REGULATIONS UNDER THE ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER ACT 1915.

At the Executive Council Chamber, Melbourne, the ninth day of November, 1915.

PRESENT:

His Excellency the Governor of Victoria.
Sir A. J. Peacock	Mr. Hutchinson
Mr. Murray	Mr. Livingston
Mr. Mackinnon	Mr. Baillieu
Mr. Brown	Mr. Adamson
Mr. Hagelthorn	Mr. Gray
Mr. Lawson	Mr. Membrey.

WHEREAS by section 14 of the Electric Light and Power Act 1915 (6 Geo. V. No. 2645) it is enacted that the Governor in Council may from time to time make such regulations as he thinks expedient for securing the safety of the persons and property of the public from injury from fire or otherwise, and may by any regulation amend or repeal any condition contained in any order in relation thereto: Now therefore His Excellency the Governor of Victoria, with the advice of the Executive Council thereof, doth hereby repeal the Regulations made on the 12th day of January, 1897, and on the 16th day of July, 1900, and published in the Government Gazette of 15th January, 1897, page 110, and 20th July, 1900, page 2845 respectively, and doth hereby substitute therefor the following, that is to say:—

REGULATIONS FOR SECURING THE SAFETY OF THE PUBLIC.

Definitions.

The several words, terms, and expressions to which meanings are assigned in the Electric Light and Power Act 1896, or in any Order granted thereunder, have the same respective meanings in these Regulations.

"Consumer's terminals" means the ends of the electric lines situate upon any consumer's premises, and belonging to him, at which the supply of energy is delivered from the service lines.

"Consumer's wires" means any electric lines on a consumer's premises which are connected with the service lines of the undertakers at the consumer's terminals.

"Aerial line" means any electric lines which is placed above the ground and in the open air.

"Service line" means any electric line through which energy may be supplied, or intended to be supplied by the undertakers to a consumer, either from any main or directly from the premises of the undertakers.

"Sub-station" means any premises in which energy is transformed or converted for the purpose of supply to consumers, and which are large enough to admit the entrance of a person after the transforming or converting apparatus is in position, provided that for the purpose of these Regulations any place within any such premises which is used solely for some purpose other than such transformation or conversion, shall not be deemed to form part of a sub-station.

"Pressure" means the difference of electrical potential between any two conductors through which a supply of energy is given, or between any part of either conductor, and the earth; and—

- (a) where the conditions of the supply are such that the pressure at any pair of consumer's terminals does not exceed 250 volts, the supply shall be deemed a low-pressure supply;
- (b) where the conditions of the supply are such that the pressure exceeds 250 volts, but does not exceed 650 volts, the supply shall be deemed a medium-pressure supply;
- (c) where the conditions of the supply are such that the pressure exceeds 650 volts, but does not exceed 3,000 volts, the supply shall be deemed a high-pressure supply; and
- (d) where the conditions of the supply are such that the pressure exceeds 3,000 volts, the supply shall be deemed an extra high-pressure supply.

"Low pressure," "medium pressure," "high pressure," and "extra high pressure" respectively are used in relation to electric lines, conductors, circuits, and apparatus, according to the condition of the supply delivered through the same, or particular portions thereof.

"Outer conductors" means those conductors between which there is the greatest difference of potential, either in a three-wire system of distribution, or of a three-phase system of distribution.

"Neutral" on "intermediate" conductor means that conductor which is at a potential, intermediate or uniform from the outer conductors of a three-wire or three-phase system.

"Three-wire system" means a system in which three conductors are maintained at different potentials, the neutral conductor at a potential intermediate between the highest and lowest, being common to all lamps or other consuming devices, supplied on either side of the system.

"Three-phase system" means a system in which three alternating currents are associated in equi-distant phase relation and constant potential difference from one another.

Where these Regulations require any metallic body to be "efficiently connected with earth" it shall be connected with the general mass of the earth in such manner as will insure at all times an immediate and safe discharge of electric energy.

General.

1. Pressure of Supply to Consumers, &c.—The pressure of a supply to any consumer shall not exceed the limit of low pressure, except for special purposes, for which a medium-pressure supply may be given, upon the consumer undertaking to comply with the conditions hereinafter prescribed, and upon the undertakers forwarding to the Minister written notice of their intention to give such supply. The undertakers shall not give any such supply unless they have found that the consumer's installation complies with the following conditions, viz.:—

(a) Where the Supply is for Power purposes.—

- (1) The size of the conductors forming the connexions to motors or otherwise in connexion with the supply on the consumer's premises shall be such that, with the maximum current required by the consumer the rise in temperature will not exceed 20 degrees Fahr. for rubber-insulated cables, or 50 degrees Fahr. for paper-insulated cables; but the sectional area of any conductor shall not be less than that of a single wire of No. 14 I.S.W.G. The connexions to motors, switches, and other apparatus shall be made by means of lugs, into which the conductors, if stranded, are firmly soldered, or fixed in an approved manner.
- (2) The consumer's wires, and any service lines on the consumer's premises, shall, unless otherwise permitted in special circumstances, be completely enclosed in strong metal tubing, having screwed connexions, and all free ends of such tubing shall be provided with screwed sockets having a strong wooden bush firmly screwed therein, or shall have equivalent approved protection. All moving contacts and bare conductors in connexion with electrically-driven cranes and similar appliances must be so placed and guarded as to prevent danger so far as is reasonably practicable to the satisfaction of the Electric Inspector.
- (3) The supply to every installation under this Regulation shall be controlled by means of an efficient switch, and be protected by efficient fuses or other automatic cut-outs on each pole. Every motor shall be controlled by means of an efficient switch placed in such a position as to be easily handled by the person in charge of the motor, and connected so that by its means all pressure can be cut off from any regulating switch, resistance or other device in connexion therewith. Every motor and sub-circuit shall be protected by an efficient fuse or other automatic cut-out on each pole, but where the rated size of any motor exceeds 10 horse-power, automatic maximum current circuit breakers of such design as will prevent their being held in while abnormal loading continues, must be used. Where the design of any fuse is such that the replacing of it would involve the touching of charged metal parts, a switch on the service side of such fuse must be provided. Motors, switches, and starting devices, and fuses or other automatic circuit-breakers shall be so enclosed and protected that there will be no danger of shock being received in the ordinary handling thereof, or of a fire being caused by their normal or abnormal action. Where only one motor is installed it shall not be necessary to provide a separate switch for the motor if the switch controlling the installation be readily accessible by the person in charge of the motor.
- (4) The frame of every electric motor, all metal tubing, and any metal forming the cover of, or enclosing any portion of an electric line, if such cover be without an efficient insulating lining, shall be efficiently connected with earth in such manner as not to allow of difference of potential between the earthing connexions and the general mass of the earth being set up. All earth connexions must be in sight, and easily accessible. The earthing cable must be stranded, continuous throughout its length, securely fastened to supports, and enclosed in metal tubing where liable to mechanical injury. The sectional area of such cable shall not be less than one-tenth of the sectional area of the main circuit conductor, provided that the minimum size shall be equal to 7-20 I.S.W.G.

- (5) A notice shall be fixed in a conspicuous position at every motor and switchboard in connexion with the supply, forbidding unauthorized persons to touch the motor or apparatus, and stating that the maintenance of the consumer's lines and apparatus in a safe condition, in accordance with the Regulations under the Electric Light and Power Act, is a condition under which a supply of electricity is given.
- (b) Where the Supply is for Arc Lamps in Series.—
- (1) The consumer's wires forming the connexions to the arc lamps or otherwise in connexion with the supply shall be fixed in such manner that there shall be no danger of shock, and, if required by the Minister, they shall as far as practicable be completely enclosed in strong metal casing, efficiently connected with earth.
  - (2) The supply to every series of arc lamps shall be controlled by means of an efficient cut-off switch, placed in such a position as to be easily handled by the person in charge of the arc lighting, and connected so that by its means all pressure can be cut off from the series of arc lamps itself, and from any regulating switch, resistance, or other device in connexion therewith, provided that where the arc lamps are connected in series across the outer conductors of a three-wire system it shall be sufficient if one such switch be provided for each series of arc lamps.
  - (3) Switches and efficient fuses, or other automatic cut-outs shall be provided, so as to protect the circuits from excess of current, and all switches and cut-outs shall be so enclosed and protected that there shall be no danger of any shock being obtained in the ordinary handling thereof, or of any fire being caused by their normal or abnormal action.
- (c) Where the Supply is for Incandescent Lamps in Series.—
- (1) The consumer's wires forming the connexions to the incandescent lamps, or otherwise in connexion with the supply, shall be fixed in such manner that there shall be no danger of shock, and, if required by the Minister, such wires shall be completely enclosed in strong metal casing, which, together with the switches and lampholders, if metallic, shall be efficiently connected with earth.
  - (2) Switches, efficient fuses, or other automatic cut-outs shall be provided so as to protect the circuits from excess of current, and all switches and cut-outs shall be so enclosed and protected that there shall be no danger of any shock being received in the ordinary handling thereof, or of any fire being caused by their normal or abnormal action.

The provisions contained in sub-sections (b) and (c) of this Regulation shall not apply to the public lighting of any street or place belonging to, or subject to the control of any municipal council.

Where the supply is for any special purpose other than those above-mentioned, or where the pressure of the supply exceeds the limits of medium pressure, it shall be subject to such other regulations as the Governor in Council may from time to time prescribe.

2. Limitations of Extra High-pressure Supply.—An extra high-pressure supply shall not be given without the written consent of the Minister, and subject to such conditions as he may prescribe, except to sub-stations or other premises in the sole occupation of the undertakers.

3. Insulation Test of Electric Lines.—Every low-pressure and medium-pressure main shall be tested for insulation, after having been placed in position, and before it is used for the purpose of supply, the testing pressure being at least the maximum at which it is proposed to be used, and in any case not less than 200 volts.

4. Maintenance of Insulation.—The insulation of every complete circuit used for the supply of energy, including all machinery, apparatus, and devices forming part of or in connexion with that circuit, and being the property of, or under the control of the undertakers, shall be so maintained that the leakage current shall not, under any conditions, exceed one-thousandth part of the maximum supply current; and suitable means shall be provided for the indication and localization of leakage. Every leakage shall be remedied without delay. The foregoing provisions, however, shall not apply where any part of any electric circuit is connected with earth as specified in Regulation 11, or where approval of the Minister for connexion with earth has been given.

5. Testing of Insulation of all Parts of any High-pressure Circuit.—A high-pressure circuit shall not be brought into use unless the insulation of every part thereof has withstood the continuous application during half an hour of pressure exceeding the maximum pressure to which it is intended to be subjected in use; that is to say, in the case of every electric line, a pressure twice the said maximum pressure, and in the case of every machine, device, or apparatus a pressure of 50 per cent. greater than the said maximum pressure. The undertakers shall duly record the results of each test.

6. Quick-acting Cut-off for High-pressure Lines, &c.—Every high-pressure electric line, conductor, or other apparatus shall be protected by a suitable automatic quick-acting cut-off. Provided that it shall not be incumbent on the undertakers to provide such cut-off for the outer conductor of a concentric main, or neutral conductor of a three-phase system, which is with the approval of the Minister, efficiently connected with earth.

7. Transformers.—In every case where a high-pressure supply is transformed for the purpose of supply to one or more consumers, some suitable automatic and quick-acting means shall be provided to protect the consumer's wires from any accidental contact with or leakage from the high-pressure system, either within or without the transforming apparatus.

8. Protection from Lighting.—Where any portion of an electric line, or any support for an electric line is exposed in such a position as to be liable to injury from lightning, it shall be efficiently protected against such liability.

9. Accidents to be Reported.—Where any accident of direct or indirect electric origin, and of such kind as to have caused, or to be likely to have caused loss of life or personal injury, has occurred at any part of any electric line or work, the undertakers shall give immediate notice thereof to the Minister.

10. Earth Return.—No earth return shall be allowed on any electric light or power circuit.

11. Connexion of Circuits with Earth.—Where the pressure of a supply between the intermediate conductor and the outer conductors of a system exceeds 125 volts, the intermediate conductor shall be connected with earth at one point only on each distinct circuit, as the case may be, at the generating station, sub-station, or transformer, and the insulation of the system shall be maintained at all other parts. If and when required by the Minister, suitable means shall be provided to ascertain that the leakage current does not exceed one-thousandth part of the maximum supply current. If required by the Minister, a continuous record of the current in any earth connexion shall be kept by the undertakers. This Regulation shall not prohibit the temporary earthing of an outer conductor, with proper precautions, for purposes of testing. The negative side of a two-wire system of continuous-current supply may be connected with earth at the generating station, under similar conditions as to limitations of leakage current, and tests to ascertain the strength of such leakage current shall be made daily, and shall be duly recorded by the undertakers.

Aerial Lines.

12. Aerial Lines.—These shall be of hard-drawn stranded wire, and, if not less than 5 feet from any structure or the building line of any street, may be bare.

13. Maximum Interval between Supports.—Unless otherwise approved by the Minister, every aerial line shall be attached to supports at intervals not exceeding 200 feet, where the direction of the line is straight, or 150 feet where the line makes an angle at the point of support.

14. Supports: Construction and Erection of.—Every pole or main support of an aerial line shall be of durable material, and be properly stayed where necessary against forces due to wind pressure, change of direction of the line, or unequal lengths of span. The factor of safety for aerial lines and suspending wires and all other parts of the structure shall be at least six, taking the maximum possible wind pressure at 25 lbs. per square foot. Every support, if of metal, shall be efficiently connected with earth or other trustworthy means must be taken to prevent any difference of potential being set up, between such support and the general mass of the earth.

15. Minimum size of Conductors.—The sectional area of any conductor in any aerial line erected after the date of these Regulations shall not be less than that of seven wires, each as large as No. 20 I.S.W.G. if of copper, or of seven wires, each as large as No. 13 I.S.W.G. if of aluminium. No unstranded conductor shall be used in any part of an aerial line, and any such conductor which may have been erected prior to the date of these Regulations, shall, as may be required by the Minister, be replaced by a stranded conductor.

16. Attachment of Aerial Lines.—All aerial lines shall be securely attached to insulators, and shall be so guarded that they cannot fall away from the support. The tie wire shall be of the same metal as the line, and annealed, and the tie shall be so made as not injuriously to affect the line. Insulated conductors shall not be attached to the insulators by uninsulated metal binders. Where the line terminates, or makes an abrupt angle with the direction of the street, insulators of the shackle or other approved type shall be used.

17. Height from the Ground and Distance from Buildings, &c.—An aerial line shall not in any part thereof be at a less height from the roadway than 18 feet, nor within three feet measured horizontally, nor seven feet vertically, from any building or erection other than a support for the line, except where brought into a building for the purpose of supply. Provided that for purposes of public and private supply in lanes and confined areas, in which the use of poles is impracticable, underground conductors shall preferably be employed. Electric lines, attached from necessity to buildings, shall, where accessible without the use of special means, be enclosed in strong metal tubing, and shall be protected throughout by efficient and durable insulation.

18. Service Lines from Aerial Lines.—Service lines from aerial lines shall be led as directly as possible to insulators attached to some portion of the consumer's premises which is not accessible to any person without the use of a ladder or other special appliance. They shall be securely tied to such insulators, and from this point of attachment they shall be enclosed and protected in accordance with the subsequent Regulations as to electric lines on the consumer's premises. Any portion of any service line which is outside a building and within the reach of any person without the aid of a ladder or other appliance shall be completely enclosed in stout india-rubber tubing or other suitable insulating material. Service lines shall consist of stranded conductor continuously covered with durable insulating material for a distance of at least twelve feet measured from the premises of the consumer. If one of the service lines is an earthed conductor (vide Regulation 11) it may be wholly bare, provided it is run as far as possible above, and in the same vertical plane, as the unearthed conductor. If service lines exceed a length of 60 feet, they shall consist of hard-drawn stranded wire.

19. Angle of Crossing Thoroughfares.—Where an aerial line crosses a street, the angle between the line and the direction of the street at the place of crossing shall not be less than 60 degrees, and the span shall be as short as possible.

20. Discharge of Pressure in Case of Fire.—Every aerial line shall be provided with means whereby the pressure may be discharged from any portion of the line erected over or alongside any building or buildings without loss of time in case of fire or other emergency.

21. Maintenance.—Every aerial line, including its supports and all the structural parts and the electrical appliances and devices belonging to or connected with the line shall be duly and efficiently supervised and maintained as regard both electrical and mechanical conditions.

22. Disused Aerial Lines.—No aerial line or support or attachment thereto shall remain erected after it has ceased to be in use, unless it be efficiently supervised and maintained.

23. Overhead Lines for Pressures exceeding Medium Pressure.—Overhead lines for pressures exceeding medium pressure shall be subject to such further Regulations as the Governor in Council may make, or to such conditions as he may prescribe.

Electric Lines other than Aerial Lines.

24. Construction of Receptacles for Electric Lines.—All conduits, pipes, casings, and electrical boxes used as receptacles for electric lines shall be constructed of durable material, and, where laid under carriage-ways, shall be of ample strength to prevent any damage from heavy traffic; and reasonable means shall be taken by the undertakers to prevent the accumulation of gas in such receptacles.

25. Crossing Pipes, &c.—Where any electric line crosses or is in proximity to any metallic substance, special precautions shall be taken by the undertakers against the possibility of any electrical discharge to the metallic substance from the line or from any metal conduit pipe or casing enclosing the line.

26. Electric continuity of Metals, Conduits, Pipes, and Casings.—All metals conduits, pipes, or casings containing any electric lines shall be efficiently connected with earth, and shall be so jointed and connected across all street boxes and other openings as to make good electrical connexion throughout their whole length.

27. Precautions against Charging of Short Lengths of Pipe, &c.—Where isolated lengths of metal conduit, pipe, or casing are used for the protection of any line at road crossings or similar positions, special precautions shall be taken to prevent any electrical charging thereof.

28. Precautions to be taken where bare Conductors are used.—Where the conductors of electric lines placed in any conduit are not continuously covered with insulating material, they shall be secured in position, and no unfixed uninsulated material of a conducting nature shall be contained in the conduit. No such conductor shall be at a higher potential than 300 volts. Adequate precautions shall be taken to insure that no accumulation of water shall take place in any part of the conduit, and to prevent any dangerous access of moisture to the conductors or insulators. In the case of any such electric lines laid in conduit, the insulators shall be so disposed that they can be readily inspected.

29. High-pressure Lines laid above Ground.—Every portion of any high-pressure or extra high-pressure electric line placed above the surface of the ground, or in any sub-way not in the sole occupation of the undertakers, shall be completely enclosed, either in a tube of highly insulating material embedded in brickwork, masonry, or cement concrete, or in strong metal casing efficiently connected with earth.

30. High-pressure Lines laid in proximity to other Electric Lines or to the Surface of the Ground.—Where any high-pressure or extra high-pressure electric line is laid beneath the surface of the ground, efficient means shall be taken to prevent the surface of the ground, or any neighbouring electric line or conductor, from becoming charged by leakage from the high-pressure electric line.

Sub-stations and Street Boxes.

31. Sub-stations.—Sub-stations shall be established in suitable places, and shall be in the sole occupation and charge of the undertakers. Sub-stations shall be erected above ground wherever possible, but where necessarily underground due provision shall be made for ventilation and for drainage.

32. Street Boxes.—In addition to the provisions contained in Regulation 26 as to the construction of receptacles for electric lines, the following Regulations shall be observed with respect to the construction of street boxes:—

- (a) The covers of all street boxes shall be so secured that they cannot be opened except by means of a special appliance.
- (b) The covers of all street boxes containing high-pressure apparatus other than cables shall be connected to strips of metal laid immediately underneath the adjacent roadway, and efficient means shall be taken to prevent the covers, or other exposed parts of these boxes, or any adjacent material forming the surface of the street, from becoming electrically charged, whether by reason of leakage defect or otherwise.
- (c) Where street boxes are used as transformer chambers, reasonable means shall be taken to prevent as far as possible any influx of water, either from the adjacent soil or by means of pipes; and in the case of any such street box exceeding one cubic yard in capacity, ample provision shall be made, by ventilation or otherwise, for the immediate escape of any gas which may have obtained access to the box, and for the prevention of danger from sparking.
- (d) All the street boxes shall be regularly inspected for the presence of gas, and if any influx or accumulation be discovered, the undertakers shall give immediate notice to the municipal council or company whose gas mains are laid in the neighbourhood of the street box.
- (e) Where mains at different pressures pass through the same street box, they shall be readily distinguishable from one another.

Transforming Stations.

33. Transforming Stations.—Transforming stations or points in a system of distribution in which a high-pressure supply is transformed for the purpose of supply to consumers, and which are not in the consumer's premises, shall be established in suitable places which are in the sole occupation and charge of the undertakers. Transformers attached to street poles shall be securely fixed at a height of at least 18 feet, and shall be provided with switches and fusible cut-outs placed in the lead and return of the high-pressure conductors, in such a manner that the transformer can be completely disconnected from the supply made. The whole apparatus shall be enclosed in a watertight covering, which, if of metal, and within the reach of any person, without the aid of a ladder or other appliance, shall be efficiently connected with earth, and necessary precautions shall be taken to prevent the low pressure or secondary conductors, receiving current from the high-pressure or primary conductors.

Consumers' Premises.

34. Introduction of Supply System into Consumers' Premises.—Where the pressure between the outer conductors of a system of supply exceeds 250 volts, and such conductors are brought into a consumer's premises, the supply shall be distributed from two or more pairs of terminals, each pair comprising one of the outer wires and the neutral wire, the whole being arranged in such manner that there shall be no danger of shock, and the wiring from those terminals shall be kept distinct.

35. Responsibility of Undertakers for their Lines, &c., upon Consumers' Premises.—The undertakers shall be responsible for all electric lines, fittings, and apparatus belonging to them, or under their control, which may be upon a consumer's premises, being maintained in a safe condition, and in all respects fit for supplying energy.

36. Fire Risks.—In delivering the energy to a consumer's terminals, the undertakers shall exercise all due precautions so as to avoid risk of causing fire on the premises.

37. Main Fuses and Disconnectors.—A suitable safety fuse or other automatic disconnector, enclosed in a locked or sealed receptacle of fireproof construction shall be inserted in each outer service line upon the consumer's premises, as near as possible to the point of entry, unless the service lines are protected by fuses in a street box. If the supply be delivered by an aerial service line, each fuse or disconnector shall be placed as near as possible to the point of entry into any building, and shall be so disposed as to satisfy the requirements of Regulation 36. No fuse shall be inserted in the intermediate conductor of a three-wire service or in the intermediate conductor of a three-phase, four-wire service.

38. Treatment of Electric Lines and Apparatus on a Consumer's Premises.—All electric lines and apparatus being the property of, or under the control of the undertaker, and placed on a consumer's premises, shall be highly insulated, and thoroughly protected against injury to the insulation, or access of moisture, and any metal forming part of the electric circuit shall not, unless efficiently connected with earth at the generating station, sub-station, or transformer as the case may be, be exposed so that it can be touched. All electric lines shall be so fixed and protected as to prevent the possibility of electrical discharge to any adjacent metallic substance.

39. Transformers and High-pressure Apparatus to be enclosed in Metal, &c.—Where the general supply of energy is a high-pressure supply, and transforming apparatus is installed on a consumer's premises, the whole of the high-pressure service lines, conductors, and apparatus, including the transforming apparatus itself, so far as they are on the consumer's premises, shall be completely enclosed in solid fireproof walls, or in strong metal casing efficiently connected with earth, and securely fastened throughout.

40. Connexion to a Consumer's Premises not to be made where a Leakage would result.—The undertakers shall not connect the wires and fittings upon a consumer's premises with their mains unless they are reasonably satisfied that the connexion would not cause a leakage from those wires and fittings exceeding one ten-thousandth part of the maximum supply of current to the premises; and where the undertakers decline to make such connexion, they shall serve on the consumers a notice stating their reasons for so declining.

41. Discontinuance of Supply on Discovery of Leakage or other Defect on a Consumer's Premises.—If the undertakers are reasonably satisfied after having made all proper examination by testing or otherwise, that a leakage or other defect exists at some part of a consumer's wires or fittings, of such extent or nature as to be a source of danger, any officer of the undertakers, duly authorized by them in writing, or, if the undertakers so require, an electric inspector may, for the purpose of discovering whether the leakage or other defect exists at any part of the circuit within or upon the consumer's premises, by notice in writing, require the consumer at some reasonable time after the service of notice, to permit him to inspect and test the wires and fittings belonging to the consumer, and forming part of the circuit. In any case where the undertakers require the services of an electric inspector under this Regulation, they shall pay him the prescribed fee.

If, on any such testing or examination, the officer or the electric inspector discovers a material defect, or a leakage from the consumer's wires exceeding one ten-thousandth part of the maximum supply current to the premises, or if the consumer does not give all due facilities for inspection and testing, the undertakers shall forthwith discontinue the supply of energy to the premises in question, giving immediate notice of the discontinuance to the consumer, and shall not recommence the supply until they are reasonably satisfied that the leakage or other defect has been removed. This Regulation shall not affect any power contained in the Order or otherwise enabling the undertakers to discontinue the supply.

42. Appeal to Electric Inspector.—If any consumer be dissatisfied with the action of the undertakers in refusing to give, or in discontinuing, or not recommencing the supply of energy to his premises, the wire and fittings of that consumer may, on his application, and on payment of the prescribed fee, be tested for the leakage or other defect by an electric inspector. This Regulation shall be indorsed upon every notice given under the provisions of either of the two last preceding Regulations.

Arc Lighting.

43. Arc Lamps to be Guarded.—All arc lamps shall be so guarded as to prevent pieces of ignited carbon or broken glass falling from them, and shall not be used in situations where there is any danger of the presence of explosive dust or gas.

Public Arc Lighting.

44. Height from Ground.—Arc lamps used in any street for public lighting, except when suspended over the roadway, shall be so fixed as not to be in any part at a less height than 10 feet from the ground. If suspended over the roadway of any street, arc lamps shall be so fixed as not to be in any part at a less height than 18 feet from the ground.

Private Arc Lighting.

45. Cut-off Switch.—Arc lamps used in any street for private lighting shall be fixed so as not to be in any part at a less height than 8 feet from the ground, and shall be so screened as to prevent risk of contact with persons. A cut-off switch shall be provided for every such arc lamp, or series of arc lamps, not exceeding 250 volts pressure, and such switch shall be of such pattern and construction as will provide—

- (a) that the arc lamps or series of arc lamps by its means be entirely disconnected from the supply circuit;
- (b) that the switch itself can be safely operated in the dark without special precautions; and
- (c) that there shall be no danger of any injurious electrical arcing, sparking, or heating being caused by the operation of the switch.

Penalties for Default.

If the undertakers make default in complying with any of the preceding Regulations, they shall, on conviction, be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 for every such default, and to a daily penalty not exceeding £10. The recovery of a penalty under these Regulations shall not affect any liability of the undertakers to make compensation in respect of any damage or injury which may have been caused by reason of the default.

And the Honorable Frederick Hagelthorn, His Majesty's Commissioner of Public Works for the State of Victoria, shall give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

Sir A. J. Peacock	Mr. Hutchinson
Mr. McLeod	Mr. Robinson
Mr. McKenzie	Mr. McCutcheon.

UNDER the powers in that behalf conferred by the Friendly Societies Acts Amendment Act 1915 to make regulations necessary or convenient for carrying the said Act into effect, the Governor of the State of Victoria, by and with the advice of the Executive Council thereof, doth make the Regulations following (that is to say) :—

1. These Regulations may be cited as the Friendly Societies Reinsurance Regulations, and shall take effect as from the date of the passing of the Friendly Societies Acts Amendment Act 1915.

2. In these Regulations "Act" means the Friendly Societies Acts Amendment Act 1915.

3. Any society or branch desiring to enter into a contract with the Treasurer of Victoria under the Act for the reinsurance of liability shall supply to such person as the Treasurer may appoint for the purpose (hereinafter called the "reinsurance agent") such information in regard to the liability a reinsurance of which is desired; and shall give such proof of the accuracy of the information supplied as the said reinsurance agent may require.

4. A society or branch making a claim under a contract for reinsurance of liability as aforesaid shall supply to the reinsurance agent such evidence as he may require of the liability of the said society or branch under its registered rules to pay the amount claimed.

5. The reinsurance agent shall as soon as practicable after receipt of the information required by him as aforesaid, advise the society or branch concerned of any payment to be made by it to the Treasury, or to be received by it therefrom.

6. No contract for reinsurance of liability as aforesaid shall be binding on the Treasurer of Victoria until a periodical payment thereunder (hereinafter called a "premium") has actually been made by the society or branch concerned, in accordance with a direction received from the reinsurance agent.

7. Every contract entered into by a society or branch with the Treasurer of Victoria for reinsurance of liability as aforesaid shall take effect as from the date of enlistment of the member of the society or branch to whom it relates, and premiums shall be payable annually in advance as from that date.

8. Any contract entered into by a society or branch with the Treasurer of Victoria under the Act for reinsurance of liability incurred before the date of the Act shall include the whole of such liability other than such portion as may have been reinsured with a company as provided in section 4 of the Act and is still reinsured with such company at the date of such contract or has ceased to exist.

9. The first premium payable in respect of a contract for reinsurance of liability as aforesaid and, where more than twelve months have elapsed since the date of enlistment of the member in respect of whom such liability exists, the second premium also, shall be paid within sixty days of the date on which such contract is entered into with the Treasurer of Victoria. Subject to the limitation mentioned in regard to second premiums, all premiums other than the first shall be paid within thirty days from the anniversary of the date from which the contract takes effect, hereinafter called the "due date." If payment be not made within the period specified the said contract shall lapse, and the Treasurer shall be relieved of all liability thereunder. Provided that in such case the reinsurance agent may agree with the society or branch to revive the contract on payment being made of the said premium or premiums with interest thereon from the due date at the rate of Five pounds per cent. per annum. Provided further that in the event of a claim being made by a society or branch under a contract with the said Treasurer in respect of which any premium that is due has not been paid, such claim shall not be admitted so long as the said premium remains unpaid.

10. A society or branch desirous of entering into a contract with a company in accordance with section 4 of the Act shall before doing so furnish the Government Statist with such information in regard to the position of the company and the terms and conditions of the proposed contract as he may require, in order to determine whether or not he approves of such contract.

11. On the termination of the war each society or branch which has entered into a contract for reinsurance of liability as aforesaid shall furnish to the Government Statist such information as he may require to enable him to certify to the value of any liability that may be outstanding, and to determine the manner in which moneys remaining in the Friendly Societies Reinsurance Fund after payment of all sums chargeable thereto under the Act are to be divided among the societies or branches which have contributed thereto.

12. Every society and branch or officer of a society or branch or other person committing a breach of any of the above Regulations shall be liable to a penalty of not less than One pound nor more than Ten pounds.

And the Honorable Sir Alexander James Peacock, His Majesty's Treasurer for the State of Victoria, shall give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

TENDERS will be received on or before Saturday, 27th November, 1915, for the right to depasture stock on the following unappropriated portions of land subject to the Regulations approved by the Governor in Council and also the subjoined special conditions.

Every licence granted under section 187 of the Land Act 1901 shall be subject to the conditions set forth in the schedule hereto and to such special conditions and payment in advance of such fee as the Minister may determine, and shall be issued by an officer of the Department of Lands and Survey duly authorized in that behalf.

Conditions.

1. The issue of this licence shall not prevent the land comprised therein, or any part or parts thereof, being sold, leased, licensed, alienated, or dealt with under any of the provisions of the Land Acts, except under the 187th section of the Land Act 1901, or being resumed by order of the Governor or Administrator of the Government of Victoria, with the advice of the Executive Council, for any of the purposes for which land may be reserved under section 10 of the Land Act 1901, or for mining purposes.

2. In case the said land, or any part thereof, should be sold, leased, licensed, alienated, dealt with, or resumed as aforesaid, the licensee shall not be entitled to any compensation other than that which the responsible Minister of the Crown for the time being administering the Land Acts may think fit.

3. This licence is subject to the rights of the holders of miners' rights or of mining leases now issued or hereafter to be issued to enter upon the allotment hereby licensed, and to search for gold, and to mine thereon, and to erect and occupy mining plant and machinery, without making any compensation to the licensee, his executors, administrators, or assigns, for surface or other damage.

4. Subject to these conditions, the licensee shall be entitled to use the land for the purpose for which this licence has been granted, until such land, or any part thereof, has been sold, leased, licensed, alienated, dealt with, or resumed as aforesaid, and thereupon all the interest of the licensee therein shall cease and be determined.

5. No land comprised in roads from time to time surveyed and marked out within the boundaries of the land comprised in this licence shall be deemed within its operation.

6. This licence shall entitle the holder thereof, during the period for which it is granted, to use the land therein comprised for depasturing purposes only, but shall not confer any right to build thereon, or to cultivate or, without the permission of the Minister, fence any portion thereof, or construct a dam or tank.

7. The taking in of stock for agistment or otherwise allowing the use of the land, or part thereof, without authority in writing by the Minister, is forbidden.

8. That in the event of the Minister granting permission to fence the whole or any part of this area, the licensee shall provide gates or slip panels in suitable places for the convenience of the public. No compensation will be allowed for fencing erected on boundaries of allotments alienated or in course of alienation.

9. That where improvements are authorized under section 189 of the Land Act 1901 the licensee shall notify, on completion, that such improvements have been made, otherwise the work will not be recognised.

10. The interest in this licence shall not be transferred without the consent of the Minister, and the payment of a fee of Ten shillings.

11. The licensee shall be liable to forfeiture if the licensee commit a breach of or neglect to comply with these conditions.

12. The publication of a notice in the Government Gazette, purporting to declare that the Governor or Administrator, with the advice aforesaid, has forfeited this licence, shall be conclusive evidence that the licence is forfeited.

13. The ring-barking of the timber upon the land by the licensee is forbidden, and he shall not be entitled to destroy or cut and take away any such timber.

14. Free access to water shall be kept open at all times for travelling and other stock and for persons desiring to take water for domestic purposes.

15. The licensee shall destroy all thistles on the land, and on the half width of the adjoining roads, and shall be responsible for the destruction of thistles under the Thistle Act 1890 in like manner as holders of freehold lands.

16. The licensee shall keep the land free from vermin, and, should he fail to do so, the licence shall be liable to forfeiture.

17. This licence is issued subject to the right of saw-millers to graze on this area such horses and bullocks as are actually used in connexion with their licensed operations on this land.

18. In the event of the area being damaged by fire, the licence may be forfeited unless the licensee satisfy the Minister that neither he, directly or indirectly, nor his workmen or servants, were in any way responsible therefor.

Special Conditions.

1. The period of occupation will, except where otherwise specified, be for ten months from 1st December, 1915, to 30th September, 1916.

8. The outgoing tenant has the option to remove any existing fencing within one month or to require the incoming tenant to pay for it in accordance with the provisions of section 190, Land Act 1901.

Plans can be seen and information may be obtained in this office.

Section 13, Land Act 1904, provides:—

1. Where a licensee under section 187 of the Land Act 1901 has, with the consent of the Minister, enclosed with a substantial fence the land which is the subject of his licence, he may impound any cattle, sheep, or other animals found trespassing thereon.

2. Where the licensee holds land under the said section which is unfenced, he may, in any Court of competent jurisdiction, sue the owner of any cattle, sheep, or other animals for damages arising from trespass by such cattle, sheep, or other animals.
