Public Records Act 1973

RECORDS MANAGEMENT MANUAL FOR LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Public Record Office Standard: PROS 82/83

1. The Public Record Office was established under the Public Records Act 1973 (as amended) for the better preservation, management and utilisation of the public records of Victoria. Public records include any records made or received by a person employed in a public office in the course of his duties. The term "Public Office" is defined in sub-section 2(1) of the Act to mean

- (a) any department, branch or office of the Government of Victoria;
- (b) any public statutory body corporate or unincorporate;
- (c) any municipality or other body constituted by or under the Local Government Act 1958; and
- (d) any other local governing body corporate or unincorporate.

The Keeper of Public Records is obliged by section 12 of the Act to establish standards for the efficient management of public records and to assist public offices in applying those Standards to records under their control. The officer in charge of a public office is required by section 13 of the Act to cause full and accurate records to be made and kept and is responsible, with the advice and assistance of the Keeper, for carrying out a programme of records management in accordance with the Standards established by the Keeper.

2. The publication 'Records Management Manual for Local Government' outlines basic specifications for local government organisations in:

- correspondence registry practices and procedures (including the application of computer technology);
- forms control;
- the disposition of public records;
- micrographic practices and procedures, and
- procedural and technical factors affecting the design, acquisition and establishment of word processing systems.

The Manual is being issued as a Standard under section 12 of the Public Records Act. Many of the matters dealt with in this Manual will require a decision to be made in the context of the many variables facing each municipality. Much of the text of the Manual is designed to assist municipalities in making decisions in the topics dealt with in the Manual. The Manual is not, therefore, prescriptive throughout. It should be noted, however, that where the Manual is expressed to be prescriptive, public offices have an obligation under section 13 of the Public Records Act 1973 to carry out a programme of records management in accordance with the Standard.

3. No public record may be destroyed or otherwise disposed of except in accordance with procedures laid down in this Manual.

4. In pursuance of section 12 of the Public Records Act 1973, I hereby establish those Guidelines as a Standard applying to the records of all public offices referred to in paragraph (c) and (d) of the definition of "Public Office" in sub-section 2(1) of the Public Records Act 1973. This Standard as varied or amended from time to time shall have effect for a period of 10 years from the date of issue of the Manual and may be renewed at the expiry of that period.

Date of issue: 31 October 1983
