I have the honor to report for the information of His Excellency the Governor, my return to head quarters this day; having visited the stations situated upon the Lower Lachlan and Murrumbidgee, and beg to state, that the banks of those rivers are now occupied, upwards of three hundred and fifty miles from Yass.

I further beg to state, that I received from the inhabitants of both rivers the most satisfactory reports, as to the general good conduct of the Aborigines, and more particularly of their very great kindness and attention during the late floods. Many of the settlers were saved by the blacks, from being drowned. They were also very active in preserving and protecting property, which would otherwise have been destroyed.
