RECENT EARTHQUAKES AT WELLINGTON, NEW ZEALAND.

HIS Excellency the GOVERNOR is pleased to direct the publication, for general information, of the following Circular, dated 18th December, 1848, from the Colonial Secretary, at Wellington, in the Province of New Munster, New Zealand, on the subject of the recent Earthquakes at that place.

By His Excellency's Command,
E. DEAS THOMSON.

CIRCULAR.

PROVINCE OF NEW MUNSTER, NEW ZEALAND.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Wellington, 18th December, 1848.*

SIR,

I have the honor to address you on a matter, which though somewhat unusual as the subject of official correspondence, you will probably deem of sufficient importance to warrant the request I am directed to make in connection with it.

An impression appearing to have been produced in some of the Colonies in the neighbourhood of New Zealand, that the consequences of the shocks of earthquake lately experienced here have been of a much more severe character than was really the case, His Excellency the Governor-in-Chief considers it to be his duty to take every means in his power to correct that erroneous impression, and to diffuse as widely as possible a knowledge of the actual circumstances.

With this object in view Sir George Grey directs me to request you will move His Excellency Sir Charles Fitz Roy, to be good enough to give publicity to the following facts;—viz., that the detrimental effects of the occurrences above alluded to were confined almost entirely to damage done to the brick buildings and erections in this town which formed a very small proportion of the whole; that all traces of these effects are already fast disappearing, and will very soon be hardly discernable; that public confidence is completely restored; and that all commercial and other operations have long since been resumed and carried on with their usual activity.

A detailed account of the effects of the earthquakes, and of the previous state of the damaged houses, will be found in a Report published in the New Zealand Government Gazette, a copy of which I have the honor to enclose for the information of His Excellency.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

ALFRED DOMETT,
Colonial Secretary.

THE HONORABLE
THE COLONIAL SECRETARY OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

(COPY.)

REPORT ON THE EARTHQUAKES.

Wellington, November 21st, 1848.

SIR,

We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 25th October, informing us that it was the desire of His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor that a Board should be appointed to examine and report on the damage done in Wellington by the late earthquake, and further informing us that Mr. Park had been chosen by the inhabitants as a member of the Board on their part, and that the Council desired that Mr. St. Hill and Captain Collinson should act on the part of the Government.

We beg to report that, in compliance with that letter, we have examined the damaged buildings, and we herewith enclose a list of them. On that list is stated the manner in which the proprietors propose to repair their buildings, as they have informed us, and also what further measures we have, in some instances, considered necessary. In those cases where the damaged houses front the principal streets, and, in their present state, are a nuisance and a danger to the public, we beg to recommend that one month be allowed to the proprietors to repair them. The particular repairs required to such houses are marked in the list as being necessary to secure the public thoroughfares.

In addition to the damages mentioned in the list, we find that almost every chimney in the Town has been broken down close to the roof. As this is a very dangerous nuisance in a Town composed chiefly of wooden houses, we consider it very desirable that the inhabitants should be obliged to build up the damaged chimnies to a safe height above the roof within two months.

The above forms the principal object of the Board; in the course of executing which we beg to state we have been very much assisted by the list of the damaged houses, drawn up by Sergeant Mills of the Armed Police.

But we further beg to offer a few Remarks on the description of building best adapted to stand shocks of earthquake, which may be of use to persons about to build storehouses, which are desired to be more secure from fire than wooden houses.

We have observed that those brick buildings have suffered least which have had bond-timbers in the brickwork, or have been lined with wood, or weatherboarded; and that a great many gable-ends of houses, in which the wall plate has not been carried through the gable, have been thrown down, without reference to any particular direction of the compass; and that the gable-ends of hipped roofs, on the contrary, have not suffered so much. And also that, in almost all the brickwork, the mortar has been of a very bad description, being composed of lime and clay, instead of lime and sand, as it should have been, by which there has been so little bond in the brickwork, that many walls have been shaken down in single bricks.

The building we recommend for the above object, and for greater security against fire than a weatherboarded house, is a strong wooden frame upon a brick foundation, filled in with bricknogging laid in mortar, and covered outside with strong laths and plaster, and inside with boards or plaster.

But as it is probable that there will be always a great many houses in the Town built entirely of wood, we recommend it to the consideration of the inhabitants, that all future wooden houses should be separated from each other as much as possible, both as a security against fire, and because the action of a shock is sometimes of an undulating kind, that will take more effect on a continuous line of buildings than on several detached small ones.

With respect to your letter of the 30th October, requesting us to prepare a general Report upon the earthquake, to show the direction of the earth's motion during the shocks and other incidents, we beg to add a general account of the occurrence collected from the different statements that have arrived up to this time from the neighbouring places.

The action of the earthquake appears to have extended from about the latitude of Bank's Peninsula to the latitude of New Plymouth, the strongest force of it having been in Cook's Strait, and in a N.W. and S.E. direction from thence.

It commenced on October 16th, with a violent shock at 1h. 30m. a.m.; on the 17th there was a second at 4 p.m.; on the 19th a third at 5 a.m.; on the 24th there was a fourth at 2 p.m.

These were all the strong shocks, but in the intervals there were a great number of smaller shocks, varying from 10 to 20 in the 24 hours; and these continued, gradually lessening in number and force, from the 16th to the 30th October; and from that time to this there have been several more violent than the small shocks. The strong shocks appear to have been felt at all the settlements within the latitudes above mentioned, and, as far as we can determine, simultaneously: but we have no certain data to decide this point; and also with the same character, but less in force in proportion to the distance from Cook's Strait, and the line of N.E. and S.W. direction.

The strong shocks were all of this character:—A sound like subterranean thunder, accompanied with a vibration of the ground for a few seconds, and then a quick heaving oscillation of the earth, which, in a few seconds more died away with a quivering motion, the small shocks had not much of the heaving motion, but were more like the firing of cannon immediately underneath the place; they were sometimes so frequent that it sounded like a distant cannonade, while the earth appeared to tremble incessantly for 2 or 3 hours together.

The direction of the noise, and the motion of the earth, appeared to some people to come from the Southward, to others from the Northward; the buildings that have been damaged, are injured principally on the S.E. sides, and on the N.W. sides. A billiard table in Barrett's Hotel was moved an inch to the S.E. The shocks were felt at Nelson a little more violently than at Wanganui; hardly at all at Hawke's Bay, and as strongly at Bank's Peninsula as at Wanganui.

Therefore we conclude the line of direction to be N.E. and S.W.

There have been a few cracks made in the ground at Wellington, and at the mouths of some small rivers on the N.W. coast, and at the mouth of the Wairau; they are long narrow cracks, not larger than those caused by a long drought.

On the 16th October, eight hours after the first shock, it being high water but neap tides, the tide rose in Wellington one foot above ordinary spring tides; but this might have been occasioned by a strong S.E. wind, which lasted the 15th and 16th. On the 17th it was calm fine weather; on the 19th strong S.E. gale; on the 24th fine and calm.

On the 19th and 20th the Aurora Australis was very brilliant in the S.E., but there was nothing to indicate it had any connection with the earthquake. There was no change in the Barometer or Thermometer that would appear to have given warning of a shock.

It appears to have been felt less on the higher grounds, and upon rocky foundations.

The last winter has been an unusually rainy season, with little wind, and this is a circumstance which is said to be connected with earthquakes in South America.

It appears not to have been felt at all at Otakou or Auckland.

Up to this date no eruption has been heard of at any place within the limits of the earthquake as above stated.

We have endeavoured to ascertain the amount of damage done to the Town, and we consider that at the utmost, it is not more than £15,000 in property of all descriptions, and that includes £3500 of the Colonial Government, and £1000 of H. M. Ordnance.

We have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your obedient Servants,

T. B. COLLINSON, Captain R.E.

ROBERT PARK, Civil Engineer.
