Subordinate Legislation Act 1994
REGULATORY IMPACT STATEMENT
Fisheries (Commercial) (Amendment)
Regulations 1995

Notice is given in accordance with section 11 of the Subordinate Legislation Act 1994, that a Regulatory Impact Statement (RIS) has been prepared in relation to the Fisheries (Commercial) (Amendment) Regulations 1995.

The reason for the proposed Regulations is to impose conditions on Master Fisherman's Licences in relation to the taking of mussels from Port Phillip Bay. Algal blooms occur in Port Phillip Bay from time to time and have the potential to adversely affect the quality of mussels taken from the Bay. The quality of mussels taken from mussel farms in the Bay is monitored through the Shellfish Quality Assurance Program, however, the harvest of wild mussels from the Bay is not part of that program.

In order to protect the reputation of Victoria as a supplier of high quality mussels and shellfish in general, it is proposed to introduce regulations to allow the commercial harvesting of wild mussels from Port Phillip Bay for bait only. The Regulations will also impose certain other restrictions on the taking of wild mussels from the Bay by commercial fishers.

The objectives to be achieved by the Regulations are to—

- (a) maintain the high reputation of the shellfish industry by ensuring only high quality mussels are sold on the market for human consumption;
- (b) allow for exploitation of the wild mussel resource in Port Phillip Bay on a sustainable basis.

The RIS examined three alternatives to the proposed Regulations. The first of these alternatives, total prohibition on the taking of mussels from Port Phillip Bay, was rejected on the basis that, whilst it would ensure only high quality mussels are marketed, the livelihood of several holders of master fisherman's licences would be seriously compromised. In addition, this alternative would preclude the exploitation of a small, but nevertheless valuable, resource.

Effective implementation of the second alternative, area closures, would require more information than is currently available in relation to the nature of algal blooms. Further, the associated monitoring and enforcement costs would far outweigh any benefits. For these reasons, this alternative was therefore also rejected.

The third alternative examined in the RIS was codes of practice or self regulation. Due to the voluntary nature of codes of practice, this alternative was not considered to offer enough protection to the reputation of Victorian mussels and consequently the shellfish industry generally. The risk to the reputation of Victorian mussels, from any failure to recognise or comply with a code, was considered too high to justify the adoption of a code.

The RIS concluded that the proposed Regulations are the most cost effective and efficient means of meeting the objectives.

Public comments are invited on the RIS and accompanying Regulations. Copies may be obtained by contacting Ari Vlassopoulos, Fisheries Branch (tel. 412 4177) or Janine Rossely, Portfolio Co-ordination Branch (tel. 412 4862).

Written submissions will be received at the following address up to 5.00 p.m. on Friday, 31 March 1995. Ari Vlassopoulos, Fisheries Branch, Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, 6th Floor, 250 Victoria Parade, East Melbourne 3002.

METROPOLITAN REGION PLANNING SCHEMES

Notice of Approval of Amendment
Amendment R126

The Minister for Planning has approved Amendment R126 to the Regional Section of all planning schemes in the Metropolitan Region.

The amendment comes into operation on Monday, 6 March 1995.

Amendment R126 implements the recommendations of the Ministerial review of Vic Code 2 insofar as they can be achieved without publication of a revised Code and change to the Building Regulations. It introduces changes which will:

- * Require a planning permit for the erection of dual occupancies and require them to be assessed under the same terms as other medium-density housing. This will not apply to construction which has not commenced and for which a building permit under the Building Regulations 1994 validly exists on 6 March 1995. The building permit must have been originally issued on or after 6 March 1994.

- * Require a planning permit for the erection of single dwellings on lots of 300 sq m or less and require them to be assessed under the same terms as other medium-density housing. This will not apply to:

- land specified in clause 24-1 where the Victorian Code for Residential Development—Subdivision and Single Dwellings, April 1992, currently applies.

- construction which has not commenced and for which a building permit under the Building Regulations 1994 validly exists on 6 March 1995. The building permit must have been originally issued on or after 6 March 1994.

- * Make it clear that the performance measures in the Code are guidelines only.

- * Introduce new performance measures for densities which relate benchmark densities to location within Melbourne, lot size and frontage.

- * Reinforce the requirement that permit applications must not be decided unless they are accompanied by a site analysis, a written statement explaining how the design of the proposed development has responded to the site analysis, and other supporting information as described by the Code and prepared to the extent that the responsible authority considers necessary.

A copy of the amendment can be inspected free of charge during office hours at the Department of Planning and Development, Ground Floor, 477 Collins Street, Melbourne and at the offices of all metropolitan Councils.
