(b) Nature of Investigations.

The Council proposes to establish study groups to carry out a full and thorough investigation of all the areas listed above. Technically skilled people will be responsible for collecting basic information about land, and if complete information is not available, they will initiate investigations to obtain the specific kind of information required. The basic aim of the investigations will be to collect, collate and assess technical information about land, and in particular, the ecological features which make it useful for one purpose or another and with the knowledge of the critical interactions between various features such as soils, climate, geology, topography, hydrology and flora and fauna which maintain stability of the system. They will further consider the many uses of land required by the community for different purposes.

On completion of these thorough scientific investigations, the Council intends to make recommendations to you in respect to the use of public land in order to provide for the balanced use of land in Victoria.

(c) The order in which the Council proposes to carry out such investigations.

The following investigations will commence forthwith:—

- District 1 within the South-western area.
- Districts 1 and 2 within the North-eastern area.
- District 1 within the South Gippsland area.
- Melbourne area.

It is proposed to have four study groups working at any one time and as one of the groups complete their report they will then be available to commence the investigation of a new area.

This is an interim recommendation and the Council will be submitting a further list of priorities before the present areas of investigation are completed.

S. G. McL. DIMMICK, Chairman.

And the Honorable William Archibald Borthwick, Her Majesty's Minister of Lands for the State of Victoria, shall give the necessary directions herein accordingly.
