(12) Vessels having oil or inflammable liquid on board must apply for special permission from the Commissioners to enter any public dock which may only be granted on compliance with specified conditions. In the case of vessels having bulk oil on board, the permission may only be granted on condition that all oil is discharged and certificates of test obtained in respect of all oil tanks prior to docking. Any oil or inflammable liquid contained in drums or tins must be discharged prior to docking unless the Commissioners give permission in special cases for such to remain on board.

Section III.—Vessels with Oil in Bulk.

- (1) (a) Pipes, hoses, valves, and other appliances used for transferring oil shall be suitable for the work, kept in good condition, and free from leakage, and all due precautions shall be taken to prevent any oil escaping into tidal water.

(9) Immediately a vessel carrying inflammable liquid has been berthed steel wire hawsers sufficiently strong to enable the vessel to be hauled away from the wharf thereby shall be placed over the fore and aft end of such vessel, and such hawsers shall so remain during the whole of the time the vessel remains alongside the wharf.

(10) Except with the permission of the Harbor Master no vessel shall be berthed alongside any wharf unless such vessel is ready to discharge and to continue to discharge and arrangements have been made by the consignee to immediately receive the inflammable liquid.

(11) A responsible officer of the vessel shall be on duty day and night to give effect to these Regulations.

(12) An inspection fee not exceeding £5 5s. shall be paid, when required, to the Commissioners in respect to any vessel upon which inflammable liquid or inflammable liquid and oil exceeding five hundred tons (500 tons) is conveyed, loaded, or unloaded.

(13) No inflammable liquid shall be loaded or unloaded on or from the vessel at any time between sunset and sunrise unless a permit in writing has been obtained in each instance from the Harbor Master to allow such inflammable liquid to be loaded or unloaded on or from such vessel and the conditions of such permission are duly observed.

(14) Approved fire extinguishers and other approved material shall be provided and so distributed about the vessel as to be available for throwing on any inflammable liquid which may be spilled or ignited.

(15) Iron or steel hammers or other instruments capable of causing a spark shall not be used for the purpose of opening or closing hatches or tank lids of a vessel.

Except with the written approval of the Harbor Master, chipping, scraping, or hammering of iron or steel on the vessel is prohibited when any hold which contains, or has recently contained, inflammable liquid, is open, or while there is any inflammable liquid on deck.

(16) No vessel (other than a self-propelled vessel) carrying inflammable liquid shall be navigated except in tow of or attended by an efficient tug propelled by steam, electricity, or other mechanical power, and not more than two such vessels shall be towed together at any time, either abreast or in train. No vessel (other than a self-propelled vessel) carrying inflammable liquid shall be towed alongside a tug unless with the permission in writing of the Harbor Master, and upon such conditions as shall have been imposed by the Commissioners.

(17) A tank used for conveyance of inflammable liquid on a vessel shall as far as practicable and applicable comply with the following:—

- (a) The tank shall be solidly constructed of steel and shall not exceed a capacity approved by the Commissioners.
- (b) The tank shall be firmly attached to strongly constructed supports.
- (c) The tank shall be efficiently screened from any engine on the vessel by a fire-resisting shield placed at least 6 inches from the tank and carried up above the tank and down below it, and the exhaust of the engine shall be wholly in front of this shield if the engine is in front of such tank, or wholly behind this shield if the engine is behind such tank.
- (d) All vent pipes and vacuum relief valves shall be effectively protected by wire gauze as defined.
- (e) Effective earthing shall be provided to prevent accumulation of static electricity.
- (f) The bottom end of each fill pipe shall be carried down to near the bottom of the tank to form a liquid seal.
- (g) All fill pipes and dip pipes and other openings of a tank shall be fitted with screw caps, bolted covers, or other means of closing gas-tight at all times when such fill pipes or dip pipes are not in use for filling or dipping.
- (h) Vent pipes on all tanks shall be properly protected at the outlets by wire gauze as defined and these outlets shall not be less than 12 feet above deck, and made weatherproof.
- (i) No tank shall be filled with inflammable liquid more than 95 per cent. of its capacity and a mark indicating the level at which 95 per cent. of its capacity will be so occupied shall be permanently fixed in the tank.

Special Provisions with Respect to Vessels with Inflammable Liquid Otherwise than in Bulk.

(18) A watchman shall be stationed at each gangway leading on to the vessel to prevent smoking, to prevent unauthorized access to the vessel, and to warn every person that inflammable liquid is being loaded or unloaded by the vessel.

(19) Notices warning the crew and all persons on board or coming on board the vessel that smoking or any practice likely to cause fire is prohibited, shall be displayed in conspicuous positions on the vessel and on the gangways of such vessel.

(20) All holds containing inflammable liquid in drums, tins, or other packages, shall be thoroughly ventilated before, and during, the time such inflammable liquid is being unloaded.

(21) All holds from which inflammable liquid in drums, tins, or other packages have been unloaded shall be thoroughly ventilated. The bilges shall be carefully cleaned by removing any liquid by hand pumps, suitable wooden bailers and by swabbing, and afterwards suitably ventilated. Fire or unauthorized light shall not be permitted at or near such hold until a certificate of test shall have been obtained.

(22) All inflammable liquid loaded on the vessel shall be properly and securely stowed to the satisfaction of the Harbor Master.

(23) Proper and efficient ventilation for the place of stowage shall be provided, and, when required, outlet ventilators, passing through the deck and terminating just below such deck, and inlet ventilators extending to the bottom of the holds from above the upper deck, shall be fixed. All outlet and inlet ventilators shall be covered with wire gauze as defined.

(26) Sufficient hatch coverings and other coverings, as may be required by the Harbor Master, shall be provided.

(27) All holds which contain, or have recently contained, inflammable liquid, when inflammable liquid or other article is not being loaded into or unloaded from such holds, or such holds are not being cleansed and ventilated, shall be closed gas-tight as far as practicable.

(28) A permit in writing shall be obtained from the Harbor Master to load or unload general cargo after sunset into or from a vessel carrying inflammable liquid, and the following precautions shall be taken:—

(a) Every hold containing inflammable liquid shall be securely battened down.

(b) No cargo shall be loaded into or unloaded from any hold unless such hold is separated by water-tight and gas-tight bulkheads, decks, battened-down hatchways, or other means from all places on such vessel where vapor from inflammable liquid is likely to be.

(29) Stowing inflammable liquid below deck in a wooden vessel is prohibited. A limited quantity, however, may be carried as deck cargo on the weather deck of such a vessel provided the inflammable liquid is stowed at a safe distance from the galley, crew's quarters, and openings leading into machinery or boiler spaces.

Special Provisions with Respect to Tank Ships.

(29) (a) Except with the written permission of the Harbor Master, the Master, Owner, or Agent shall not permit wire ropes to be used in the mooring of tank ships unless used for the purpose of attaching coir mooring springs to the vessel.

(30) The loading or unloading of inflammable liquid from a tank ship shall not commence until a barricade efficient to prevent access to the vessel and pipeline hose connexions by any unauthorized person has been erected to the satisfaction of the Harbor Master and until a watchman has been stationed at each opening of the barricade to prevent the entrance of any unauthorized person and to take charge of matches from all persons entering the barrier.

(31) Before commencing loading or unloading inflammable liquid, all matches shall be collected from members of the crew and other persons on the vessel, and no person shall bring matches or other means of making a fire or light on the vessel during such loading or unloading.

(32) In addition to having a responsible officer on duty as required by this Regulation, a crew to assist such officer and a competent member of the engine-room staff shall be on duty at all time when inflammable liquid is on board, to be available in case of emergency to operate the fire pumps or other fire-extinguishing appliances.

(33) From the time when the tank or holds of tank ships carrying inflammable liquid are first unsealed or opened for the purpose of loading or unloading inflammable liquid, and until such tanks or holds have been closed and sealed down, no fires or lights, other than fires or lights approved by the Harbor Master, shall be lit or used, either on board the vessel or on shore, within 50 feet of any place at which inflammable liquid is being loaded or unloaded. Where, however, the Harbor Master is satisfied that the construction of the vessel and the situation of the fires are such that no serious hazard will be created thereby, the use of boiler fires for the purpose of supplying power necessary for working the machinery or appliances for the unloading of inflammable liquid, and also for heating galley appliances, may be authorized. No fires or lights of any description shall be permitted on any vessel while the tanks are open, or unsealed for the purpose of loading inflammable liquid.

(34) Except during inspection or when samples or ullage measurements are being taken, wire gauze as defined shall be fitted over all openings of tanks that contain, or have recently contained, inflammable liquid in bulk.

(35) Pipes, hoses, pumps, and other appliances used for the transferring of inflammable liquid shall be maintained free from leakage and gas-tight, and, unless it is otherwise authorized, on the completion of loading or unloading all gear shall be thoroughly freed from inflammable liquid and the hoses disconnected from the shore pipe lines.

(36) The following precautions in the loading or unloading of inflammable liquid in bulk shall be taken:—

- (a) Hoses, constructed to be resistant to inflammable liquid and maintained in good order, shall be used for connecting from ship to shore installation.
- (b) A non-return valve shall be placed immediately behind the connexion between hose and shore installation pipe, and also at the shore end of the wharf.
- (c) When pumping ceases temporarily, valves on ship and on shore pipeline shall be closed.
- (d) On completion of the loading or unloading, pipelines at or within 100 feet of any wharf shall be thoroughly cleared of inflammable liquid by flushing with water, and shall be kept full of water.
- (e) All openings in the tanks shall be closed gas-tight immediately on completion of loading or unloading.

(37) Subject to the approval in writing of the Harbor Master, inflammable liquid in bulk may be discharged in bulk into a tank ashore after sunset provided that the following conditions and such other conditions as may be prescribed by the Commissioners in special cases are complied with:—

- (a) All pipelines, hoses, valves, and other appliances shall be coupled up and pumping commenced at least one hour before sunset.
- (b) Pipelines and hoses shall not be uncoupled or coupled or otherwise interfered with except in daylight.

(6) Dangerous goods which are upon any wharf contrary to the provisions of this Regulation may be removed by the Harbor Master, and may be stored by him on behalf of and at the risk and expense of the owner thereof in any place that he may at his absolute discretion think fit, and he may pending such removal provide a sufficient number of persons to guard the same, and all expenses or liabilities incurred by him in exercise of his powers hereunder shall be borne by the owners and paid to the Commissioners.
