CHAPTER 76.

An Act to amend the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, with respect to Colonial Courts of Inquiry. [18th August 1882.]

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, with respect to Inquiries held in British possessions abroad into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates, or engineers of ships, or into shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships: Be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. Short title.—This Act may be cited as the Merchant Shipping (Colonial Inquiries) Act 1882.

2. Construction of Act.—This Act shall be construed as one with the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and the Acts amending the same, and the said Acts and this Act may be cited collectively as the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1882.

3. Colonial courts or tribunals to have jurisdiction to make inquiry into charges of misconduct or incompetency and shipping casualties in certain cases occurring outside the limits of the colony.—Every court or tribunal which is already authorized or which may hereafter be authorized by the legislative authority in any British possession to make inquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates, or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, shall in the cases following (that is to say)—

- I. When the incompetency or misconduct has occurred on board of a British ship on or near the coasts of the British possession, or on board of a British ship in the course of a voyage to a port within the British possession:
- II. When the incompetency or misconduct has occurred in any part of the world on board a British ship registered in the British possession:
- III. When the shipwreck or casualty occurs to a British ship on or near the coasts of the British possession, or to a British ship in the course of a voyage to a port within the British possession:
- IV. When the shipwreck or casualty occurs in any part of the world to a British ship registered in the British possession:
- V. When the master, mate, or engineer of a British ship who is charged with incompetency or misconduct on board of such British ship is found in the British possession:
- VI. When some of the crew of a British ship which has been wrecked or to which a casualty has occurred, and who are competent witnesses to the facts, are found in the British possession:

whenever the incompetency, misconduct, shipwreck, or casualty has occurred, have the same jurisdiction as such court or tribunal would have had if such incompetency, misconduct, shipwreck, or casualty had occurred within the ordinary jurisdiction of such court or tribunal, but subject to all provisions, restrictions, and conditions which would have been applicable if they had so occurred: Provided that no inquiry shall be held under this Act into any shipwreck, or other casualty, or charge of incompetency or misconduct, which has once been the subject of such an inquiry, and has been reported on by any competent court or tribunal in any part of Her Majesty's dominions, or in respect of which the certificate of a master, mate, or engineer has been suspended or cancelled by a naval court; and provided also, that where any inquiry has been commenced in the United Kingdom no inquiry shall be made in the same case under the authority of this Act in any British possession.

In all the above cases the "British possession" shall mean the British possession by the legislative authority whereof the court or tribunal is authorized to make inquiry.

4. Colonial legislative authorities empowered to authorize inquiries into shipping casualties and charges of misconduct and incompetency in certain cases.—The legislative authority in any British possession is hereby empowered to authorize courts or tribunals to make inquiries in the cases enumerated in the last preceding section of this Act into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates, or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, subject to the provisions in the last preceding section of this Act mentioned.

5. Suspension or cancellation of Certificates.—The powers of suspending or cancelling the certificate of any master, mate, or engineer of a ship, conferred by the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, upon or after any inquiry or investigation held under the provisions of the said Acts, shall be applicable to and be exercised upon or after any inquiry by any court or tribunal authorized by this Act, or authorized by the legislative authority of any British possession under the powers conferred by this Act. Such power of suspension or cancellation shall be exercised by the court or tribunal holding the inquiry in the manner provided by section twenty-three of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and the Board of Trade shall in such cases have all the powers conferred upon them by the said section.

6. Appeal from colonial courts.—Whenever any inquiry authorized by or in pursuance of this Act has been held, a rehearing of the case may be ordered, and if an application for such rehearing has not been made or has been refused, an appeal shall lie from any order of finding of the court or tribunal holding such inquiry to the following court, namely, the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty division of her Majesty's High Court of Justice in England.

Provided always, that no appeal shall lie from any order or finding in an inquiry into a casualty affecting a ship registered in a British possession, or from any decision respecting the suspension or cancellation of the certificate of a master, mate, or engineer, unless such certificate has been granted under the authority of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or any Act amending the same, or of the Merchant Shipping Colonial Act, 1869.

Any such appeal shall be subject to and conducted in accordance with such conditions and regulations as may from time to time be prescribed by general rules made under section thirty of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876.

The confirmation of the report required by the said words shall be deemed to have been no longer necessary after the passing of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, as a condition precedent to the suspension or cancellation of the certificate of any master, mate, or engineer.

Reefs in Carimata Strait.

H.N.M. surveying vessel Hydrograaf discovered the following reefs in Carimata Strait:—

1. Rob Roy Reef in Papan Channel. A very small coral patch of no more than 5½ yards in extent, least depth 2½ fathoms at low-water, lying with the following bearings:—

Meledan	... N. 15° 15' W.
East Goerong	... N. 60° 40' W.
South side Meleidong	... S. 49° E. 1 mile.
Islet northward of Meleidong	N. 54° E.

Position:—
Lat. 1° 29' 8" S.
Long. 109° 20' 53" E.

The north and west side of this reef is steep-to, with 10 and 12 fathoms mud; on the south-east side 6 and 8 fathoms sand and gravel was found at half a cable distant. No surf or discoloring.

2. Kate of Auckland Reef. Stony reef with 1½ fathoms over it at low-water, extending W.N.W. and E.S.E. about 330 yards, and 165 yards broad. It is steep-to with 12 and 14 fathoms sand and mud around. From the centre of the reef bears:—

Meledan	... N. 9° 30' W.
East Goerong	... N. 56° 45' W.
Boean Peak	... N. 89° 30' W.
The northernmost of Papan
Islets of the west group	... S. 41° 30' E.
Two islets north of Meleidong
in line	... N. 73° E.

Position:—
Lat. 1° 29' 3" S.
Long. 109° 19' 38" E.

No discoloring but often some surf and stream whirling.

3. Reef eastward of East Goerong. E.S.E. from East Goerong Islet a small but dangerous reef was discovered isolated, and lying with the following bearings:—

East Goerong	... N. 70° 30' W.
Meledan	... N. 30° 30' W.
Soeka just clear of the north side of East Goerong.

Position:—
Lat. 1° 24' 50" S.
Long. 109° 13' 27" E.

This dangerous reef with 1½ fathoms, coral and stones, at low-water, has about 150 yards surface; it is steep-to with 12 and 14 fathoms mud and sand around. Only close-to surf was seen; no discoloring.

A re-search for Spirit of the North Shoal and for Mercurius Reef was fruitless, notwithstanding this re-search was as complete as possible.

H.N.M. Oenarang sought fruitlessly for the Jason Reefs, indicated on the chart Straat Mangkasar, in lat. 1° 50' S. long. 116° 53' E. No reefs were seen nor any indication of shoal water was obtained, but much floating wood was seen in this neighborhood. These reefs have consequently been removed from the chart.

Position of the Reef S.E. of Gagi Island.

The Commander of H.N.M. gunboat Batavia reports that the reef S.E. of Gagi Island was lying in the direction N. 130° E. when the ship was anchored in the vicinity, bearings:—

South point Gagi Island	... N. 263° E.
East "	... N. 8° E.

Properly it is no reef but a sandbank extending N.W. and S.E. half a mile with 3 fathoms least water.

According to this information the dangers on the coast of Waigeo Island, between Saonek and Kabilia Bay, extend more to the S. than indicated on the chart.

Corresponding on the chart: Sumatra, North Coast. From Pedir Bay to Diamond Point, with—
Lat. 5° 16' 0" N.
Long. 97° 25' 53" E.

It is a coral reef with 1 or 2 fathoms over it, and at low-water a large black stone rises about 9 feet above the water; about 140 yards distant 7 to 9 fathoms of water was found.

The two fathom shoal indicated on the chart, called heretofore in lat. 5° 16' N. and long. 97° 24' 15" E., does not exist; and will be removed from the chart.

LAKE SHOAL, WEARY BAY.

CAPTAIN LAKE has reported the existence of a rocky shoal in Weary Bay, which nearly dries at low-water springs. On further examination this danger has been found to extend 3 cables north and south by one cable in width, its centre lying in the following position.

Entrance to Bloomfield River, W. by S.
North Head of Weary Bay, N. by W. ½ W.

This reef is out of the track of passing steamers, but is dangerous to sailing vessels working along the coast.

BLOOMFIELD RIVER, WEARY BAY.

THE following information respecting the entrance to the Bloomfield River, has been furnished by Mr. Fahey, the Harbor Master at Cooktown.

The Bloomfield discharges itself into the southern end of Weary Bay. Its Southern Head is formed by a well timbered knoll, 150 feet in height; the North Head consisting of a low sand point, backed by scrub and a mangrove creek.

The outer edge of the bar—which is of sand—commences about ½ mile outside the Heads, is about 3 cables in length and 80 yards wide, and has on it a depth of 3 feet at low-water; the rise of tide being from 5 to 9 feet.

On the centre of the bar is a small sandy patch, which dries at low-water springs.

The channel is narrow and deep at the river mouth, carrying from 2½ to 3 fathoms, while there is a depth of from 1½ to 2 fathoms at low-water close alongside either bank. In going up the river a depth of 11 feet at low-water can be carried for some 2 or 3 miles.

To cross the bar with the deepest water, keep a remarkable conical hill (Bauer Peak)—which is sparsely covered with timber—on with the foot of the South Head, bearing S.W. by W.

The proposed site for a wharf is on the north shore, about three-quarters of a mile from the entrance.

AUSTRALIA DIRECTORY, VOL. III.

The following information relating to Beaver Reef, West Coast of Australia, is by Staff Commander J. E. Coghlan, R.N., H.M. surveying vessel Meda, in charge of Joint Admiralty and Colonial Marine Survey of Western Australia, 1882.

[All bearings are magnetic. Variation 5° westerly in 1882.]

BEAVER REEF,¹ reported by the schooner Beaver, in 1864, to lie in latitude 32° 6' S., longitude 114° 37' E., about 60 miles westward of the port of Fremantle, and 30 miles outside the 100 fathoms edge of the coast bank of soundings, has again been closely searched for during eleven days in the Meda.

A discrepancy of 10 miles having been detected in the Beaver's original report to the colonial Government between the recorded astronomical position of the reported reef and that by bearing and distance from Rottnest Island, both positions were examined. The breakers reported by the schooner Gift, in 1869, about 11 miles west of the astronomical position of Beaver Reef, were also searched for.

The parallel of latitude on which both dangers were supposed to lie, and also the parallels 3 and 5 miles on either side of it, were sounded along and traversed (a distance of 712 miles) within a space including 20 miles of latitude and 60 miles of longitude.

NON-INDICATIONS.—Lead and Look-out.—The deep-sea lead was kept going at short intervals by night and by day, and during the day-time a vigilant look-out was kept from aloft. Neither the eye nor the deep-sea lead afforded any indications of shoal water, there being depths of no bottom at 360 fathoms, and no bottom at 300 fathoms on the positions of the Beaver and Gift respectively, and no bottom at 850 fathoms about midway between them.

Temperatures.—The self-registering thermometers used while sounding showed 58° and 59° at the depth of 100 fathoms, and 64° and 65° (Fahrenheit) at the surface, within the distance of 20 miles north and south, 15 miles east, and 60 miles west of the Beaver's position. The reported bank would prove an obstruction to the Polar current, which sets over its supposed position; no indications, however, of shoaler soundings by lower temperatures were obtained.

Sea-birds, &c.—With the exception of one albatross and three Cape pigeons, which stayed by the vessel, no flocks of sea-birds nor shoals of fish (usually met with upon banks at sea) were observed. Several whales were seen.

Breakers, &c.—Moderate to strong south-westerly winds mostly prevailed, with a high swell, and, judging from local experience, the latter should have broken in 6 and 7 fathoms; the state of the sea also at times was such as to suspend sounding operations.

Vessels from Sunda Strait and the northward approaching Fremantle on the parallel of Rottnest Island, and also those from Adelaide bound to India round Cape Leeuwin (meeting winds north of west), must frequently pass near the position assigned to Beaver Reef. If strong winds between north and west prevail (opposing the Polar current), topping seas resembling breakers will be encountered in the neighborhood of that reported danger.

NON-EXISTENCE.—The result, however, of the various researches (under direction of different officers) of five, two, five, two, and eleven days' duration respectively, appears to be exhaustive, and to afford assurance of the non-existence of any bank or shoal in the vicinity of the alleged Beaver Reef.

J. E. COGHLAN,
Staff Commander and Admiralty Surveyor.

SHARKS BAY—GASCOYNE RIVER.

The following information relating to portions of Sharks Bay, West Coast of Australia, is by Staff Commander J. E. Coghlan, R.N., in charge of Joint Admiralty and Colonial Marine Survey of Western Australia, 1882.

[All bearings are magnetic. Variation, South Passage 1° 30' W., and Gascoyne River 1° 0' westerly in 1882.]

EPINAUX, or FALSE ENTRANCE,² is an inlet situated about 12 miles southward of South Passage, and, both openings taking a south-east direction, with entrance points similar in appearance, the former is liable to be mistaken for the latter when approaching from the southward.

SOUTH PASSAGE is a channel leading southward of Dirk Hartog Island into Sharks Bay. Its western entrance between Steep and Surf Points is obstructed by a narrow rocky bar (Outer Bar), concave in shape, and steep-to on its seaward side, with depths of 2 and 4 fathoms water over it. The Outer Bar was, until the recent examination, believed to have not less than 6 fathoms over it, the passage being recommended as a port of refuge for which a vessel might run in confidence and safety, during a south-west gale, if caught upon a lee shore off Dirk Hartog Island. South Passage should not be attempted except by vessels possessing local knowledge, and of not more than 12 feet draught.

Within the Outer Bar the channel, with 4 and 5 fathoms water, takes a south-east direction for $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles to abreast of Cape Ransonnnet (south extreme of Dirk Hartog Island). Thence it trends successively E.N.E., N.N.E., and N. by W., maintaining the same depths, and affording anchorage throughout for about 5 miles until meeting the Inner Bar.

LANDMARKS.—Steep Point, the south entrance point of the passage, is a bold cliffy projection with a cairn of stones erected upon it, 10 feet high, and 115 feet above high-water, useful in distinguishing South Passage from Palea Entrance. Monkey Rock, a small conspicuous bare islet, 11 feet above high-water, lies about 2 cables eastward of Steep Point, with sunken dangers surrounding it to the distance of 2 cables. Surf Point, the north entrance point, is a narrow cliffy peninsula about 70 feet high, with two small rocky islets lying close-to, and sandy coast on either side of it. The south extreme of some hills on Dirk Hartog Island (Herald Heights), with a bare white summit about 350 feet high, lies about three-quarters of a mile westward of Surf Point. At three-quarters of a mile eastward of the point there rises a bare sand hill about 200 feet high, with a well of fresh water at its western base. Surf Point lies N.E., distant $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the cairn on Steep Point. Ransonnnet Rocks, small, bare, and conspicuous, about 7 feet above high-water, lie about 2 cables south-east of Cape Ransonnnet.

DANGERS.—Outer Bar is the submarine continuation of Surf Point. Ledges which uncover at low-water and sunken dangers extend nearly a mile in a southerly direction from Surf Point, and (except with off-shore winds) usually indicate themselves by the surf beating upon them. Thence the narrow rocky projection, becoming more submerged, curves to the eastward, and joins Monkey Rock, with depths of 2 and 4 fathoms upon, and 7 and 10 fathoms close seaward, of the ledge.

South Sand, with depths of 1 to 6 feet over it, and deeper water inshore, extends in an E.N.E. direction from Ransonnnet Rocks, and thence, trending more northerly, terminates in a tongue forming the south side of Inner Bar.

North Sand, with depths of 4 and 6 feet over it, lies 4 cables northward of South Sand, with depths of 12 to 17 feet between them. Both North and South Sands are distinguished (August 1882) by streaks of dark seaweed growing upon them.

East Sand extends nearly 2 miles from the western shore of the Bellefin Prong Peninsula, with depths of 1 fathom and less water over it. Between the South and East Sands there is a navigable channel with 4 and 5 fathoms water.

Inner Bar lies between the North and South Sands, and has depths of 12 and 17 feet water, over a bottom of coarse sand and shells. A gut with 22 and 24 feet water passes close westward of North Sand and Inner Bar, and becomes absorbed in the South Sand.

DIRECTIONS.—South Passage cannot be taken in safety by vessels of more than 12 feet draught. No specific directions can be given for entering it, but, should a vessel without local knowledge be compelled by circumstances to take the passage, she must be guided by the eye between the breakers when crossing the Outer Bar, and thence the lead will prove of service if carefully attended to. As a general guide, open out the passage by bringing a point on the south shore (with a small islet close-to) opposite Cape Ransonnnet, well open of Monkey Rock, bearing S.E., and steer to pass 3 cables eastward of the latter, until over the Outer Bar, when a mid-channel should be kept until abreast of Ransonnnet Rocks. Thence E.N.E. and more northerly courses should be steered between the East and South Sands, the former indicating itself by light-colored water, and the latter by dark streaks of seaweed. Crossing the Inner Bar a vessel can be coned by the eye between the discolored water which marks the North and South Sands, or by keeping a conspicuous sand-patch on the eastern shore of Dirk Hartog Island on the bearing of N.W. by N.

TIDES.—In South Passage (August 1882), the tides were observed to be very irregular. The ebb stream attained a velocity of 3 knots at springs, causing heavy overfalls on the Outer Bar. Strong southerly winds are reported to cause the water to fall 2 feet below the mean low-water level, or the standard for the reduction of soundings.

BAR FLATS, at the mouth of Freycinet Reach, are reported to have shoaled and extended considerably in the direction of Middle Bluff (Peron Peninsula).

WOORAMEL RIVER, which flows into the eastern side of Sharks Bay abreast of Pelican Island, is reported to have anchorage close southward of its mouth, with a channel leading thereto available for vessels of 12 feet draught.

The Wooramel is the principal outlet for the local sandalwood industry.

PEARLING STATIONS are situated on Peron Peninsula at Cape Lesueur and Lagoon Point (Fresh-water Camp).

DORRE and BERNIER ISLANDS (unsurveyed) are reported to be much narrower than shown on the chart.

GASCOYNE RIVER flows into Sharks Bay about 40 miles southward of Cape Cuvier of the French (Freycinet), and is entered by two channels (north and south entrances) passing northward and southward of Babbage Island respectively.

North entrance dries across at low-water, and is barely available for boats at high-water.

South entrance is 3 cables wide, and takes an easterly and thence north-easterly direction, until its junction with north entrance abreast of the north-east extreme of Babbage Island. There is barely one foot at low-water springs across the mouth of south entrance (if southerly winds prevail), but the channel is available for cargo boats at high-water. On account of the many snags which obstruct the channel a good look-out must be kept when entering, especially at high-water.

Gascoyne town site lies on the south shore, about half-a-mile within the south entrance. There are several stores erected, and other buildings in the course of erection (June 1882), and the place is fast increasing in importance. It is proposed to lay out an additional town site at the mouth of south entrance, separated from the present site by a swamp at high-water.

EXPORTS consist principally of wool. There being no surveyed ports between Sharks Bay and N.W. Cape, the wool is brought overland to the Gascoyne from as far north as the Ashburton (or Curlew) River.

COMMUNICATION.—The local mail steamer calls at the Gascoyne on her way to Cossack, and on the return trip, monthly. Coasting vessels trade between Fremantle and Gascoyne River, and the wool ships call there for cargoes.

SUPPLIES.—Fresh meat, water, flour, and other stores, in moderate quantities, can be procured at the Gascoyne.

BEACONS.—A beacon 25 feet high and 42 feet above high-water, pyramidal in shape and whitewashed, is erected on the south extreme of Babbage Island. It is to be removed to the site originally selected for it on the summit of the sand dunes on the western side of Babbage Island, about three-fourth of a mile northward of its present position, at an elevation of 58 feet above high-water.

A whitewashed cask (vertical) beacon, 16½ feet above high-water, is erected on Mangrove Point.

OBSERVATION SPOT.—The site upon which Babbage Island beacon is to be re-erected is situated in latitude $24^{\circ} 52' 45''$ S., longitude $113^{\circ} 39'$ E. The present beacon is in latitude $24^{\circ} 53' 21''$ S., longitude $113^{\circ} 39' 18''$ E.

TIDES.—It is high-water, full and change, about 10 h. Springs rise 5 feet, neaps 2 feet. Strong south-east winds cause the water to remain about 2 feet below and north-west winds about 2 feet above the mean low-water level to which the soundings are reduced.

ANCHORAGE.—The deepest water and best anchorage lies off the north entrance, where the depth of 14 feet and over will be found about 6 cables from the shore of Babbage Island; that depth and less water extends one mile from the shore off the south entrance, and three miles from the shore at one mile southward of Mangrove Point.

Similarly, the depths of 20 and 24 feet will be found off the north entrance at $1\frac{1}{2}$ and 2½ miles respectively from the shore of Babbage Island, and 4 and 5 miles from the shore respectively at one mile southward of Mangrove Point.

Marks.—Anchorage in 20 feet, sand bottom, will be found $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the shore with Babbage Island (present) beacon bearing E.S.E., Mangrove Point beacon bearing S.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E., and the highest part of the sand dunes on Babbage Island, on which the beacon is to be re-erected, bearing E. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. A vessel drawing 14 feet can find a berth three-quarters of a mile nearer the shore, with the above-mentioned marks bearing E.S.E., S.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E., and N.E. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. respectively.

During strong southerly winds (which frequently blow for days together in Sharks Bay) the most convenient berth for a vessel of 16 feet draught (enabling the cargo lighters to work with a leading wind) will be off the south entrance, with the above-mentioned marks bearing E. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., E. by S. $\frac{1}{2}$ S., and N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. respectively. A continuance of strong southerly winds will reduce the above-given depths 2 feet.

YULE CREEK is about $1\frac{1}{2}$ cables wide and takes a south-easterly direction for about two miles, where it bifurcates and becomes absorbed in the sand flats. It is fronted by a bar with depths of 8 and 9 feet over it; but within the creek (which seems to have been a former channel of the Gascoyne) there are depths of 14 to 17 feet, available at high-water for vessels possessing local knowledge and less than 14 feet draught, if desirous of entering it to land stock. The mouth of Yule Creek lies about half-a-mile southward of south entrance, and a vessel making use of it should steer in with Mangrove Point beacon bearing E. by S. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. until Babbage Island (present) beacon bears N.E.; thence a general course of S.E. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. will lead up the creek, and a vessel may haul alongside the sand flat extending from Mangrove Point, and land stock upon it.

DIRECTIONS.—Vessels approaching the Gascoyne from the southward having passed through Naturaliste Channel should, when abreast of Dampier Reef, steer N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. (allowing for tide) until the beacons on Babbage Island and Mangrove Point are distinguished, when they may anchor as convenient on the bearings and distances before given. The lead, if carefully attended to, will give good warning, bearing in mind that sandbanks, which dry, and shoal-water, with 1 and 2 fathoms, extend 4 and 5 miles from the shore a few miles southward of the river's mouth.

Approaching from the northward, Babbage Island (present) beacon, or the summit of the sand dunes on that island, should not be brought to bear south of S.E. until within 3 miles of the anchorage; thence it should not be brought to bear southward of E.S.E.

Within 10 miles north and south of Gascoyne anchorage a vessel may stand into 5 fathoms, and off to 14 and 15 fathoms about midway between Dorre and Bernier islands and the main.

WEATHER.—Sharks Bay is occasionally, though rarely, visited by the outer circle of the cyclones which are experienced northward of the bay. A vessel, therefore, at anchor off the Gascoyne from December until the end of March should, upon indications of bad weather, be prepared to put to sea.

During the winter season (May till October) an occasional gale from the N.W., less severe and of shorter duration than those to the southward, is experienced. The barometer usually gives good warning, and vessels at anchor off the Gascoyne should on those occasions seek shelter under Bernier and Dorre islands.

Coast.—Mangrove Point, which lies about half-a-mile southward of south entrance, is conspicuous, and from it the coast curves to the eastward for about 3 miles; and thence takes a general S.S.E. & E. direction for about 22 miles to Greenough Point, over which there is a small conspicuous hummock.

Northward of Gascoyne River the coast forms a bight about 3 miles deep, the northern point of which lies N.N.W., distant about 11 miles from north entrance. Thence the coast continues in a N.N.W. direction for about 11 miles, beyond which point it was not explored during the recent survey, but appears to continue in a N.N.W. direction a further distance of 17 miles to Cape Cuvier of the French (Freycinet).

The sand dunes lie parallel to the coast, 100 to 300 feet high. Dejelling sand patch, about 19 miles north of the Gascoyne, is conspicuous.

REEFS upon which the sea breaks heavily lie about one mile from the eastern shore, 23 or 24 miles northward of Gascoyne River.

CAUTION.—Babbage Island having been recently found to lie about 12 miles north-westward of its supposed position, it is probable that the coast northward to Cape Cuvier of the French (Freycinet) and southward to Greenough point, is also erroneously laid down.

That portion of the coast, therefore, not having been examined in detail, should be approached with caution, and the lead kept going when standing towards it.

Mr. Young

WHEREAS by The Local Government Act 1874 it was amongst other things enacted that where any street or road in any municipal district exceeds one chain in width such street or road might, for any length thereof, be reduced in width to any width not less than one chain, and that the council of the municipality and the Board of Land and Works, and every owner of any land having a frontage to such street or road in any place where the same is so reduced in width, or in any place not more than three chains from any such place, might agree in writing, under the common seals of the municipality and the Board of Land and Works, and under the hand and seal of every such owner, upon a scheme for the reduction in width of such street or road for the length mentioned in such scheme and for the disposal of the surplus land taken from such street or road, and as to the purchase-money to be paid by any such owners who might be allowed to purchase any of the surplus land, and as to the compensation, if any, not exceeding in the whole the amount of the purchase-money to be paid in respect of any land injuriously affected by such scheme, and the Governor in Council might by Order published in the Government Gazette confirm such scheme, and thereupon any land mentioned in such scheme in that behalf should cease to be a street or road, and all rights of way over the same should cease and determine; and it should be lawful for the Governor, on payment of the purchase-money for any surplus land to the Treasurer of Victoria, in the name and on behalf of Her Majesty, to grant such land in accordance with the provisions of any such scheme in the manner prescribed by the said Act, and by warrant under his hand to direct payment of any such compensation out of the consolidated revenue, which is by the said Act appropriated for that purpose accordingly: And whereas a scheme has this day been submitted to the Governor in Council for reducing the width of a portion of Raglan parade, in the Borough of Warrnambool, in the colony of Victoria, as hereinafter set forth: Now therefore His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, in pursuance of the 367th section of the said in part recited Act, doth by this present Order confirm the said scheme for reducing the width of a portion of Raglan parade, in the Borough of Warrnambool aforesaid, from its present width to the width of three chains to the extent and as shown in red and blue on the plan dated the twenty-seventh day of August 1882, and annexed to the said scheme, deposited at the Office of Crown Lands and Survey, Melbourne, and in accordance with such scheme, under the seals of the Borough of Warrnambool, the Board of Land and Works, and under the hands and seals of the several and respective persons named therein, dated the twenty-ninth day of August, One thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

An the Honorable Walter Madden, Her Majesty's Commissioner of Crown Lands and Survey for Victoria, shall give the necessary directions herein accordingly.
