EXEMPTION
 Application No. 32 of 1997

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal pursuant to Section 83 (5) (a) (ii) of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by Pauline Ryan. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and provide Massage Therapy for women only.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 42, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and provide Massage Therapy for women only.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant is a Masseuse and is an accredited member of the Association of Massage Therapist Australia and practices in the Northern suburbs.
- There is an abundant amount of Masseurs in the Northern Suburbs and also there are at least three Masseurs within walking distance from the applicant's practice.
- A male would have no problem finding a Masseur in the Northern Suburbs.
- There are many Masseurs around the applicant's area in a Clinic and Health Centre situation.
- A number of the applicant's patients have expressed that they are attracted to a Women only Masseur.
- Full body massage is a very personal type of massage. A lot of the applicant's patients have stated that they don't feel comfortable visiting a male Masseur.
- That there is a definite need for there to be a certain amount of massage clinics available for just women to visit.
- Many of the applicant's clients, which include Nuns and women with breast cancer have stated that they would not feel comfortable at all knowing that there are men out in the waiting room whilst they are lying on the massage table in their underwear.
- Those female clients who are undergoing treatment for cancer are extremely sensitive about who sees them in public, particularly male strangers.
- Because the applicant's practice is conducted from her home and the nature of her work is sometimes misconstrued by men to be work of a sexual nature there are additional personal and safety considerations that lead the applicant to wish to offer her services to women only.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 42, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and provide Massage Therapy for women only, this exemption to remain in force until 18 June 2000.

EXEMPTION
Application No. 37 of 1997

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal pursuant to Section 83 (5) (a) (ii) of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by Johnston Ashley Pty Ltd trading as Ashley Opals. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a Japanese speaking person.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a Japanese speaking person.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant is a jewellery shop catering for international tourists.
- A majority of the applicant's customers are Japanese speaking.
- The applicant recently had a Japanese speaking member resign.
- The applicant has found it extremely difficult, if not impossible, to communicate with potential Japanese speaking customers.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a Japanese speaking person, this exemption to remain in force until 18 June 2000.

EXEMPTION
Application No. 38 of 1997

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal pursuant to Section 83 (5) (a) (ii) of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by Cathi Flynn, Acting Manager, Choices Centre for Young women and their children. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ female staff only.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ female staff only.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- Choices Centre for Young women and their children is a program run by the Mission of St James and St John.
- Choices is a specialist support service of the Mission of St James and St John for homeless young women aged 13-25 years.
- Current service statistics indicate that more than 80% of Choices clients are known to have experienced sexual abuse. All clients have experienced some form of abuse or witnessed family violence. This abuse and violence has primarily been perpetrated by their male primary carers.
- A significant proportion of clients (in the past 12 months approximately 60%) have also recently left violent relationships with male partners.
- Choices currently works with these clients in a number of ways; through the provision of a Residential Program providing intensive support to young women with pre-school aged children; through the provision of a sexual assault counselling service and through the provision of group education and individual support in relation to literacy, personal skills, parenting and health.
- All staff have contact with clients and all current staff are female.
- One of the aims of the Choices Program is to provide conditions which allow young women to work through problematic issues and to make the transition to independent living. These conditions include a safe environment, positive female role models and the development of positive relationships with adults.

- Having an all female staff also enables the applicant to more effectively promote the welfare of their client group and advocate for their rights to self determination and independence.
- The young women who access the Choices Program present with a range of problems, from difficulties in parenting their own children, drug and alcohol problems, difficulties in trusting people, particularly those in authority, post traumatic stress symptoms and feeling of a lack of confidence or independence.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ female staff only, this exemption to remain in force until 18 June 2000.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 41 of 1997

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal pursuant to Section 83 (5) (a) (ii) of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by Women's Domestic Violence Crisis Service of Victoria Inc. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ female staff only.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ female staff only.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant was formerly known as Women's Refuge Referral Service and was granted an exemption under the Equal Opportunity Act 1984 on 2 December 1992.
- The applicant's service is funded by the Supported Accommodation Assistance Programme of the State of Victoria and Commonwealth Government.

- The applicants target group is women and children in crisis, escaping domestic violence.
- The service is a 24 hour 7 day a week telephone service for women and children experiencing violence in the home.
- The focus of the service is for women and children who are threatened, intimidated, abused, kept away from family or friends, physically or emotionally hurt or assaulted by someone close and want some information about what to do or for someone to talk to.
- The service provides:
  - Crisis Response—assistance to leave home if the client is in danger, short term crisis accommodation.
  - Legal, financial and housing information.
  - Telephone support, counselling and advocacy.
  - Referral to culturally appropriate services—counsellors, legal advisers, women's services, domestic violence outreach workers, domestic violence and sexual assault support groups and housing agencies.
  - Emergency accommodation.
  - Refuge—a safe place where the client and their children can stay for 6-8 weeks.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ female staff only, this exemption to remain in force until 18 June 2000.
