In some cases, the only feasible locations for marking plates will be across the edges of moveable or opening panels. In these circumstances, approval is given to cutting the plates and attaching the resulting portions to adjacent panels provided that any gaps between portions are not wider than 25 mm. It will be acceptable, in cutting plates, to remove a strip of material (not wider than 10 mm) along the line of the cut provided that the overall dimensions of marking plates are maintained. It will also be acceptable to simply move the section apart.

Typical examples of cut plates are illustrated below:

In cases where it is impossible to locate rear marking plates of the type specified above, it is permissible to affix the following alternative type rear marking plates upon condition that the abovementioned and preferred rear marking plate cannot be satisfactorily located upon the vehicle in any of the methods prescribed.

TYPE 3

NOTE:

The alternative type marking plates may be used providing their combined area is not less than 0.32 m<sup>2</sup> per vehicle set.

Their configuration must be such that they are symmetrical about the longitudinal vertical plane through the centre of the vehicle.
