Unless the contrary intention appears words and expressions in these Regulations shall have the same respective meanings as in the Act.

PART 2.

VENTILATION.

Adequate Ventilation to be Maintained.

5. An adequate amount of ventilation shall be constantly produced in every mine to such an extent that the shafts, outlets, winzes, rises, roads, sumps, levels, stables, pump rooms, haulage rooms, and workings in the mine, shall be in a fit state for working and passing therein. Provided that any discontinued or abandoned part of a mine shall, if properly fenced off, not be deemed to be part of the mine within the meaning of this Regulation.

Ventilation Standards.

6. The air in any working place shall not be deemed to be adequate if—

- (a) it contains less than 20 per cent. by volume of oxygen;
- (b) it contains by volume more than—
  - (i) 0.25 per cent. of carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>),
  - (ii) 0.007 per cent. of carbon monoxide (CO),
  - (iii) 0.001 per cent. of nitrous fumes,
  - (iv) 0.002 per cent. of hydrogen cyanide (HCN),
  - (v) 0.002 per cent. hydrogen sulphide (H<sub>2</sub>S), or
  - (vi) 0.0001 per cent. arsine (AsH<sub>3</sub>);

- (c) it shows a count in excess of 300 particles of dust per cubic centimetre, which is 5 microns or less in diameter. Such count shall be the average of not less than six tests caused to be taken by the Chief Inspector, and in any case where the free silica content of an airborne sample exceeds 35 per cent. the maximum allowable number of particles of dust per cubic centimetre shall be as prescribed in writing by the Chief Inspector;
- (d) the temperature of the air exceeds 83 degrees Fahrenheit by the wet bulb thermometer.

Stoppings and Doors.

7. Air-doors, stoppings, cross-overs, and brattices shall be provided where necessary for the regulation of the ventilation air currents and shall be maintained in good working order. All air doors shall be so erected that they will close automatically and remain closed and any air-door not in use shall be lifted off its hinges.

Plans of Mines to Show Provision for Ventilation.

8. Upon the plan and sections of every mine required to be made under the Act there shall at intervals of not more than one month be correctly delineated the direction of all air currents and the position of all ventilating appliances, brattices, air crossings, doors, stoppings, and air-pipes.

Recirculation of Air.

9. The air currents passing through every mine shall as far as practicable be regulated so that the air shall pass through the workings from inlet to outlet without local circulations, and in such a manner that the same air shall not be allowed to return continuously through the same place.

Air to be Split.

10. The workings from each level in every mine shall, unless the Chief Inspector otherwise authorizes in writing, be ventilated by a separate split of air from the main intake into such level, and after passing through these workings, the air shall be led as directly as possible to the return air-way.

11. All drives by which any two or more mines are connected shall if considered necessary by an inspector be kept open for ventilation and for escape; provided however that the Chief Inspector may order any connexion between mines to be closed where he considers that the ventilating conditions will be thereby improved.

Connecting Drives to be Constructed under Certain Conditions.

12. Upon the order of an inspector made with the concurrence in writing of the Chief Inspector, the owners of the mines concerned shall construct such connecting drives where the workings are not more than 300 feet apart for ventilation and escape at their joint expense. Where deemed necessary by an inspector for the purposes of ventilation, all levels shall be connected upon the order of such inspector made with the concurrence in writing of the Chief Inspector.

Recovery of Cost of Connecting Drives.

13. An owner who has constructed drives up to the boundary of a mine owned by him shall not be liable to contribute to the cost of constructing such drives into the land lease or claim of another owner of a mine unless in the opinion of an inspector and of the Chief Inspector such construction of drives or connexion is of benefit to the first-mentioned owner. In default of such first-mentioned owner constructing such portion of such connecting drive as the warden shall adjudge to be a fair and reasonable proportion having regard to the amount of benefit derived by such first-mentioned owner or to contribute the cost thereof, the warden may upon the complaint of the owner who has caused such connecting drive to be made determine the amount to be paid by such first-mentioned owner and every such complaint shall be deemed to be a proceeding within the meaning of sections two hundred and forty-eight and two hundred and forty-nine of the Act. For the purpose of enabling wardens to hear determine and enforce such complaints and of enabling appeals to be made from their decisions all the provisions of Part 1 of the Act applying to proceedings under such sections shall apply to such complaint so far as the same may be applicable.

Auxiliary Ventilation Appliances.

14. For the purpose of securing a better distribution of the ventilating current in and an adequate supply of air to the working places of any mine the Chief Inspector may order that auxiliary ventilating appliances be provided and kept constantly working.

Purity of Air to Machines.

15. The supply of air for any ventilating machine or air-compressor which forces air into the workings shall be drawn from the purest source available. When so ordered by an inspector, all such air compressors shall be fitted with suitable inter-coolers and after-coolers.

Blowing out Air Receivers.

16. (a) Air receivers and the pipes connecting them with the compressors shall be blown out every day on which the same are in operation.

Traps in Compressed Air Mains.

(b) Air mains from the compressors and all branch mains therefrom on all levels in a mine shall be furnished with sufficient traps of an approved type, to remove accumulations of water, and water shall not be allowed to blow through to the working faces. Traps shall be blown off at least once in every shift.

17. (a) Where dust fumes or toxic gases are produced in the course of any mining operations or in any crushing plant or reduction mill to such an extent that the health of the workmen be endangered thereby, the owner or manager shall make provision for preventing or allaying such dust fumes or toxic gases, or the danger to persons liable to inhale such dust fumes or toxic gases. No person shall work in or cause or allow to be worked any mine, place, quarry, crushing plant, or reduction mill until such provision is made and effectively and constantly used.

(b) Where, in the opinion of an inspector, the dust from tailings dumps, or any other heaps of waste rock or mill residues on a mine is detrimental to the health of any persons, he shall give notice in writing to that effect and the manager shall thereupon provide and cause to be constantly used such spraying appliances or other means as will effectively lay the dust.

(c) The water that is used either on surface or underground for the purpose of laying dust fumes or toxic gases, shall be free from pollution with noxious matter.

Rock Drilling Machines.

18. Every rock drilling machine employed underground in a mine shall be overhauled regularly at least once in every fortnight, and maintained in a proper state of repair by a competent person approved in writing by the Chief Inspector.

In the event of fogging occurring as a result of any defect in or misuse of any such machine, the manager of the mine shall not permit the machine to be further used, nor shall any person use such machine until the cause of the fogging has been removed.

Hours of Blasting.

19. Subject to the approval of an inspector, the manager shall cause the times of blasting operations in every section of the mine to be so arranged that workmen shall not be exposed to dust fumes and toxic gases from blasting.

Entry after Blasting.

20. No person shall enter and the manager shall not allow any person to do so, any working place after blasting has taken place until the fumes, dust or toxic gases arising from the explosion have been effectively dispersed.

Shafts, &c., to be of Sufficient Area and Kept Clear.

21. Shafts, winzes, levels, air pipes and all working places shall be of sufficient area and kept clear for the free passage of the ventilating current and shall be examined at least once in every week by the mine manager or some competent person appointed by him who shall forthwith make an entry in the record book of the condition at each of such examinations and of the results of all ventilation tests made at each of such examinations.

Use of Cyanide Tailings for Filling.

22. Tailings used for filling worked out ground shall not contain more free cyanide than is equivalent to .01 per cent. of potassium cyanide. A strong current of air shall be maintained through any workings which are being filled with such tailings so long as men are working and passing therein.

Acid Treatment of Zinc Slimes.

23. All vessels used for the acid treatment of zinc slimes from the cyanide process shall be fitted with hoods or other appliances which shall prevent the fumes from entering the air breathed by the workmen engaged on that process and shall discharge to atmosphere in such manner as to cause no danger to other persons.

Noxious Fumes.

24. In every case where fumes or toxic gases which in the opinion of the Chief Inspector are noxious or dangerous to persons are likely to escape from any furnace or other plant used in connexion with any metallurgical processes in quantities or conditions likely to endanger the health and life of persons engaged in, on or about the premises in which the metallurgical process is carried on, such furnace or other plant shall, for the purpose of preventing such escape, be equipped with a suitable fume precipitator approved by the Chief Inspector and suitable means for removing toxic gases.

Airways in Filled Stopes.

25. In filling stopes, or in shrinkage stopes, rearings or passes shall be constructed so as to leave open airways between the filling and the unbroken ground.

Provision of Smoke Helmets.

26. If in any mine foul air accumulates or is likely to accumulate to such a degree as in the opinion of the Chief Inspector to be dangerous to the safety of persons employed in the mine the Chief Inspector may require that smoke helmets or like appliances approved by him be kept ready for use in the mine.

PART 3.

WINDING AND SIGNALS.

Engine Driver not to Absent Himself Unless Relieved.

27. No winding engine driver shall under any pretext whatever, unless relieved by a person qualified for that purpose, absent himself or cease to have continual supervision of such machinery during the time it is required to be used in working the mine.

Winding Engine to be Kept Ready for Use.

28. Every winding engine shall be kept ready for use and shall be in charge of an engine driver during the time any person is underground in the mine unless the Chief Inspector certifies in writing that the services of an engine driver are not necessary.

When Cages to be Used.

29. Every shaft exceeding 200 feet in depth where engine-power is used for lowering or raising men shall be provided with a cage to transport such men, provided that the Chief Inspector may grant an exemption to this regulation in writing, subject to such conditions as he may determine.

Nothing contained in this regulation shall prevent the use of buckets or skips during the sinking of shafts or winzes or for raising or lowering mining material, mine products or debris.

Design of Cages.

30. The design and construction of cages shall be approved by an inspector prior to use. The inspector shall take into consideration the following minimum requirements:—

- (i) Every cage used for raising and lowering men shall have a clear height of 6 ft. 6 in. from the floor of the cage to the underside of the moving parts of the safety gearing, or, if the gearing is outside the cage, between the floor and the cover of the cage.

- (ii) The cover of each cage shall be securely hung on hinges and shall be fitted in a sloping position so as to be readily lifted upwards by persons within the cage. The thickness of the cover shall be determined by an Inspector.
- (iii) In the case of multiple-decked cages portion of each intermediate floor shall be hinged so as to allow persons below to raise that portion to obtain access to the deck above.
- (iv) The sides shall be fitted with suitable and adequate covering to protect the persons in the cage.

Side Guards on Cages.

31. A drop bar shall be fitted to every cage entrance and gates or doors approved by an inspector shall be securely fixed on all cages during such time as they are used for raising and lowering men during the change of shifts.

Men Travelling with Tools.

32. No tools, trucks or material shall be taken up or down a shaft when men, other than surveyors, platmen, pitmen or shaft repairers or in cases of emergency other employees specially authorized by the mine manager, are in the cage.

Raising or Lowering Tools in Winzes, &c.

33. Tools shall not be raised or lowered in any winze or other confined place in which men are working, except in a bucket or other approved receptacle, and any projecting tool shall be secured so as to prevent it falling out of such bucket or receptacle.

Roof over Shaft.

34. Except when a shaft is being repaired or inspected, all persons working or being lowered or raised therein shall be protected overhead from falls of material down such shaft by means of a roof or other suitable appliance.

Safety Appliances to be Fitted to Cages.

35. (a) Every cage, skip or gig used in a mine shall be fitted with special and suitable appliances to prevent its sudden fall down a shaft, and also to prevent it coming into contact with the poppet-head. An exemption may be granted by the Chief Inspector for inclined shafts under such conditions as he may determine in writing.

(b) The specific design of the appliances shall be approved by an inspector.

(c) All detaching and suspending hooks and safety catches shall, at least once in every month, be taken to pieces, examined, cleaned, and oiled by a competent person, who shall record the fact in a book to be kept at the mine for the purpose.

(d) In every safety hook an inspection hole three-eighths of an inch in diameter shall be drilled through the plates of the hook and kept clear. Every safety hook shall be cleaned at least once in every six months or at such lesser periods as an inspector may order.

(e) All detaching plates and bells in use shall be tested once at least each three months by means of calipers and gauges.

(f) Once at least in every six months all cage and skip chains and hooks in general use shall be annealed or given other proper heat treatment and shall be thoroughly examined by a properly qualified and competent person. Provided that the Chief Inspector may by writing exempt from the requirements of this sub-regulation chains or hooks made of material which does not require heat treatment.

(g) No safety hook shall be used that will not suspend a cage at the poppet head when detached from the ropes.

(h) If so ordered by an inspector, every baling tank shall be fitted with such safety appliances as may be ordered by such inspector.

Over-run in Shafts.

36. There shall not be less than 10 feet of clearance between the detaching hooks and the point of detachment when the cages are at the landing.

Testing Cages, &c., fitted with Safety Appliances.

37. (a) Before any cage or any baling tank, skip or gig fitted with safety appliances is first used it shall be tested in the presence of an inspector and in a manner specified by him, to show that it is supplied with proper appliances.

(b) No such cage, baling tank, skip or gig shall be used until the inspector gives a certificate to the effect that it is in fit working order and condition.

(c) The mining manager or engineer in charge of the mine shall test the appliances at least once in every two months and also at such times and in such manner as the inspector for the district concerned may require; and shall enter in his record book the result of every test so made under this Regulation.

(d) Safety cages or safety skips shall be tested with maximum load according to the requirements of the Inspector and shall not be used until provided with all the appliances as are required by him, and unless the same are in good working order and condition. The manager or other duly qualified persons appointed by him, shall test the skips and cages at least once every month by testing from the drum. If required by an inspector, the cage or skip shall be tested by a "free fall" test in such manner as specified by him. The results of all such tests shall be entered in the mine record book.

Men Not to Ride Outside Cage.

38. Men ascending or descending any shaft by means of a cage shall not, except in the performance of some special duty, ride on the outside of the cage.

Number of Men Allowed in Cage.

39. The inspector shall determine the maximum number of men who may ride in any cage at any one time, and the mine manager shall post and keep posted at the landing stage a notice stating such number. No greater number than that so notified shall ride in any cage at any one time.

Overwind Catches.

40. The owner, agent, or manager shall cause automatic or self-acting catches of a suitable kind to be fixed below the winding sheaves of every shaft in which a cage is used so as to prevent the fall of such cage down the shaft when detached from the rope by overwinding, and shall cause proper platforms to be provided at such catches, and such catches to be kept in proper working order.

Chairs at Plats.

41. At all plats where hauling operations are carried on, chairs or bearers or some other appliance approved by an inspector shall be installed. In the case of chairs or bearers, a lever or handle shall be attached whereby the said chairs or bearers can be safely lowered into position or raised without possible danger to the person performing the duty.

Brakes and Indicators.

42. (a) All machinery used for raising or lowering men or the haulage of material shall be approved by the Chief Inspector and be provided with an adequate brake fitted in such a manner to each winding drum that it can be applied by the engine driver concerned without leaving his operating position.

(b) A dial or indicator approved by an inspector shall also be provided to enable the engine driver to accurately determine the position in the shaft of each cage, skip or bucket.

(c) Where the apparatus ordinarily used for raising or lowering persons to or from the surface is worked by mechanical power it shall, if the shaft is vertical and is more than 300 feet in depth, be provided with an effective automatic contrivance to prevent overwinding, which contrivance is hereinafter called the "automatic contrivance." The automatic contrivance shall at all times when persons are being raised or lowered prevent the descending cage from being landed at the shaft bottom or other permanent landing at a speed exceeding 5 feet per second, and shall also control the movement of the ascending cage in such manner as to prevent danger to persons riding therein or using the same. The requirements of this Regulation shall not apply to any mine which is exempted in writing by the Chief Inspector on the ground of special circumstances.

(d) Unless the automatic contrivance is in full and fixed engagement with the winding engine it shall be fully engaged either automatically or by the winding engine-driver whenever persons are to be raised or lowered, and a proper automatic indicator to show that this has been done shall be provided in such a position as to be easily seen by the bracman; and no person shall be allowed to enter any cage until the indicator shows that the automatic contrivance has been fully engaged.

Flanges and Appliances on Drums.

43. There shall be on the drum of every machine used for lowering or raising persons such flanges or horns and also if the drum is conical such other appliances as may be sufficient to prevent the rope from slipping on the drum, and also appliances to prevent the drum from revolving when out of gear.

Winding in Single Gear.

44. (a) In the case of winding engines provided with two drums, men shall not, except in case of emergency, be raised or lowered in a cage connected with such engine, while one of the drums is out of gear and loose on the shaft which supports it.

(b) In the event of men being so raised or lowered in any case of emergency, the manager must within 24 hours notify the inspector in writing, and give full particulars of the circumstances which necessitated men being allowed to ride in the cage under such conditions.

(c) No persons shall be lowered by means of an ungeared or single drum with brake or friction gear only.

45. On all occasions when repairs are being effected to the clutch or brakes of a winding engine and where ropes are attached to the drums, the skip or cage shall be removed or firmly supported by other means than the rope while the work is in progress.

Speed of Winding.

46. In raising or lowering men the rate of speed shall not exceed 500 feet per minute when the cage or skip or bucket is within 200 feet of the surface or bottom stopping place; the maximum rate of speed in any other portion of the shaft shall be determined by the inspector.

Winding Ropes.

47. Any rope used for hoisting ore and material shall have a breaking strain when new of not less than eight times the static stress in the rope due to the suspended load including the weight of the rope from the headsheaves to the cage or skip connexion or not less than ten times the static stress in the rope due to the suspended load excluding the self weight of the rope. When transporting men the static working stress allowable in all cases shall be 20 per cent. less than that permitted when transporting ore and material. Provided that when men are transported in shafts less than 1,500 feet in depth, the first provision shall apply.

48. Ropes used for winding shall be reshod or reclamped at least every six months, or at shorter intervals if required by an inspector. The portion of rope cut off at the lower end shall not be less in length than half the circumference of the head sheave. Should an inspector so require, portion of the rope shall be tested pursuant to the provisions of Regulation 51 (b) of these Regulations.

49. If the breaking strain of the rope as determined by test measurement is less than 75 per cent. of the breaking strain of the rope when new, or if, after inspection or test or both by an inspector, the rope is considered to be unsafe, it shall be condemned by the inspector and removed forthwith.

50. Before a rope which has been spliced or has previously been in service can be used for any other winding or haulage purpose, the complete history of the rope and the details of the proposed use thereof shall be submitted to an inspector and his approval obtained before the rope is so used.

Testing of Ropes.

51. (a) When any winding rope is to be placed in service in a mine, the owner, agent or manager shall deposit with an inspector a true copy of the maker's certificate giving full details of the construction of the rope, the class of steel used, and the breaking strain of the rope and condition of rope at time it is to be installed.

(b) If such inspector is not satisfied that the maker's certificate supplied to him is authentic, and applies to the particular rope in question, he may require a certificate to be obtained by means of a test of the breaking strain of a sample of the rope at a testing station approved by the Chief Inspector and the manager shall thereupon obtain that certificate and forward it to the inspector before using the rope.

(c) The testing of ropes which have been used shall be by means of a test at an approved testing station of a sample cut off the cage end of the rope.

Examination of Ropes and Winding Appliances.

52. (a) The manager, or some competent person or persons appointed by him in writing in the mine record book, shall carefully examine—

- (i) at least once each day, the winding ropes and their attachments to the cages, the brakes, depth indicators, the cages and their safety catches, the head sheaves, and all and every external part of the winding arrangements upon the proper working of which safety to life depends;
- (ii) at least once a week, the guides and the winding compartments generally, and the signalling arrangements;
- (iii) at least once a month, the structure of the rope, for the purpose of discovering the amount of deterioration of it. For the purpose of this examination the rope must be thoroughly cleaned at selected places not more than 100 feet apart, and the manager or person appointed by him shall note the condition of the rope externally, and so far as practicable internally, and shall record his view of that condition in a rope record book, noting especially any significant reduction in diameter of the rope and estimating the reduction in its strength due to wear;
- (iv) at least once a year, the winding engine as to the condition of its working parts.

(b) A test shall be made before the installation of any new, remodelled, or repaired skip, cage, or tank, and after any alteration to the shaft timber or head frame, for clearance and free travel in all parts of the shaft in use up to the detaching thimble.

Maintenance of Ropes.

53. Each winding or hoisting rope shall be treated with a suitable rope compound at least once a month.

History of Ropes.

- (ix) dates of examination, cleaning and oiling of winding ropes and appliances required by these Regulations; and
- (x) dates of annealing of cage chains and detaching hooks;

and every such entry shall be signed by the manager or such competent person responsible for making such test or examination.

Defects.

55. (a) In the event of any weakness or defect in the rope or winding appliances being discovered in the course of or as a result of examination, the defect shall be immediately reported to the manager and no person shall be lowered or raised by the rope or appliance until the defect is properly and adequately remedied.

(b) Immediately any defect is discovered in a rope, it shall no longer be used for transport of persons, unless the damaged part be at the end and be cut off, and is otherwise safe for such use.

Chains.

56. No chain shall be used for lowering or raising persons in any shaft, but short coupling chains may be attached to the cage, skip or tank. In such cases, two single link chains of uniform size shall be used to each coupling and the two chains shall each have a breaking strain of not less than eight times the weight of the load upon them.

Winding after Stoppage.

57. After any stoppage of winding, whether for repairs or for any other purpose, exceeding four hours in duration or in the operation of changing levels, each cage or other conveyance shall, before any other person is allowed to travel therein, be run a complete trip up and down the working portion of the shaft with the object of ensuring that the shaft is clear and that everything is in good working order.

(d) Licences may be withdrawn or revoked by the Chief Inspector at any time for any of the following reasons:—

(i) Where it is in the opinion of the Chief Inspector against the public interest or safety to continue to store explosives in a particular locality, or

(ii) any breaches of the conditions under which the licence was issued.

(e) Should the holder of a licence to store explosives cease mining operations at a mine for which he holds such a licence he shall, within 28 days of the cessation of operations, surrender his licence to the Chief Inspector.

(f) The holder of a licence to store explosives desiring to renew such licence, shall during the month of December in each year apply to the Secretary for Mines for renewal for a further period of twelve months and shall forward or produce, in connexion with such application, his current licence and pay the prescribed fee.

(j) The Chief Inspector may at any time, if he thinks fit and proper, increase the amount of explosives which may be stored in any magazine, and on payment of the prescribed fee alter such licence accordingly.

Construction of Mine Magazines.

116. (a) Every magazine shall be constructed to the satisfaction of, and according to specifications prepared by the Chief Inspector and shall afford reasonable security against unlawful entry and shall have the word "Explosives" or "Detonators" (as the case may be) painted in plain and conspicuous characters on the exterior of such magazine.

(b) Every magazine shall be maintained in a condition satisfactory to the Chief Inspector.

Control of Surface Magazines.

117. Every magazine on the surface shall be in charge of the manager or person authorized by the manager who shall have in his possession the keys of the magazines and who shall be responsible for the safe storage of the explosives contained therein.

Control of Underground Magazines.

118. Every underground magazine shall be in charge of a person authorized by the manager who shall have in his possession the keys of the magazines and who shall be responsible for the supervision and distribution of the explosives. Nothing in this Regulation shall prevent the authorized person being one of the men at work in the mine.

Detonators.

124. (a) No explosives shall be taken from the approved place of storing except for immediate use and any surplus explosives shall be returned immediately to the place of storing.

(b) Explosives, detonators and fuses when taken from a magazine for use in the workings shall be conveyed direct to such workings and shall not be taken for use into such workings of the mine except in a securely covered case, canister, or other suitable container of a type and pattern approved by an Inspector. Detonators, capped fuses and electric detonators shall be carried in a separate container.

(c) Cases containing explosives shall not be opened in a magazine and shall be removed therefrom one at a time. Cases shall be opened only at a spot at least 100 feet distant from the magazine.

(d) Only implements made of wood, brass or copper shall be used in opening cases of explosives and the Manager shall provide and keep provided suitable appliances for the purpose.

(e) Capping of fuses and the preparation of electric detonators shall be carried out by an authorized person in a suitable place set aside for the purpose and which is at least 100 feet distant from the main magazine or in a suitable place on the surface approved by an inspector. Such authorized person shall deliver the required number of capped fuses or electric detonators to each place where blasting is to take place.

(f) All fuses shall be cut to the required length with a sharp instrument and detonators shall be crimped on the fuse with the type of crimper approved by an inspector.

Use of Explosives.

125. (a) No metal tool, bar, rod or pricker shall be used when charging explosives. Charges of explosives may be pressed into the holes prepared for them but must not be rammed or forced into such holes.

(c) Tamping bars or sticks used in connexion with explosives shall be of wood or other material approved by an inspector.

(d) When explosives have been tamped into holes they shall be followed in all cases by stemming which shall also be tamped. Tamping shall commence lightly but may be gradually increased in force until the hole is filled.

(e) Where large diameter holes are used in any mining work explosives in plug form shall not be dropped freely into the drill hole but shall be lowered to the bottom of such drill hole by means of a cord or other method approved by an inspector.

(f) Every person employed in blasting with high explosives shall, when considered necessary in the opinion of an inspector, be supplied by the owner or manager with "Polar" or other non-freezing type of high explosive.

(g) No person shall remove the wrappers around cartridges of high explosive to be used in charging a hole, except with the approval of an inspector or when making primer cartridges.

(h) No cartridge of high explosive shall be forcibly pressed into any hole of insufficient size and the cartridges to be used shall have a diameter as large as is commensurate with the diameter of the hole to be charged.

(i) When making a primer a hole large enough to take the detonator shall be made in the cartridge with a piece of wood and such detonator shall not be sunk into the cartridge more than three-quarters its own length. Primers shall be the last cartridge inserted into the hole with the explosive end of the detonator towards the charge. This Regulation shall not apply to electric firing.

(j) No more holes shall be charged in any one working face than are intended to be fired in one round and if any charge is not fired and exploded, it shall be treated as a misfire.

Firing Warning to be Given.

126. Every person intending to fire any explosive shall before doing so give complete and definite warning to all persons in the vicinity who would be likely to receive injury unless they were warned and shall see that they have taken proper and adequate shelter. The warning shall include information as to the locality of the firing and the number of charges to be exploded. In addition to the above warning being given, the person firing such explosive shall see that all means of ingress to the place where the firing is about to take place, are securely guarded against traffic either by a notice or by a person acting under his instructions.

Two Parties Firing at Same Time.

127. Where two or more parties working near one another have firing to do, they shall arrange the order of their firing in such a way among themselves as to avoid as far as possible confusion in counting the explosions in each face.

Method of Firing Charges.

128. (a) When igniting more than one fuse, other than in electric firing, an igniter of the type approved by an inspector shall be used. In so lighting fuses, care shall be taken that no portion of the burning igniter falls into any of the holes or upon any of the fuses.

(b) In mining operations where electrical firing or some type of detonating fuse is not adopted, a multiple fuse igniter of the type approved by an inspector shall be used unless considered impracticable by such inspector. When using safety fuse the minimum length of fuse shall be 3 feet and the maximum number of fuses that may be lit by any one person or at any one time in a working place shall be determined by an inspector and such determination shall be entered in the mine record book.

(c) When charges of explosives are being fired by safety fuse in any working place, the number of shots exploding shall be counted and if there is any doubt as to the number of shots, a misfire shall be deemed to have taken place.

Misfires.

129. (a) A charge that has missed fire shall not be approached until a half-hour has elapsed from the time of lighting the fuse. Provided however this Regulation shall not apply to charges fired by electric current which may be approached immediately providing the conducting wires are first disconnected and short circuited.

(b) In any case where means are adopted when using explosives for determining the amount of stemming in a hole and the stemming can be easily removed, the stemming may be withdrawn by means approved by an inspector and the charge reprimed and fired, otherwise a hole shall be bored not closer than 12 inches at any point to the nearest part of the missed hole and such hole shall be charged and fired.

(c) After the second hole has been exploded no person shall be allowed to work in the place until the person firing the shot or an officer employed by the owner of the mine has made or has caused to be made a careful search for the detonator and explosives from the first charge. This search shall be carried out as far as possible without the use of tools.

(d) The men handling, charging, or firing explosives shall forthwith report any misfired holes to the men relieving them and to the shift boss or manager of the mine concerned. When holes are known to have missed fire a barricade or other obstruction with a danger notice shall be placed so as to notify the fact of such misfire. The details of all misfired holes shall be entered by the person in charge in his daily report and the details of the steps taken to deal with the matter.

Inspection of Bottom of Hole.

130. In the event of the bottom of a hole in which a charge has been exploded, remaining in any working place, then unless or until it can be seen by two competent persons that no explosive remains in such bottom, no work whether of boring or barring down (except so far as may be absolutely necessary in order to make it safe to approach such bottom) or picking, or otherwise, shall be done in such place until such bottom has been broken away and completely exposed by a further charge or charges inserted therein, but for the purpose of inspection such bottom shall be carefully cleaned out, water being freely applied therein before being finally proved to contain no explosive and this regulation shall apply to "old bottoms" wherever found.

Holes Not to be Bored in Butts.

131. No hole shall be bored in the butt or remaining portion of a hole in which a charge of explosive has been previously fired.

Drilling in Development Faces.

Bulling Charges.

133. Before reloading a hole wherein a bulling charge has been fired either a sufficient quantity of water to fill the bulled chamber must be poured in or as an alternative, the hole must be allowed to stand unloaded after bulling for at least one hour.

Pre-shift Inspection.

134. When blasting has occurred in any working place at the end of the shift, work shall not be proceeded with by the oncoming shift until the working place has been carefully inspected by a competent person being a member of the oncoming shift.

Electric Shot-firing.

(b) The manager of a mine shall not allow any person other than competent persons who have been properly instructed in the work and duly authorized by him to do so, to fire shots electrically in any part of a mine.

(c) When shot-firing cables or wires are used in the vicinity of power or lighting cables, adequate precautions shall be taken to prevent the shot-firing cables or wires from coming in contact with the power or lighting cables or being affected by leakage therefrom.

(d) (i) Electricity from a separate power or lighting circuit may be used for firing shots only when a special firing switch is provided. The firing switch shall be properly constructed and protected, so as to ensure total absence of current or of current leakage into the blasting mains leading to the point where the wires from the face to be blasted are connected. The firing switch and any other switch necessary for compliance with this Regulation shall each be placed in a fixed locked box, each box being so constructed that it cannot be shut unless the switch is on the safety position. There shall be kept only one key for each box, and the key shall be in the custody of the authorized shot-firer and in no circumstances shall the key pass from his personal custody while he is on duty.

(ii) The firing cables leading to the face shall be short circuited while the leads from the detonators are being connected to each other and to the firing cables. This short circuit shall not be removed until the men have retreated from the face and it shall be so located that a premature explosion would be harmless to the men opening the short circuit. The short circuit shall be replaced immediately after the cables have been disconnected from the blasting machine.

(iii) Shot-firing leads shall be connected to the shot-firing cables through a suitable connexion fitted to appropriate bases connected to the firing cables.

(iv) The shot-firing cables shall not be connected to the source of power until the men have been removed to a place of safety.

(v) Electrical contact shall not be made through the firing switch until immediately before firing, and shall be disconnected immediately afterwards and the box locked.

(vi) The firing cables or wires used for firing shots at one working place shall not be used for firing shots in another working place until all proper precautions have been taken to ensure that such firing cables or wires have not any electrical connexion with the leads from the first working place.

(e) (i) When an exploder is used, the exploder, fuses and wires shall be suitable for the conditions under which the blasting is carried out.

(ii) The exploder shall be in charge of the shot-firer and shall be fitted with a handle or key, which shall be detached when not required for firing, and shall not in any circumstances pass from the personal custody of the shot-firer whilst on duty. A primary or secondary battery shall not be used for shot-firing.

(iii) The exploder shall not be connected to the shot-firing cable until all other steps preparatory to the firing of the shot have been completed, and all persons have been removed to a place of safety.

(iv) Immediately after the firing of the shot, the firing cable shall be disconnected from the exploder.

(v) The exploder shall be tested at frequent intervals by means of a rheostat. Immediately prior to firing, the cables and electric detonators to be used shall be tested separately by a galvanometer or some other means approved by an inspector. Detonators when being tested shall be suitably covered to protect the person conducting the test.

(f) Where electric detonators are being used all blasting operations shall be suspended and all personnel removed from the blasting area when an electrical storm approaches within a radius of 5 miles.

Additional Regulations Applicable to Open-cut Workings.

136. (a) In all open-cuts or surface workings where blasting is carried on, suitable shelters approved by an inspector shall be provided for and used by workmen and others.

(b) Before firing charges of explosives, visual and audible signals to signify "danger" shall be made, and after firing is completed a signal to signify "safety" shall be given.

(c) Times of blasting, the method of firing, and the quantity of explosive to be used may be fixed by the inspector.

(d) When ordered by an inspector, charges of explosives shall be covered with rope mats to prevent debris therefrom being thrown into the air.

THE INSTALLATION AND USE OF ELECTRICITY.

Interpretation.

174. For the purposes of this Part and unless inconsistent with the context or subject-matter—

- "Pressure" means the difference of electrical potential between any two conductors through which a supply of electrical energy is given or between any conductor and earth.
- "Extra low pressure" means pressure normally not exceeding 32 volts alternating current or 115 volts direct current.
- "Low pressure" means pressure normally exceeding 32 volts alternating current or 115 volts direct current, but not exceeding 250 volts in either case.
- "Medium pressure" means pressure normally exceeding 250 volts, but not exceeding 650 volts.
- "High pressure" means pressure normally exceeding 650 volts, but not exceeding 6,600 volts.
- "Extra high pressure" means pressure normally exceeding 6,600 volts.
- "Earthed" means connected to the general mass of earth in a manner that will ensure at all times an immediate and safe discharge of electricity.
- "Active conductor" or "active" means a conductor which is or may be maintained at a difference of potential from the neutral conductor of the supply system, or from earth. Where the supply system does not include a neutral or earthed conductor, all conductors, other than earthing conductors, shall be considered to be active conductors.
- "Neutral" (neutral conductor) means that conductor of a three-wire or multi-wire system which is maintained at an intermediate and approximately uniform potential in regard to the active conductors.
- "Source of supply" shall mean the generator where the supply is taken from a generator or the transformer where the supply is taken from a transformer.
- "Cutout" (fusible cutout) means a device for opening a circuit in the event of over-current, by the fusion of a specially designed part thereof. It comprises all the parts which, together with their mounting, base and containing case or cover (if any) form the complete device.
- "Fuse link" means that part of a cutout which is designed to melt and thus open the circuit. It comprises the fusible metal and any end connexions forming part thereof.
- "Inspector" means the inspector appointed by the Minister of Mines to carry out inspections.

175. For the purposes of such part, the expression "a gassy place" wherever occurring means any place which is either—

- (a) any place or part of a mine where General Rule 2 of section 51 of the Coal Mines Regulation Acts applies; or
- (b) any place or part of a mine where any quantity, however small (capable of being detected by an ordinary safety lamp), of inflammable gas has been given off within the previous six months;
- (c) any working which is not within 20 yards of, or is being advanced towards, any locality where it is doubtful whether or not there may be an accumulation of inflammable gas, or any place in the same district on the return airway side of such working.

Exemptions and Modifications.

176. In any case where the Chief Inspector, upon application being made to him in writing by any mine manager proposing to make an installation, is satisfied that strict compliance with these Regulations would involve expenditure out of proportion to the degree of freedom from electrical hazard, the Chief Inspector may excuse compliance with these Regulations without conditions or with such conditions as he may in the circumstances determine.

General.

177. All electrical apparatus and conductors shall be sufficient in size and power for the work they may be called upon to do, and efficiently covered or safeguarded, and so installed, worked and maintained, as to reduce the danger, through accidental shock or fire or over-heating, to the minimum, and shall be of such construction, and so worked, that the rise in temperature caused by ordinary working will not injure the insulating materials.

All metal sheathing, metallic armouring of cables, metal boxes and conduits, frames of generators, transformers (including bell transformers), motors (including portable motors), metal cases and metal framework (if any) of switch-gear, the neutral point of three-phase generators and transformers, the neutral conductor of a three-wire system and one conductor on the secondary side of any single-phase transformer shall be connected to earth. These connexions shall be made irrespective of the voltage of the supply.

All other portions of the electric lines and apparatus shall be kept effectively insulated from earth.

The minimum size of earthing conductor shall be 7/-064-in. copper cable, except in the case of trailing cables of smaller cross sectional area than 0.225-inch, in which case the size of the earthing conductor shall be not smaller than that of the current carrying conductors in the cable. Where the current carrying capacity of the active conductors exceeds 100 amperes, the current carrying capacity of the earthing conductor shall be at least one-half that of the active conductor. The earthing conductor shall be run in such a manner that it will not be liable to mechanical damage, and shall be connected to an earthing system at the surface of the mine. Joints, if any, shall be soldered and be of equal conductivity to that of the rest of the cable.

178. Where a medium-pressure supply is used for power purposes or for arc lamps in series, the conductors which form the connexions to the motors, transformers or lamps, or are otherwise used in connexion with the supply, shall be completely enclosed in strong armouring or metal casing effectively connected with earth; or they shall be fixed at such a distance apart, or in such a manner, that danger from fire or shock shall be reduced to the minimum. Provided however this rule shall not apply to trailing cables.

179. Motors of coal-cutting and other portable machines shall not be used at a pressure higher than a medium pressure.

180. Cables carrying a higher pressure than a medium pressure shall not be run underground except for transmission of electrical energy to transformers and induction motors in which the whole of the high pressure circuit is stationary.

The high pressure conductors (others than overhead lines above ground) which form the connexions of such motors or transformers, or are otherwise used in connexion with the supply shall be armoured cable, the armouring and lead sheathing of which shall be effectively connected with earth.

All high pressure machines and apparatus shall be so marked by the use of the word "Danger" and the appropriate voltage in large block letters, as to clearly indicate that they are supplied at high pressure.

For work underground, when furnished with a current at a pressure higher than medium pressure, a transformer shall not be of less normal rating than 10 kilowatts, nor shall a motor be of less normal rating than 20 brake horse-power.

181. A test of the insulation of every complete lighting and power circuit, including all machinery, apparatus, and devices forming part of or in connexion with such circuit (either collectively or in parts), shall be taken at least once a month; and a record of such test shall be made in a book kept for the purpose and signed by the person making the test. The insulation of every such circuit shall be so maintained that when tested with an instrument designed for measuring insulation resistance, and the testing pressure of which is 500 volts, the insulation resistance shall not be lower than 1 megohm, and in the event of that value not being obtained suitable steps shall be taken to localize and remedy the defect.

182. In every completed insulated system earth or fault detectors shall be kept connected up in every generating and transforming station to show immediately any defect in the insulation of the system. These instruments shall be inspected daily by a competent person.

183. No repair or cleaning of the current carrying parts of any electrical apparatus shall be done when the apparatus is alive.

Gloves, mats, or shoes or indiarubber or other non-conducting material shall be supplied by the manager, and shall be used where necessary by any person engaged in repairing or cleaning such apparatus.

184. Where electricity is used below ground for power or lighting purposes; there shall be employed a competent person, who shall be subject to the authority of the manager, and, in his absence, the under-manager, and shall have charge of all electrical machinery and apparatus in or about the mine, and who is in this part of the Regulations called "the electrician" or "electrician."

Where the supply is taken from a supply authority no electrical wiring work shall be carried out under these Regulations except by a person who holds a licence or permit under the regulations of the State Electricity Commission relating to the Licensing of Electrical Mechanics, and any such work carried out on the surface of the mine shall comply with the provisions of the State Electricity Commission Wiring Regulations for the time being in force.

The electrician or some other competent person shall be on duty at the mine when the electrical apparatus or machinery is in use.

Every person appointed to work any electrical apparatus shall have been instructed in his duty, and be competent for the work that he is set to do.

185. A notice prohibiting any person other than an authorized person from handling or interfering with apparatus, shall be posted at every motor room. No person other than an authorized person shall enter a machine room or motor room; and no person shall wilfully damage, interfere with, or without proper authority, remove or render useless, any electric lines, or any machine, apparatus or part thereof, used in connexion with the supply or use of electricity.

186. Fire buckets, filled with clean dry sand, or a chemical fire extinguisher, shall be kept in every electrical machine room, ready for immediate use in extinguishing fires.

187. Instructions shall be posted up at the pit-top or mine entrance, and in every generating, transforming, and motor house, containing directions as to the restoration of persons suffering from electric shock. All employees working in connexion with the electrical apparatus shall be required to acquaint themselves with the instructions in question.

188. In every mine where electricity is used below ground for power or lighting purposes direct telephonic or other equivalent means of communication shall be provided between the surface and the shaft bottom or main distributing centre underground.

189. Within three months after the coming into force of these Regulations, notice in writing of any existing electrical installation in any mine must be sent to the Inspector for the district in which the mine is situated.

190. A plan, of a scale not smaller than 2 chains to 1 inch, shall be kept at the mine, showing the position of all electrical machinery permanently installed and fixed cables in the mine, and shall be corrected as often as may be necessary to keep it as nearly as practicable up to date, and never more than three months in arrear; and the inspector shall be entitled to examine the plan, and for official purposes only, to make a copy of every part thereof.

Records of Electrical Accidents.

191. Every personal accident occurring in connexion with the operation of the electrical equipment (including electric shocks and burns) shall be promptly reported by the person injured or by some other person on his behalf at the office of the mine, and shall be there recorded. Such record shall be produced to an Inspector on demand.

Report of Breakdowns, &c.

192. In the event of breakdown of, or damage or injury to, any portion of the electrical equipment in the mine, or of overheating, or of the appearance of sparks or arcs outside the enclosing casings; or in the event of any portion of the equipment (not being a part of the electrical circuit proper) becoming alive; every such occurrence shall be promptly reported in a book, kept at the mine for the purpose, and signed by the person making such report.

Generating Stations, Machine Rooms, and Other Situations.

193. Where the generating station under the control of the owner or manager of the mine is not within 400 yards of the shaft mouth or mine entrance, a switchbox or boxes, effectively enclosed and locked, or a locked switch-house, shall be provided near the mine entrance, and a linked isolating switch shall be installed there for cutting off the supply of electricity to the mine.

194. Switchboard panels shall consist wholly of durable non-ignitable, non-hygroscopic materials which, unless all live parts of apparatus mounted on or in contact with the panels are adequately insulated therefrom, shall also be insulating materials of permanently high electric strength and insulation resistance.

Marble and slate panels shall be used only provided all conducting parts to be mounted thereon are insulated from the panel by a coating of suitable varnish or other non-hygroscopic insulating material.

Switchboards must be fixed in as dry a situation as possible.

Every sub-circuit shall be protected by a cutout or linked circuit-breaker on each pole; except in the case of a system with an earthed neutral conductor, in which case the cutout shall be on the actives only.

All such cutouts must be of the safe handle type, and circuit-breakers, where used, must be of a type which will prevent remaking of the circuit while a fault exists.

No cable shall be run across the space at the back of the board except below the floor, or at a height of not less than 7 feet above the floor.

The space at the back of a switchboard shall be properly floored, accessible from each end, and shall be kept locked up; but the lock must allow of the door being opened from the inside without the use of a key. The floor at the back of the switchboard shall be firm and even.

Switchboards having live metal at the rear thereof shall be erected with minimum spaces between the live metal and the supporting wall as specified hereunder:—

Where the area of the switchboard does not exceed 1 square foot—1 inch.

Where the area of the switchboard does not exceed 4 square feet—4 inches.

Where the area of the switchboard does not exceed 16 square feet—1 foot.

Where the area of the switchboard exceeds 16 square feet—2 ft. 6 in.

Where a switchboard is mounted within 1 foot of an inflammable wall the wall shall be protected by a fire resisting insulating material not less than 1/16th inch thick.

There shall be a passage-way in front of any switchboard not less than 3 feet in width, and this space and any space at the rear of a switchboard shall be kept clean and free from obstructions of every kind.

195. Every generator shall be provided with a linked switch connected on each active conductor between the generator and the busbars.

Suitable instruments shall be provided for measuring the current and pressure of each generator.

Every feeder connected to the busbars in the generating station shall be connected through an ammeter on the main switchboard.

196. Circuit breakers must be so mounted that when the operating lever opens outward no danger exists of its striking the attendant.

Where the supply is at a high or extra high pressure there shall be no live metal work on the front of the main switchboard within 8 feet of the floor or platform, and the space provided under Regulation 194 shall be not less than 4 feet in the clear. Insulating floors or mats shall be provided for switchboards where medium or higher pressure is used.

197. (a) Transformers and switchgear shall be placed in such positions as to ensure safety from danger by accidental contact or mechanical damage.

(b) Unless the apparatus is so constructed, protected, and worked as to obviate the risk of fire, no inflammable material, unless properly protected, shall be used in the construction of any room or chamber in which the apparatus is placed, within 3 feet of the current-carrying parts of any motor, transformer, or switchgear contained therein. Every such room or chamber shall be kept as dry as practicable and free from debris.

(c) Adequate working space and means of access clear of obstruction and free from danger shall be provided for all apparatus worker or attended to by any person, and all handles intended to be operated shall be conveniently placed for that purpose.

198. All terminals and live metal on machines shall be protected with insulating covers or with metal covers connected with earth or be otherwise protected to the approval of the Inspector.

199. If the transmission lines from the generating station to the shaft or mine entrance are overhead, lightning arresters shall be installed and be connected to each active conductor.

Cables.

200. All conductors inside the mine shall conform to Australian Standard Specification No. C.50 and, except as hereinafter provided, shall be continuously covered with insulating material, and guarantees shall be obtained from the makers that the cables have been subjected to the tests detailed in that specification.

201. The size of the conductor (except in the case of overhead wires upon the surface and conductors inside motors) will be determined in accordance with the table contained in the Schedule to these Regulations showing maximum current for copper conductors, column 3 of which refers to cables having insulation of Class A, and column 4 to cables having insulation of Class B, according to the following descriptions:—

Class A.—A dielectric which is impervious to moisture and only needs mechanical protection ("Dielectric" does not include the braiding or taping).

Class B.—Dielectric which, to be effective, must be kept perfectly dry, and therefore needs to be encased in a water-proof sheath, generally of soft metal such as lead, drawn closely over the dielectric.

Below ground, however, column 4 may be applied to cables having insulation of Class A, in cases where the atmospheric temperature never exceeds 100°F.

For the purpose of applying the table, the current in the conductor must be taken as equal to that required for the maximum number of motors, or other current-using apparatus, that are at any time used simultaneously on the circuit. Provided that, in the case of coal cutters, not in a longwall working, 20 per cent. shall be deducted from the normal working current. This proviso does not apply to trailing cables.

202. Unless fixed out of reach of injury, all conductors other than armoured cables, must, in addition to the insulation, be protected by a suitable covering. Where lead-covered cable is used the lead shall be protected from mechanical damage, be electrically continuous throughout, and be connected to earth.

The exposed end of cables, where they enter the terminals of switches, fuses, and other appliances shall be properly protected and sealed so that moisture cannot creep along the insulating material within the waterproof sheath or the insulating material, if of an oily nature, leak out of the cable.

203. All joints must be mechanically and electrically efficient. Such joints must be suitably soldered, or be connected by an approved connector. The insulation of joints must be equal to that of the original cable.

204. Overhead bare wires on the surface shall be properly secured to insulators 16 feet above ground and 7 feet from any building and clear of any traffic, and provided with efficient lightning arrestors, if so required by an inspector.

205. All cables used in shafts must be highly insulated and substantially fixed. Shaft cables not capable of sustaining their own weight shall be properly supported at intervals, varying according to the weight of the cable. The cables shall be boxed in or otherwise guarded and protected from falling material.

206. Where the cables in main haulage roads cannot be kept at least 1 foot from any part of the tub or tram they shall be specially protected. When separate cables are used they shall be fixed on opposite sides of the road, unless it is safer to have them on the same side, in which case they shall be kept as far apart as possible.

Cables and wires, unless provided with metallic coverings, shall not be fixed to walls or timbers by means of metallic fastenings.

Cables underground, when suspended, shall be supported by leather or other flexible material in such manner as to allow of their readily breaking away when struck, before the cables themselves can be seriously damaged.

Where main or other roads are being repaired, or blasting is being carried out, suitable temporary protection must be used, so that the cables are reasonably protected from damage.

207. Trailing cables for portable machines shall be specially flexible, heavily insulated, and protected with extra stout braiding, or hose pipes or be tough rubber compound cable or cable with equally effective covering. Trailing cables with bare metal armouring shall not be used for carrying current except at low pressure. Every trailing cable must contain an earthing conductor in addition to the current carrying conductor.

208. The separate conductors of a multiple trailing cable shall be divided at the motor end only for such a length as is necessary for the making of connexions to the motor, and the multiple cable with its outer covering complete shall be securely held by a suitable clamp on the motor frame in such manner as to protect the trailing cable from injury, and to prevent any mechanical strain being borne by any separate conductor electrically connected to the motor.

209. At points where the flexible conductors are joined to the main cables, a fixed terminal box shall be provided, and a switch and fuses shall be fitted in the terminal box capable of entirely cutting off the supply from the trailing cable.

210. A spare trailing cable shall be kept in each district of the mine where electric coal-cutting machines are in use, and in the event of the trailing cable in service breaking down, or being damaged in any way, or of its inflicting a shock upon any person, it shall be at once put out of service, and the spare cable shall be substituted therefor. The faulty cable shall not again be used until after it has been repaired and tested at the surface of the mine, and passed by some competent person.

211. Each trailing cable in use shall be examined daily by a competent person for abrasions and other defects, and the result of such examination shall be recorded daily in a book kept at the mine for the purpose, and shall be signed by the person making such report.

The machine men shall also be required to carefully observe the trailing cable, while in use, so as to detect defects, and, in the event of any defect becoming apparent, notice of the same shall at once be sent to an officer employed at the mine.

212. All horse traffic shall be suspended on the part of every road along which a trailing cable is extended for the purpose of fitting a machine.

213. Trailing cables shall at all times be kept clear of the rails and traffic, except when fitting.

214. Each trailing cable shall have a distinguishing number, which shall be clearly indicated on a suitable label securely attached to the cable.

The insulation resistance of each conductor of every trailing cable shall be measured and recorded at least once in each month, the resistance being taken between the conductor and the surrounding water after the whole cable with the exception of the ends has been immersed at least six hours.

The trailing cable must not be put into service unless the insulation resistance of each conductor measures at least 1 megohm after immersion as aforesaid.

For this test the Manager of the mine must supply an instrument suitable for measuring resistances up to at least 100 megohms.

Cutouts, Circuit-Breakers, and Switches.

215. Cutouts and automatic circuit-breakers shall be so constructed as to effectually interrupt the current when a short circuit occurs, or when the current through them exceeds twice the maximum working current in the case of motors, or twice the maximum permissible current of the cables which the cutouts protect. Cutouts shall be stamped or marked with the rated current of the circuit in which it is to be used, except that where there is no standard size of cutout of the same rating as the circuit, the cutout shall be rated and marked at the next higher standard rating.

Fuse links and the automatic trips for limiting the rupturing current of circuit-breakers shall only be adjusted and, except as provided in Regulation 218, fuse links shall only be replaced by a competent person authorized by the manager.

216. All switches, circuit-breakers, and cutouts must have incombustible bases of marble, slate, or porcelain, or other suitable incombustible insulating material. All live parts of switches, circuit-breakers, and cutouts not in generating rooms or in compartments specially arranged for the purpose, must be covered. Such covers must be of incombustible material, and must be either non-conducting or of rigid metal clear of all internal mechanism and connected to earth.

All switches and circuit-breakers shall be sufficiently robust as to withstand severe use, the contacts shall have ample contact surface to prevent overheating, and the live parts shall be so guarded and protected that a person cannot come into contact therewith, nor an arc be formed during the normal operation.

217. All points at which a circuit (other than those for signals) has to be made or broken shall be fitted with proper switches.

Record of Generator Circuit-Breaker or Generator Fuse Opening.

218. Cutouts shall not be replaced by any one except the electrician, or some other competent person appointed by the manager. A record of each instance of a generator circuit-breaker or generator cutout opening shall be made in the book kept in each generating station or room and signed by the person making the record.

Motors.

219. Every motor, together with its starting resistance, shall be protected by a cutout in accordance with Regulation 194 and controlled by a switch capable of entirely cutting off the pressure. The switch shall be fixed in a convenient position near the motor, and every motor of 10 b.h.p. or over in a machine room underground shall be provided with a suitable ammeter to indicate the load on the machine. Where the rated horse-power of a motor installed underground exceeds 20 h.p., an automatic over-current circuit-breaker which opens on all poles simultaneously shall be provided to control the motor instead of the switch before mentioned.

220. Where unarmoured cables or wires pass through metal frames or into boxes or motor casings, the holes shall be substantially bushed with insulating collars, and where necessary, with gas-tight bushings which cannot readily become displaced.

221. Terminal boxes of portable motors shall be securely attached to the machine, or must form a part thereof.

222. Where the insulation of a motor is found to become damp during a stoppage, it shall be tested to ensure that the insulation is dry before the working of the motor is resumed, in order that its base may not become alive.

Weekly Report of Examination of all Portable Motors Underground.

223. The casing or inspection doors of all portable motors used underground, and the casings of their switches and other appliances, shall at least once a week be opened by a competent person appointed by the manager, and the parts so disclosed shall be cleaned and examined before the coverings are replaced. In special cases, requiring a motor to run continuously longer than one week, the motors shall be examined at the end of the run. A report of all such examinations shall be entered in a report book and signed by the person who made the examination.

224. Electric haulage by locomotives on the trolley-wire system shall be permitted provided that the supply is direct current.

225. In underground roads the trolley-wires, unless sufficiently guarded, must be placed so that they are throughout at least 7 feet above the highest part of the road or track, or the pressure must be cut off from the wires at all times when such roads are used for travelling on foot. The hours during which travelling on foot therein is permitted shall be clearly indicated by notices and signals placed in conspicuous positions at the ends of and at all entrances into the roads. At other times no one except a person duly authorized by the manager shall be permitted to travel on foot along such roads.

226. Under the conditions indicated in the preceding Regulation, trolley wires may be used with current at a pressure not exceeding low pressure, but a pressure not exceeding medium pressure may be used on roads on which travelling on foot is not at any time permitted, except in the case of drivers of locomotives or of persons duly authorized by the management to travel only for the purposes of inspection and to effect repairs.

227. In connexion with the use of electric locomotives, either insulated returns or uninsulated metallic returns of low resistance may be used, but in the case of an uninsulated metallic return, the drop in volts from the end of the source of supply must not exceed 7 volts per mile of track and not exceed 20 volts maximum.

Lighting.

228. Arc lamps shall be so guarded as to prevent pieces of heated carbon falling from them, and shall not be used in situations where there is likely to be danger from the presence of explosive dust. They shall be so screened as to prevent risk of contact with persons.

229. Wires for lighting circuits shall either be conveyed in conduits or casings, or they may be suspended from porcelain insulators, or tied to them with some non-conducting material which will not cut the covering, and so that they do not touch any timbering or metal work, but staples shall not be used. Provided that where such wires are not protected by conduits or casings, stranded cable, not less than 7/029 inch must be used. If metallic conduits are used they must be electrically continuous and earthed. If separate uncased wires are used they shall be kept at least 2 inches apart and not brought together except at lamps, switches, or fittings.

230. Electric lamps shall be replaced by a duly authorized competent person only, and while the lamps are being replaced the current shall be switched off.

231. Where portable lamps are used the lampholder shall not be in metallic contact with the guard or other metal work of the fitting.

232. In all machine rooms and other places underground, where a failure of electric light is likely to cause danger, an adequate number of safety lamps or other proper lights shall be kept for use in the event of such failure.

233. Electric signal and telephone wires, whether insulated or not, shall be prevented from coming into contact with other electric conductors either by having both securely attached to insulators so that a clearance of 1 foot is maintained, or by the interposition of an insulating spacer which will maintain a distance of 2 inches between the conductors. Such spacer must extend at least 1 foot on both sides of the crossing conductor.

Special Precaution in Gassy Places.

234. In gassy places gas and flameproof covers must be provided to enclose motors, lamps, switches, and cutouts. The fusible links shall be replaced by a competent person authorized by the manager to carry out such work. This proviso shall also apply to the adjusting of circuit breakers. Any plug fitting used in such a place must be of the interlocking type, interlocked with a gas-proof switch.

Conductors may be joined only in a gas-proof joint box by means of screwed connexions.

No flameproof cover on any piece of apparatus shall be removed except by a competent person.

Signalling.

235. The pressure used for aural signalling purposes shall not exceed 25 volts and, if alternating current, shall be obtained from a double wound transformer, one terminal on the secondary side of which shall be connected to earth. The use of auto-transformers is strictly prohibited.

Bell pushes used for signalling shall be so constructed as to prevent accidental closing of the circuit.

Conductors for signalling purposes connected on the secondary side of a transformer shall not be run in the same conduits as the conductors for power or lighting circuits.

Clerk of the Executive Council.
