Police Regulation Act 1958.

POLICE FORCE OF VICTORIA.

DETERMINATION NO. 170 OF THE POLICE SERVICE BOARD.

FIRST Constable H. W. H. O'Neill, No. 14068, has applied to the Board to determine "whether the meaning of the word 'duty' in clause 46 of the Determinations includes travelling from a member's station to a specified course of training and return from the course to the station".

The matter was heard by the Board on the 13th October, 1970, when Senior Constable Hatt, Assistant Secretary of the Police Association, appeared for First Constable O'Neill and Inspector H. D. McCallum appeared for the Chief Commissioner of Police.

The facts relating to the point at issue are not in dispute and the determination of the Board is related to those particular facts.

First Constable O'Neill is stationed at Frankston. He lives at Frankston. He was selected to attend a Vehicle Safety Testing School which was held at Dawson-street, Brunswick, from 2nd March, 1970, to 13th March, 1970, inclusive. He attended that course on ten separate days over that period, and for that purpose necessarily travelled from Frankston to Brunswick and home again on each day.

First Constable O'Neill in fact reported to Frankston Police Station at 7 a.m. before leaving for the school and reported again at 7 p.m. on his return. This reporting appears to have been unnecessary as he was directed to report at the school.

First Constable O'Neill is claiming for 3½ hours overtime duty daily—the time involved in the travelling.

So far as is relevant to this matter, paragraph 46 of Determination No. 160 provides—

"For the purposes of this sub-division, 'duty' shall include travelling from and returning to a member's station in connexion with some specific duty, but shall not include—

- (c) any time spent in travelling from the member's home or place of residence to the station to which he is attached for duty or in returning therefrom to his home or place of residence;".

The view contended for by the Department was that a member attending a school is considered as being temporarily transferred to the school for the duration of the course. Therefore travelling time was excluded by part (c) of paragraph 46. There is much to be said for this contention and something may turn on the terms of the notification given to the member when he was instructed to attend the school. On the material submitted to the Board it prefers not to express a concluded opinion on this argument.

But in the Board's opinion First Constable O'Neill's claim does not fall within the terms of paragraph 48 because, for at least two reasons, it cannot be said that he was travelling from and returning to his station in connexion with some specific duty. Firstly, his attendance at the school had nothing to do with any specific duty associated with his station: "Travelling from and returning to a member's station in connexion with some specific duty" is a composite expression, which necessarily implies a journey associated with work connected with operating from the station. Secondly, the words "Some specific duty" means some particular activity or activities, and are inapt to cover daily attendances at a training course over a period of time.

For these reasons, in the Board's opinion this claim does not fall within the terms of paragraph 46.
