Public Records Act 1973

VICTORIA

PROCEDURES FOR THE DISPOSITION OF PUBLIC RECORDS

Public Record Office Standard: PROS 82/5

The Public Record Office was established under the Public Records Act 1973 (as amended) for the better preservation, management and utilisation of the public records of Victoria. Public records include any records made or received by a person employed in a public office in the course of his duties. The term "Public Office" is defined in sub-section 2 (1) of the Act to mean

- (a) any department, branch or office of the Government of Victoria;
- (b) any public statutory body corporate or unincorporate;
- (c) any municipality or other body constituted by under the Local Government Act 1958; and
- (d) any other local governing body corporate or unincorporate.

The Keeper of Public Records is obliged by section 12 of the Act to establish standards for the efficient management of public records and to assist public offices in applying these standards to records under their control. The officer in charge of a public office is required by section 13 of the Act to cause full and accurate records to be made and kept and is responsible with the advice and assistance of the Keeper, for carrying out a programme of records management in accordance with the standards established by the Keeper.

2. No public record may be destroyed or otherwise disposed of except in accordance with the procedures set out in this Standard.

3. This Standard sets out basic procedures for the disposition of public records. In many of the sections the matters dealt with will require a decision to be made in the context of many variables facing each public office. Much of the text is designed to assist public offices in deciding how best to store and dispose of their records. The Standard is not, therefore, prescriptive throughout. It should be noted, however, that where the Standard is expressed to be prescriptive public offices have an obligation under section 13 of the Public Records Act 1973 to carry out a programme of records management in accordance with this Standard.

4. In pursuance of section 12 of the Public Records Act 1973, I hereby establish these Procedures as a Standard applying to the records of all public offices referred to in paragraphs (a) and (b) of the definition of "Public Office" in sub-section 2 (1) of the Public Records Act 1973. This Standard shall have effect for a period of 10 years from 1 June 1983 and may be reviewed at the expiry of that period.
