53. Electrical Wiring.—Where electricity is or is intended to be taken from supply mains no electrical wiring work shall be carried out under these Regulations except by a person who holds the appropriate grade of licence or permit under the Regulations of the State Electricity Commission relating to the licensing of electrical mechanics.

54. Temporary Wiring for Surface Installations.—(a) Temporary wiring, that is, wiring installed in the manner referred to in Regulation 55, shall not be commenced until a written permit therefor has been obtained from the supply authority. No such permit will be granted for a period exceeding one month from the date of connexion to supply mains.

(b) On the expiration of the period for which a permit for temporary wiring is granted renewals of such permit for further periods of not longer than one month at a time may be granted from time to time.

(c) A permit for temporary wiring will not be renewed until the supply authority has satisfied itself by inspection, testing, or otherwise that the wiring and all apparatus connected thereto are in a safe and satisfactory condition.

(d) Temporary wiring shall be disconnected and entirely dismantled immediately after the expiry or sooner determination of the period of the permit.

55. Unless installed in a manner complying with the method laid down in the Wiring Regulations for permanent wiring, temporary wiring shall be installed in accordance with any special conditions endorsed by the supply authority on the permit granted for it and in compliance with the following:—

56. Permanent Wiring for Surface Installations.—Every installation which is connected or is intended to be connected permanently to supply mains shall comply with the provisions of the Wiring Regulations.

57. Installations Below Ground—General.—All electrical apparatus and conductors shall be sufficient in size and power for the work they may be called upon to do and efficiently covered or safeguarded and so installed, worked, and maintained as to reduce the danger through accidental shock or fire or over-heating to the minimum, and shall be of such construction and so worked that the rise in temperature caused by ordinary working will not injure the insulating materials.

58. Earthing.—All metal sheathing and armouring of cables, metal boxes, and conduits, frames of motors (including portable motors), exposed metal cores, and enclosures of transformers (including bell and signalling transformers), metal cases, and metal framework of switchgear, earthing terminals of plug sockets, and one point of the secondary winding of transformers used in connexion with extra-low pressure circuits shall be effectively earthed. All metallic conduits shall be mechanically rigid and mechanically and electrically continuous across all joints therein.

The minimum size of earthing conductor shall be 7/044-in. copper cable except in the case of flexible cords of smaller cross-sectional area than 0.010 sq. in., in which case the size of the earthing conductor shall be not smaller than that of the current carrying conductors in the flexible cord. Where the current carrying capacity of the active conductors exceeds 60 amperes the current carrying capacity of the earthing conductor shall be at least one-half that of the active conductor. The earthing conductor shall be run in such a manner that it will not be liable to mechanical damage and shall be connected to an earthing system at the surface. Joints, if any, shall be soldered and shall be at least equal in conductivity to that of the conductors connected.

59. Testing and Maintenance.—A test of the insulation of every complete lighting and power circuit, including all machinery, apparatus, and devices forming part of or in connexion with such circuit (either collectively or in parts) shall be taken at least once a month. The insulation of every such circuit shall be so maintained that when tested with an instrument designed for measuring insulation resistance and the testing pressure of which is 500 volts the insulation resistance shall not be less than 1 megohm, and in the event of that value not being obtained suitable steps shall be taken to localize and remedy the defect.

No repair or cleaning of the current carrying parts of any electrical apparatus shall be done when the apparatus is alive. The current shall be switched off before any lamp is replaced.

60. Switchboards.—Switchboard panels shall consist wholly of durable non-ignitable non-hygroscopic materials, which unless all live parts of apparatus mounted on or in contact with the panels are adequately insulated therefrom shall also be insulating materials of permanently high electric strength and insulation resistance.

Marble and slate panels shall be used only provided all conducting parts to be mounted thereon are insulated from the panel by a coating of suitable varnish or other non-hygroscopic insulating material.

Switchboards unless of a waterproof type must be fixed in a dry situation.

Where the neutral conductor of the supply system is solidly earthed at the source of supply every circuit outgoing from any switchboard shall be protected on the switchboard by a cut-out inserted in each active conductor or by a circuit-breaker with an over-current release in each active conductor.

In cases where the neutral conductor is not solidly earthed at the source of supply every circuit outgoing from any switchboard shall be protected on the switchboard by a cut-out inserted in each conductor or by a linked circuit-breaker with an over-current release in each conductor.

All such cut-outs must be of the safety replacement type, and circuit-breakers where used must be of a type which will prevent remaking of the circuit while a fault exists.

Switchboards having live metal at the rear thereof shall be erected with minimum spaces between the live metal and the supporting wall as specified hereunder:—

Where the area of the switchboard does not exceed

1 square foot—1 inch.

Where the area of the switchboard does not exceed

For the purpose of applying the table the current to be carried by the cable shall be taken as equal to that required for the maximum number of motors or other current-using apparatus that are at any time used simultaneously on the circuit.

Where paper insulated lead covered and armoured cables are used the size of the conductor shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of the Wiring Regulations.

63. All joints must be mechanically and electrically efficient. They must be suitably soldered or connected by an approved type of connector. The insulation of joints must be at least equal to that of the original cable.

64. As far as practicable cables throughout their entire length shall be so placed that they are not liable to damage, but where their position is such that they are liable to damage they shall be protected by a suitable covering.

65. Cables where suspended shall be supported by leather or other flexible material in such a manner as to allow of their readily breaking away when struck before the cables themselves can be seriously damaged. On no account shall staples be used. Cables if not encased shall be kept at least 2 inches apart and shall not be brought together except at lamps, switches, fittings, or apparatus.

66. Where blasting is being carried out suitable temporary protection shall be provided so that the cables are reasonably protected from damage.

67. All flexible cords shall be protected by tough rubber covering; and shall be of adequate current carrying capacity.

The minimum size of flexible cord shall be 23/0076 inch. Connections between flexible cords and cables shall be made only by means of a plug and socket, a ceiling rose, or other approved form of connecting device which is controlled by a switch in an accessible position adjacent thereto.

68. Cut-outs, Circuit-breakers, and Switches.—Cut-outs and automatic circuit-breakers shall be so constructed as to effectually interrupt the current when a short circuit occurs or when the current through them exceeds twice the maximum working current in the case of motors, or twice the maximum permissible current of the cables which the cut-outs protect. Every cut-out shall be stamped or marked with the rated current of the circuit in which it is to be used except that where there is no standard size of cut-out of the same rating as the circuit the cut-out shall be rated and marked at the next higher standard rating.

69. All switches, circuit-breakers, and cut-outs must have incombustible bases of marble, slate, or porcelain or other suitable incombustible insulating material. All live parts of switches, circuit-breakers, and cut-outs must be covered. These covers must be of incombustible material, and must be either non-conducting or of rigid metal clear of all internal mechanism and connected to earth.

All switches and circuit-breakers shall be sufficiently robust as to withstand rough usage, the contacts shall have ample contact surface to prevent over-heating, and the live parts shall be so guarded and protected that a person cannot come into contact therewith nor an arc be formed during the normal operation.

70. Motors.—Every motor circuit shall be protected by a cut-out or cut-outs in accordance with Regulation 60, and every motor shall be provided with a suitable control switch capable of disconnecting the motor from all active conductors and fixed in a position adjacent to the motor. Where the rated output of a motor exceeds 20 h.p. an automatic overcurrent circuit-breaker which interrupts all active conductors simultaneously shall be provided to control the motor in place of the switch before-mentioned.

Every alternating current motor exceeding 3 h.p. in rating shall be provided with means for automatically opening the circuit if the supply pressure falls sufficiently to cause the motor to stop.

71. Portable Lamps.—Only handlamps of an approved type shall be used for portable lighting fittings.

72. Special Precaution in Gassy Places.—In gassy places gas and flame-proof covers must be provided to enclose motors, lamps, switches, and cut-outs.

Any plug-socket used in such a place must be of the interlocking type interlocked with a flame-proof switch.

Conductors may be joined together only within gas-tight joint boxes forming part of a flame-proof enclosure.

73. Blasting.—Current for shot firing purposes shall not be taken from any light or power circuit.

No. 199.—8634/41.—2

74. Signal and Telephone Circuits.—The pressure used for aural signalling purposes shall not exceed 25 volts, and if alternating current shall be obtained from a double wound transformer one terminal on the secondary side of which shall be connected to earth. The use of auto-transformers is strictly prohibited.

Bell pushes used for signalling shall be so constructed as to prevent accidental closing of the circuit.

Conductors for signalling purposes connected on the secondary side of a transformer shall not be run in the same conduits as the conductors for power or lighting circuits.

Signal or telephone wires whether insulated or not shall be prevented from coming into contact with cables forming part of the electrical installation either by having the wires and cables securely attached to insulators so that a clearance of 1 foot is maintained or by the interposition of an insulating spacer which will maintain a distance of 2 inches between the wires and cables. Such spacer must extend at least 1 foot on both sides of the crossing.

PART IV.—SUPPLEMENTAL.

75. Matters Not Provided for.—Should an inspector find any excavation or any part thereof or any machine, plant, matter, thing, or practice in or connected therewith to be dangerous or defective so as in his opinion to threaten or tend to the bodily injury of any person employed in or about any excavation, and these Regulations do not sufficiently provide for remedying such danger or defect the inspector shall give written instructions to the constructor or the superintendent to remedy such danger or defect. Failure to comply with such instructions within the time specified by the inspector shall constitute a breach of these Regulations.

76. Posting of Regulations.—Where more than ten men are employed in or about any excavation a printed abstract of these Regulations shall be posted in some conspicuous place.

77. Superintendents to be Provided with Regulations.—All constructors shall provide superintendents with a copy of these Regulations, and such superintendents shall be required to make themselves familiar with the provisions thereof.

78. Penalty for Non-compliance with Regulations.—If any person is employed in or about any excavation during any time when any requirement of any of these Regulations is not complied with the constructor or the superintendent or other person in charge of the work in or about such excavation shall be guilty of an offence against these Regulations.

Every person who does not do anything directed to be done or does anything forbidden to be done by or under these Regulations shall be guilty of an offence against these Regulations.

Every person guilty of an offence against these Regulations shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5.

CITY OF MELBOURNE.

BY-LAW No. 251.

To Amend and Consolidate By-laws Prescribing Areas within the Municipal District as Residential Areas.

NOTICE is hereby given that at meetings of the Council of the City of Melbourne held on the 21st day of April, 1941, and the 19th day of May, 1941, the said Council made, passed, and confirmed a By-law intitled "A By-law of the City of Melbourne, made under Part VII. of the Local Government Act 1928, to amend and consolidate the By-laws prescribing areas within the municipal district as residential areas, and prohibiting or regulating within such areas the erection (including adaptation for use) of buildings and the use of land and buildings therein, and for other purposes," and numbered 251, as a By-law of the City of Melbourne; and that a copy of the said By-law is open for inspection, free of charge, during office hours, namely, from Nine a.m. to Five p.m. daily, except on Saturdays, when the hours shall be from Nine a.m. to Twelve noon, at the Town Clerk's office, Town Hall, Swanston-street, Melbourne.

The By-law amends and consolidates the By-laws (Nos. 177, 196, 199, 206, 212, 214, 223, 236, and 246) prescribing areas within the municipal district as residential areas, and prohibiting or regulating within such areas the erection (including adaptation for use) of buildings and the use of land and buildings therein and for other purposes.

The By-law deals, inter alia, with the following matters:—

- (a) Prescribes the areas described in the Second Schedule as residential areas.
- (b) The provisions of the By-law shall not apply to any lands or buildings used or hereafter to be used for the purpose of a school, church, public hospital, university, or college, nor shall they apply or be deemed to apply so as in any manner to affect the right of any person, being a barrister or solicitor or a medical practitioner, dentist, or teacher, to carry on the practice of his profession or business in any dwelling-house or the right of any person to carry on in or upon any lands comprised within the area bounded on the south by Racecourse-road, on the west by Ascot Vale-road, on the north by Kent-street, and on the east by the Essendon railway line, the trade, industry, or business of a racehorse trainer, or to erect or construct upon any such lands, or any part thereof, any stable or other building for the purpose of such trade, industry, or business as aforesaid.
- (c) Within three months after the coming into operation of the By-law every person who is the owner of any business premises which are situated in any residential area must, by notice to the Council, in writing, in the form in the Fifth Schedule, specify the purpose for which such business premises as last aforesaid are being used; but any notice to the like effect given to the Council under By-law No. 177 or any By-law amending the same shall for all purposes be deemed to have been given under this By-law.

- (d) If no such notice is received by the Council within three months from the date of the By-law coming into operation, the Council may direct any of its officers to enter in the register mentioned in the By-law particulars of the purpose for which any such business premises or land are or is used, but this will not relieve the owner of any penalty provided under the By-law for his default in giving such notice.
- (e) The written consent of the Council must first be obtained before any person shall use or permit to be used any such business premises, whether in their original condition or as subsequently enlarged, rebuilt, or extended, whether or not such enlargement, rebuilding, or extension involve the use of such adjoining land as aforesaid for any purpose other than the purpose for which it was used at the time of the passing of the By-law or a purpose which is permitted by the By-law.
- (f) No person shall erect or construct any business premises or use as business premises any building or land in any part of any residential area, but any person may carry on in or upon any land described in the Third Schedule any one or more of the trades, industries, or businesses specified in the Fourth Schedule, or may erect or construct upon any such land any building for the purposes of such trades, industries, or businesses as aforesaid or any of them respectively.
- (g) The Council may, by notice, in writing, under the hand of the surveyor, require any owner, or the occupier, if the owner is unknown or cannot be found within a time to be limited in the notice, to put any business premises or other erection contrary to any of the provisions of the By-law in a state or condition conformable to the provisions of the By-law, or else to pull down and remove the same.
- (h) If such notice is not complied with or if no owner or occupier can be found on whom to serve such notice, the Council is empowered to take down, at the cost of the owner, all or so much of business premises or erection as, in its opinion, is not conformable to the provisions of the By-law; and the Council may sell the materials of business premises or other erection so taken down and apply the proceeds of such sale in payment of the expenses incurred, and pay any overplus arising from the sale to the owner of the business premises or other erection on demand.
- (i) Any occupier of any business premises or land, whether under lease or otherwise, who prevents or obstructs the owner thereof from carrying into effect in respect of such business premises or land any of the provisions of the By-law or otherwise complying therewith, shall be guilty of an offence against the By-law, and be liable to the under-mentioned penalties prescribed for a continued offence for every day such obstruction shall continue thereafter.
- (j) "Business premises" includes any shed, outhouse, hoarding, stable, workshop, garage, water-closet, underground tank, or excavation, and any other building or erection whatsoever, or any land wholly or partially used for or adapted to the use of any class of trade, industry, manufacture, business, or public amusement of any kind whatsoever, other than the business of keeping a lodging-house, boarding-house, or flats, or the business of a library or book-club.
- (k) The maximum penalty for any offence under the By-law is £20, and for each continued offence, £10 each day after written notice from the Council under the hand of the Surveyor.

(i) Before starting overtime after working ordinary hours a meal break of at least 45 minutes shall be allowed, unless the period of overtime is less than one and a half hours.

An employer and his employee may mutually agree to any variation of this sub-clause to meet the circumstances of the work in hand.

(b) Annual leave shall be given at a time fixed by the employer within a period not exceeding six months from the date when the right to annual leave accrued, and after not less than one week's notice to the employee, provided that the giving of annual leave may, with the consent of the Secretary for Labour, be postponed for a period to be specified in cases where the exigencies of the war render it impracticable to give it within the said period of six months.

(c) An employer may allow annual leave to an employee before the right thereto has accrued due, but where leave is taken in such a case, a further period of annual leave shall not commence to accrue until after the expiration of the twelve months in respect of which annual leave had been taken before it accrued.

(d) If after six months' continuous service, an employee leaves his employment or his employment is terminated by the employer through no fault of the employee, the employee shall be paid one-sixth of a week's wage in respect of each completed two months of continuous service in respect of which leave has not been granted hereunder.

(e) Each employee before going on leave shall be paid a week's wage: For the purpose of this sub-clause and sub-clause (d) hereof the week's wage shall be at the rate prescribed by clause (2) of this Determination for the occupation in which the employee was ordinarily employed immediately prior to the commencement of his leave or the termination of his employment, as the case may be, including in the case of leading hands the additional allowance prescribed by clause 14 of the said Determination, but not including any other special rates prescribed by this Determination and including, in the case of employees whose employment is by the hour, the loading prescribed by sub-clause (b) of clause 12 of the said Determination. Payment in the case of employees employed on piece or bonus work or any other system of payment by results shall be at time rates.

(f) The annual leave provided for by this clause shall be allowed and shall be taken, and except as provided by sub-clause (d) hereof, payment shall not be made or accepted in lieu of annual leave.

(g) Notwithstanding anything herein provided an employer who gives to an employee leave of absence without loss of pay throughout the interval of time—

- (i) between the day observed under this Determination as the Christmas Day holiday and the day observed thereunder as the New Year's Day holiday; or shall be deemed thereby to fulfil all obligations to that employee under this clause in respect of the period of twelve months' service referred to in sub-clause (a) hereof. The provision of sub-clause (c) hereof shall apply to this sub-clause.
- (ii) between the day immediately preceding the Good Friday holiday and the Monday next after the Easter Monday holiday.

(h) Where leave has been granted to an employee pursuant to sub-clauses (c) or (g) hereof before the right thereto has accrued due, and the employee subsequently leaves or is discharged from the service of the employer before completing the twelve months' continuous service in respect of which the leave was granted, the employer may, for each two complete months of the qualifying period of twelve months not served by the employee, deduct from whatever remuneration is payable upon the termination of the employment one-sixth of the amount of wage paid on account of the annual leave, which amount shall not include any sums paid for any of the holidays prescribed by this Determination.

(i) In the case of employees in the employment of an employer on the 30th day of June, 1941, service before the date of this Determination shall be taken into consideration for the purpose of calculating annual leave, and persons in employment on the 30th day of June, 1940, shall, for the purposes of this clause, be deemed to have commenced their service on that date.

- (j) For the purpose of this clause service shall be deemed to be continuous notwithstanding—
- (i) any interruption or determination of the employment by the employer, if such interruption or determination has been made merely with the intention of avoiding obligations hereunder in respect of leave of absence;
  - (ii) any absence from work on account of sickness or accident or military service, and in calculating the period of twelve months' continuous service absence on account of sickness or accident to the extent of fourteen days in any twelve months shall be deemed to be part of the period of continuous service;
  - (iii) any termination of employment by the employee if such termination has been made merely with the intention of preventing the operation of sub-clause (g) hereof.
- (k) Except as provided by sub-clause (g) hereof the annual leave prescribed by this clause shall be exclusive of any of the holidays prescribed by this Determination, and if any such holiday falls within an employee's period of annual leave, there shall be added to that period one day for each such holiday falling as aforesaid.
- (l) For the purpose of this clause, a month shall be reckoned as commencing with the beginning of the first day of the employment or period of employment in question, and as ending at the beginning of the day which in the latest month in question has the same date number as that which the commencing day had in its month, and if there be no such day in such subsequent month shall be reckoned as ending at the end of such subsequent month.
- (m) Where the employer is a successor or assignee or transferee of a business, if an employee was in the employment of the employer's predecessor at the time when he became such successor or assignee or transferee, the employee in respect of the period during which he was in the service of the predecessor shall, for the purpose of this clause, be deemed to be in the service of the employer.
