"101A. DETERMINATION OF MEAT IN SAUSAGE MEAT.

The meat content of sausages shall be determined by the method as set out in The Analyst, volume 65, 1940, page 257, under the heading—'The Sausages (Maximum Prices) Regulation Order 1940.'

101B. DETERMINATION OF DDT IN FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.

The amount of dichloro-diphenyl-trichlorethane present on fresh fruit and vegetables and on dried apricots peaches and pears shall be determined by the following method:—

The DDT residue is determined by the total dechlorination of the organic substances soluble in petroleum ether by a modified Stepanow reaction and calculation of the determined chlorine in terms of DDT.

Reagents.

Petroleum ether—boiling range 60-80°C.
Absolute ethyl alcohol.
Metallic sodium.
Silver nitrate solution—0.02 normal.
Ammonium thiocyanate—0.02 normal.
Nitrobenzene.
Ferric Alum indicator:—

Dissolve 40 grams of ferric ammonium sulphate in water, acidify with nitric acid, boil for a few minutes, cool, and make to a volume of 100 ml.

Sample.

A representative sample of approximately 1,500 grams of fresh fruit or vegetable or 250 grams of dried fruit is necessary for the analysis.

Extraction.

Immerse portion of the sample in a 1-litre beaker containing 500 ml. of petroleum ether for 10 minutes, and then by means of forceps transfer to a second beaker of solvent and allow to remain immersed for a further 10 minutes. After allowing the excess solvent to drain back into the beaker, discard the treated sample. This procedure is repeated with the remainder of the sample.

Maintain the volume of solvent in the first beaker by additions as necessary from the second, and the volume of solvent in the second beaker by additions of fresh solvent.

Fruit which has been treated with dusts containing DDT may be gently brushed in the solvent to assist in the removal of adhering particles. With certain types of leafy vegetables, it may be preferable to shake the sample, in appropriate portions, twice with solvent in stoppered Erlenmeyer flasks.

Decant all the solvent used through a No. 4 Whatman filter paper into a 1,000 ml. distillation flask.

Estimation.

Concentrate the solvent extract to about 30 ml. by distilling the surplus solvent from the flask, heating in an electrically heated water bath. Transfer the concentrated extract to a 1-inch diameter Pyrex test tube, rinse the flask with solvent and add to the tube. Evaporate the solvent completely by gentle heating in a water bath at about 70°C., and by drawing a stream of air over the solvent surface in the test tube.

Add 10 ml. absolute alcohol to the test tube, heat to dissolve the residue and add, one at a time, small pieces of clean metallic sodium until all the alcohol is consumed. Add a further 5 ml. of alcohol and more sodium; heat if the reaction becomes sluggish. If, finally, any unreacted sodium remains, add small amounts of alcohol until it has all reacted.

Transfer the solution to a 250 ml. Erlenmeyer flask with distilled water, make acid with dilute nitric acid, and boil for a few minutes.

Cool and add 20 ml. 0.02 normal silver nitrate solution, followed by 2 ml. nitrobenzene. Stopper the flask and thoroughly shake.

Add 2 ml. ferric alum indicator and titrate with 0.02 normal ammonium thiocyanate to the first colour change.

1 ml. 0.02 normal solution = 0.001417 grm. DDT.

A blank determination using all reagents should be conducted and the appropriate correction applied to the final result. All glassware used should be thoroughly washed, rinsed with distilled water, and dried before use."
