.

The information contained in these Notices is to be carefully considered, to be noted in the Sailing Directions, and compared with the chart when the ship is navigating the parts to which it refers.

HYDROGRAPHIC NOTICE.—[No. 24.]

PACIFIC OCEAN.—SOUTH-WESTERN PART.—[Notice No. 63.]

THE following information, relating to the Solomon Islands, New Britain, New Ireland, New Hanover, and the Admiralty Islands; also to the reefs in their neighborhood, is derived from reports received from the officers of Her Majesty's surveying vessels Renard and Lark, those of Her Majesty's ships employed upon the Australian station, and from other sources, 1879-1882.

[All bearings are magnetic. Variation in 1883.]

Solomon Islands, 8° 6' easterly. New Ireland, 6° easterly.

SANTA ANNA ISLAND is of volcanic origin. The inhabitants are well disposed, and of a superior class to those of the neighbouring islands. Port Mary, upon the west side of the island, is much visited by schooners trading in this locality. The port affords a limited supply of fresh water.

LARK SHOAL, upon which a depth of 7 fathoms least water was found, extends $\frac{1}{2}$ miles north and south, is one mile in width, and lies N. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. distant 10 miles from the summit of the northernmost of the Three Sisters islands, or in lat. 10° 0' S., long. 161° 54' E.

SAN CHRISTOVAL ISLAND.—Makira Harbor.—This harbor is probably one of the best and safest in the group. It is, however, somewhat difficult for a stranger to recognize, especially if coming from the westward.

After passing Point Achard, which can be distinguished by the white sand beach to the eastward of it, a high double peak will be seen, which should be steered for, bearing S.E. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E., and the entrance to the harbor will be seen, having two small islets lying off the north-west point.

The wind is generally light and baffling under the high land, but a light land breeze in the early morning enables a vessel to get out of the port before the sea breeze sets in.

Good water can be procured from a stream opposite the entrance, and native provisions can be obtained in small quantities.

INDISPENSABLE STRAIT.—A bank having a depth of 11 fathoms, sand and coral bottom (apparently extending to the westward), was passed over by the Imperial German vessel Ariadne, with Ramos Island bearing east, distant 6 miles. In the vicinity of Savo Island, in the month of December, the current was observed to be setting to the north-east $\frac{1}{2}$ miles an hour, and off Cape Prieto, setting northward 2 miles an hour.²

Eddystone (Narovo) Island.—The highest part of this island has been ascertained to be 1,100 feet above high-water.

Bougainville Island.—Cape North is stated to be of moderate elevation, and numerous small low islands lie off it.

RENDOVA ISLAND.—This island, of coral formation, and densely wooded to the water's edge, is 18 miles long in a north and south direction, and 8 miles broad. The east coast is steep-to. No bottom at 20 fathoms could be obtained close to the shore in most places, including the three small islands lying off the centre part of the eastern shore.

Renard and Blanche islands are $\frac{1}{2}$ miles long, and respectively 220 feet and 280 feet in height. Observatory Island is about 100 yards in diameter, 180 high, and is the western of the three islands, all of which are thickly wooded.

RENARD COVE is situated north of the point on Rendova Island, immediately west of Observatory Island; it is stated to be a small and apparently secure anchorage. From the eastern side of the cove a reef extends 200 yards, and runs parallel to the shore, partly drying at low-water, and having two or three large stones upon it that are always uncovered. At the head of the cove are several lagoons, communicating with each other by boat channels.

The Renard being unable to work up into shoaler water at the head of the cove (where there is 15 fathoms at less than half-a-cable from the shore) in consequence of light winds, and an outset from the lagoons before mentioned, anchored in 42 fathoms, black mud, in the centre of the cove.

TIPPING CREEK.—From Cape Richards (the north-east point of Rendova Island) the coast trends N.N.W., and is broken by many small creeks and inlets. At $\frac{2}{3}$ miles northward of the cape is Tippinge Creek, formed by a small coral islet and Rendova Island.

This creek, which may be recognized by the cocoanut trees and some conspicuous dead trees beyond them upon the main land, is small, but secure from all winds except those from the north, and affords anchorage in 15 fathoms, black sand.

² Berlin, Annalen der Hydrographie, Heft 6, 1879.

A small reef awash extends from the north shore of the coral islet about 30 yards distant.

Fresh water of good quality can be obtained from a stream near the cocoanut trees, and fish are abundant in the creek.

RENDOVA HARBOR.—This harbor, situated upon the north coast of Rendova Island, is the only one in the locality adapted to vessels of considerable size, but must be used with caution, in consequence of the many shoals which exist in it.³

It is advisable to enter the harbor by Renard entrance in lat. 8° 23' 23" S., long. 157° 15' 25" E., the passage is one-eighth of a mile wide, having a slight fringe reef, and carries an average depth of 8 fathoms, sand and coral. The Renard anchored in 14 fathoms, just north of the Observatory Islet.

COAST.—From Rendova Harbor the coast trends S.W. by S. about 13 miles to Banyetta Point, a barrier reef extends from the western islet in Rendova Harbor, and many dangers exist off this part of the coast, which vessels should pass outside of. A reef extends 3 cables from Cape Pleasant (the south-east point of the island), upon which the sea breaks heavily. A depth of 21 fathoms was found in Blanche Cove, which is exposed to the eastward, and there is room only for a small vessel to anchor.

NEW GEORGIA.—Moonda Harbor.—About 5 miles W. by N. from Renard Entrance to Rendova Harbor is the entrance to Moonda Harbor, across which there is a bar of 12 feet at high-water, and heavy breakers with southerly winds. The passage to the eastward into the harbor after the bar is crossed is intricate, full of shoals, and should not be attempted by a stranger unless in a steam-vessel.

MONTGOMERY ISLAND.—This island, about 15 miles long in an E. by S. and W. by N. direction, is not inhabited. Some fringing reef extends from the western extremity, but the eastern end seemed steep-to. The Renard passed within half a mile of it.

RUSSELL ISLANDS.—This group, extending 20 miles in an east and west direction and 12 miles north and south, consists of two principal islands and a number of small islets scattered around them, having, as a rule, deep water close-to.

The largest island is elevated 1,600 feet, and there is a deep channel between it and the island eastward of it. The northern part of the group is bordered by a barrier reef, having numerous small islets from 10 to 50 feet high upon it, nearly all of which are covered with vegetation. In the centre of the barrier reef there is a deep passage between the islets It-a-matie and Ellavoline, the latter islet being recognized by a tufted bush upon its centre. Inside the barrier there are several coral patches, some of considerable extent, all of which, however, can be discerned from aloft.

ANCHORAGE.—The Renard anchored in 15 fathoms in a confined position for a small vessel, at the entrance to Renard Sound, and obtained good fresh water from a stream $\frac{1}{4}$ miles up the sound.

The trading vessels usually anchor off Moco Island, or in the bight south-eastward of No-no Island. In the inlet running to the south-east, at the head of West Bay, there is anchorage for a large ship with room to swing.

NATIVES.—The group appeared to be thinly inhabited by a peaceable and keen trading people, most of whom speak a little English and are well provided with European goods.

SUPPLIES.—Pigs, yams, pineapples, limes, mangoes, bananas, coconuts, and spinach can be obtained.

MURRAY ISLAND (BURAQOI).—This island is sometimes visited by the natives of Russell islands, when on their trading voyages to New Georgia. The only landing-place is on a small beach upon the north-west side, where the natives haul up their canoes.

PRINCESS ISLAND AND BRIDGEWATER REEF.—H.M.S. Lark sounded upon the assigned position of Princess Island in 1882, and obtained no bottom at 250 fathoms; the Renard also passed near the same spot in 1881 without seeing any island. Bridgewater Reef was searched for without success by the above-mentioned vessels. Both Princess Island and Bridgewater Reef have been expunged from the charts.

POCKINGTON REEF.—This coral reef is 18 miles long in a N.E. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. and S.W. by W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. direction, its greatest breadth is 3 miles, and in some places it is not more than one mile across. The east extreme is in lat. 10° 45' 25" S., long. 155° 51' 40" E. There are several large boulders upon the northern side of the reef, and about the middle of the south side there was the wreck of a large iron ship (in 1830). There is no anchorage around this reef.

WIND AND WEATHER.—The south-east trade wind prevails from April to December, or the latter end of November, most frequently from E.S.E.; but from local information the wind has not been so steady latterly, either in force or direction, as in former years. To the southward of San Christoval Island, in the early part of this season, light airs and calms prevail sometimes for many days. Towards the end of the season there is occasionally much rain and squally weather, the barometer being but little affected.

Westerly winds commence in December and continue until March, blowing strong in January and February, and much rain falls; during this season violent squalls from W.S.W. are frequent, which would do much damage to a vessel taken unprepared for them.

BAROMETER.—From July to December the average height of the barometer was 29.85 inches, and the greatest range from 29.70 to 29.98 inches.

CURRENTS.—During the season of south-easterly winds the current generally sets to the south-west, but it is irregular. The Renard being becalmed, for 9 days, to the southward of San Christoval Island in the month of May, was set to the eastward when 10 miles off shore, while within that distance from the coast she was set east and west alternately. During the month of August an easterly set was experienced.

NEW BRITAIN.⁴

REEFS.—A coral reef, having a depth of 8 feet over it, upon which the barque Alice Mary struck, is stated to be about half a mile in extent: it lies 7 miles from the coast, with Tupinier Island in line with the low promontory of Cape St. Ann bearing N.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W., or in lat. $5^{\circ} 55' S.$, long. $148^{\circ} 35' E.$

Whirlwind Reef.—This dangerous reef, upon which rocks above water and breakers were seen, is said to lie with Lottin Island bearing S.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W., Cape Gloucester S.S.E., and Merite Island E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N.

Mr. C. Rogers, master of the Alice Mary, states that there is an islet lying north-west, distant $\frac{1}{4}$ miles from Tupinier Island; also, that a small island lying W.N.W., distant half a mile from Lottin Island, forms a good harbor.

BLANCHE BAY.—Great Harbor.—Consequent upon the continued volcanic action upon the crater peninsula, the depths in the harbor are constantly undergoing changes, and vessels should not approach the shore too closely, especially in the vicinity of Praed Point. The dirty-green color of the water is caused by the numerous sulphur springs along the shore. There is a German trading establishment upon Matupi Island, where coal and ship's provisions can generally be obtained. There is communication with Sydney by sailing vessels, about once a month, and Messrs. Hensheim's steamers run between Matupi and Cooktown more frequently.⁵

Matupi is stated to be healthy and free from fevers.

Wind and weather.—From March to November south-east and easterly winds blow with tolerable regularity, generally fresh, moderating during March to June. The rainfall is small while these winds last, and fresh water is frequently scarce. The north-westerly winds commence in November blowing strong until February, and are accompanied by much rain. The wind in the port is influenced by the surrounding high land.⁶

Kabakadai Bay.—When bound for this anchorage, a berth of half a mile should be given to Cape Stephens, to avoid the fringing reef. A course should then be shaped for the mission house upon the bluff above Kabakadai Point, which should be seen about 5 miles distant.

The anchorage is in 13 fathoms, with the white cliff bearing S.W. by W., but the bank is steep, and the bay is not recommended, except as a stopping place for the night.

Makara Bay, situated between Materbert Island and the shore, is a small but well sheltered anchorage, having depths of 10 to 13 fathoms. Good water may be obtained.

Tides.—There is only one tide in the 24 hours in the bays upon the north coast of New Britain, and that is irregular.

DUKE OF YORK ISLANDS.

MAKADA HARBOR.—A rock, upon which H.M.S. Beagle struck, lies in the western entrance to Makada Harbor, with West Point, on Makada Island, bearing N. 14° W. Pinnacle Rock (Duke of York Island) bearing S. 61° E.

It is stated that several sunken patches, having from 3 to 4 fathoms water over them, lie westward of the above danger, Great Credner Island bearing south leads westward of them.⁷

NEW IRELAND.

GERRIT DENYS ISLAND.—Luise Harbor.—On the north-east coast of Gerrit Denys Island, is the only harbor, and affords safe anchorage with all winds, except those from between north-east and east.

It is stated that another island, named St. Bruno, and for which no definite position is given, exists with the group of islands situated north of Gerrit Denys Island.⁸

Steffen Strait is said to be clear of reefs with the exception of that lying in the southern entrance, upon which a depth of 4 fathoms least water was found.⁹

Byron Strait is obstructed by numerous islands and reefs, through which there is no ship passage.¹⁰

NORTH CAPE, the name given to the northernmost point of New Ireland, is a low promontory, covered with coconut trees.

South-west of the cape is the island of Nusa, between which and the coast of New Ireland is formed a nearly land-locked harbor of about one mile in diameter, having good anchorage in 7 fathoms, the eastern part of the harbor being the deepest.

The entrance to the harbor from the northward has a bar, upon which 18 feet was obtained, but the southern entrance is stated to be deep enough to admit large ships.¹¹

Tide.—The tidal streams run strongly between the islands and the coast in this neighborhood, the ebb tide running to the southward 2 knots per hour.

Kapsu.—Anchorage may be obtained off Kapsu in 13 fathoms, opposite the trading station of Messrs. Hensheim and Co.¹²

NEW HANOVER.¹³

EAST ISLANDS.—These islands, four in number, are situated upon the same reef, the north-eastern island being the largest. Between these islands and Cape Solomon Sweet is a wide bay, ⁴ See Admiralty charts:—Pacific Ocean, S.W. sheet, No. 730; Coral Sea, sheet 11, No. 2764; Australia, northern portion, No. 2,759a; New Hanover, New Ireland, and New Britain, No. 764; Anchorages in New Britain, No. 55. in which depths of 10 to 18 fathoms were found. H.M.S. Conflict anchored in 18 fathoms, with the north extreme of the large East island bearing N.E. by E., distant 2 miles.

PORTLAND ISLANDS.—These four islands are upon a crescent-shaped reef, concave to the northward, the reef extends 3 miles westward of the westernmost island, and from one to two cables in other places; no anchorage was found by H.M.S. Conflict.

ADMIRALTY ISLANDS.¹¹

LA VANDOLA ISLAND is about 600 feet in height, nearly circular in shape, with a cliffy coastline upon the north side. There is a narrow fringing reef upon the southern side only, and no anchorage could be found. The natives came out in great numbers in their canoes, and were eager for barter.

Heavy rains and squalls were experienced during the months of July and August.

EAST COAST.—Vessels entering the harbor situated south-west of Bird Island should do so before noon, when the reefs are more easily discerned than when the sun is in the west. The fringing reef of Bird Island should be kept aboard until the reef in the centre of the entrance is made out, the passage northward of which is to be preferred.¹²

The anchorage is in the southern part of the port, in from 15 to 20 fathoms, where there is room for several vessels. In the south-west part of the anchorage the fringing reef extends 2 cables distant from the shore, where a small river empties itself, giving a muddy appearance to the water. The Imperial German vessel Habicht anchored in 17 fathoms, and was sheltered from wind and swell with Bird Island bearing E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., and the south entrance point S.E.

The anchorage in the northern part of the harbor inside Bird Island is not recommended, the water being deep, and there is not sufficient swinging room.

Between the two promontories upon the north-east extreme of Admiralty Island there is another harbor, rather larger than that above-mentioned, the entrance to which is close to the shore upon the northern side; it has, however, only 18 feet water in the passage in.

NORTH COAST.—Nares Harbor.—A shoal having $2\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms over it has been found upon the banks lying N.W. by N., distant half a mile from Failure Rocks.

A considerable tidal stream was observed to set, both east and west, without any perceptible rise or fall of water.

H.M.S. Conflict found anchorage in 3 fathoms in a bay three-quarters of a mile wide, with Observatory Island in Nares Harbor bearing N.W. by N., distant about 5 miles, no considerable indentation in the coast was seen from thence to the Barrier Reef. A flat rock occupies a central position in the bay, and two-thirds of a mile out there is a dangerous patch awash, with 8 fathoms close around, except upon the north-west side, where 2 and 3 fathoms were found.

During the season of north-westerly winds there is no protection from the wind and sea, which would render anchoring at that time impracticable.

A small river running into the bay round a remarkable black rock, about 100 feet high, affords a supply of good water, easily obtained.

Butacot Bay is reported to be a good and well sheltered anchorage.

From a position 9 miles eastward of Observatory Islet to Los Negros islands the coast is fronted by a barrier reef, upon which are several islands having passages to sea between them, from a half to two miles wide. H.M.S. Conflict, in working to windward between the barrier and the coast, found the channel two miles wide, and the dangers distinguishable. Reefs were observed to extend from all the points of the Admiralty Island shore, and good anchorage was obtained between them in from 5 to 11 fathoms; the vessel passed out to sea between the Los Negros islands.

Outer South Head Light—Alteration in Character.

With reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 122, of 7th May 1883, that an electric light would be exhibited from a new lighthouse erected on Outer South Head, Port Jackson entrance:—

The electric light is a revolving white light, attaining its greatest brilliancy every minute, instead of the minute and a half as previously; it is of considerably greater power than the old light, but its range and general effect will, for all practical purposes of navigation, be the same.

SHIRES OF NEWHAM AND ROMSEY.

PROPOSED SEVERANCE OF AREA.

IN pursuance of the provisions of The Local Government Act 1874 (No. 506, § 46), the substance and prayer of a Petition, in accordance with the 44th section of the said Act, which has been presented to His Excellency the Governor, are published, viz.:-

The petitioners purport to constitute a majority of the ratepayers in the East Riding of the Shire of Newham, and they desire that the said riding may be severed from that shire and annexed to the Shire of Romsey as a separate riding.

Area described in the petition:-

THE EAST RIDING OF THE SHIRE OF NEWHAM.

Petitioners state that their interests are identical in every respect with those of the Romsey Shire, all their postal, telegraph, and general business being done in the townships of Romsey and Lancefield, which are also their railway stations; that the area proposed to be severed is near the township of Romsey; and further, that as the roads used by petitioners are situated within Romsey Shire, they are anxious to contribute towards their construction and maintenance.

The petitioners therefore pray that the said East Riding may be severed from the said Shire of Newham and annexed as a separate riding (to be named the Rochford Riding) of the Shire of Romsey.
