EXEMPTION
Application No. 90 of 1997

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal
constituted by the President pursuant to
Section 83 (5) (a) (ii) of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section
83 of the Act by Fiona Solomidis trading as Belle Beauty to enable her to refuse to provide the services of her business to males at any time when she is working in the business by herself.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application and for the reasons for decision given by the Tribunal on 28
November 1997 the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 42 and 100 of the Act to enable the applicant to refuse to provide the services of her business to males at any time when she is working in the business by herself.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 42 and 100 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to refuse to provide the services of her business to males at any time when she is working in the business by herself.

This exemption to remain in force until 3
December 2000.

Note: A copy of the Tribunal's decision may be obtained from the Registrar of the Tribunal on request.

CATE McKENZIE
President

EXEMPTION
Application No. 97 of 1997

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal
constituted by the President pursuant to
Section 83 (5) (a) (ii) of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section
83 of the Act by Dee Basinski on behalf of NeWomen. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and appoint a Koori woman to assist the applicant's project in Shepparton and to advertise for and appoint a Koori woman to assist the applicant's project in Wodonga.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and appoint a Koori woman to assist the applicant's project in Shepparton and to advertise for and appoint a Koori woman to assist the applicant's project in Wodonga.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- NeWomen is a women's health service funded as part of the National Women's Health Program.
- The applicant has received funding from VicHealth to develop a project focusing on cultural regeneration with the Koori community in Wodonga.
- The position in Wodonga requires someone with understanding of the local history and culture and who is acceptable and credible to the Koori community in the area of the project.
- The applicant has been successful in a bid to tender from the Victorian Department of Human Services to develop a project to address the issue of problem gambling in the Koori community in Shepparton.
- The worker will need to have a sound understanding of the local culture as well as a broad understanding of the pressures and constraints of living as an Aboriginal person in Shepparton.
- The applicant believes each of these workers will need to be an Aboriginal person, probably Koori, as this is a particularly sensitive and difficult role.
- The applicant believes it essential each of these workers that the workers appointed be of Aboriginal background and wish to specify this in the advertisement.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and appoint a Koori woman to assist the applicant's project in Shepparton and to advertise for and appoint a Koori woman to assist the applicant's project in Wodonga.

This exemption to remain in force until 3 December 2000.

EXEMPTION
Application No. 98 of 1997

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal constituted by the President pursuant to Section 83 (5) (a) (ii) of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by Maryanne Moody on behalf of Haddon Primary School. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male integration aide for a student with severe social and emotional difficulties.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male integration aide for students with severe social and emotional difficulties.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The student in grade 5 is 11 years old and he is placed in a withdrawal room on occasions where his behaviour is such that it is an extreme risk to himself, other students, his parents and staff.
- This child was funded for integration under the social and emotional category.
- It was recommended by his Psychiatrist and Psychologist that he have a male aid to furnish his two needs—
  1. Need for a positive role model demonstrating appropriate male social behaviours.
  2. Need for physical restraint.
- The applicant believes the employing of a male would be in the best interests of the student and the school management of his needs.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male integration aide for a student with severe social and emotional difficulties.

CODE OF ACCEPTED FARMING PRACTICE FOR THE WELFARE OF PIGS
(Revision Number 1)
INTRODUCTION

This Code of Practice is intended as a guide for all people responsible for the welfare and husbandry of pigs. It recognises that the basic requirement for the welfare of pigs is a husbandry system appropriate to their physiological and behavioural needs. The basic needs of pigs are:

- readily accessible food and water to maintain health and vigour;
- freedom of movement to stand, stretch and lie down;

- light during the daylight hours;
- visual and social contact with other pigs;
- accommodation which provides protection from the weather and which neither harms nor causes distress;
- rapid identification and treatment of vice, injury and disease.

The Code emphasises that, whatever the form of husbandry, managers and others responsible for the day-to-day needs of pigs have a responsibility to care for animals under their control.

The importance of competent stockmanship in pig welfare cannot be over-emphasised and those responsible should seek expert opinion when pigs show signs of illness. Managers and staff are expected to treat their animals efficiently and with consideration. It is important for management purposes that stock persons should have ample time for the inspection of stock and checking of equipment.

Although very large herds can be managed successfully a large unit should not be set up unless the stock person in charge will be able to safeguard the welfare of each animal.

Systems involving a high degree of control over the environment should only be installed where conscientious staff skilled in both pig husbandry and the use of equipment will be available at all times.

Assistance with the establishment of piggeries and advice on the management of and disease control in pigs can be obtained from qualified advisers in private or government employment.

This Code of Animal Welfare Practice is based on the knowledge and technology available at the time of publication and may need to be varied in the light of future knowledge. It does not replace the need for experience and commonsense in the husbandry of animals.

Loading of pigs for transport can present special problems. Patience is essential and proper design of yards, loading ramps and transport facilities is essential to facilitate loading with minimum distress and bruising. More comprehensive details on the factors to consider in the transportation in pigs are included in the "Code of Accepted Farming Practice for the Welfare of Farm Animals During Transportation".

ACCOMMODATION

Anyone who intends to erect new housing or redesign old housing should seek advice from Government agricultural authorities and others with expert knowledge in this field. Well designed and constructed buildings can provide an ideal environment for pigs and are often more economic to operate and less expensive to maintain.

1. Space

This code accepts pigs are kept in three housing designs:

- special farrowing crates;
- pens - where a number of animals are held in groups;
- stalls - where individual animals are held.

1.1 Accommodation for pigs should be designed and constructed so that it does not cause injury or predispose to disease and to provide a clean dry place on which to lie.

1.2 Pigs kept in groups in pens require sufficient space for each to sleep feed and dung. They should have a clean dry place on which to lie (see Appendix 2).

1.3 Pigs accommodated individually in stalls should be able to stand normally, lie with limbs extended, to stretch and move freely. They should have sufficient space in which to feed and sleep and a clean dry place on which to lie (see Appendix 2). It is desirable that alternatives to permanent housing in stalls be considered.

1.4 Farrowing systems should allow sufficient room for piglets. Developed alternatives to the current farrowing crates should be considered.

- 1.5 The space allowance and facilities provided for suckling sows should aim to avoid overlaying of piglets.
- 1.6 Good floor design and adequate maintenance are of particular importance in minimising the risk of injury and to allow pigs to stand normally.
- 1.7 All surfaces and bedding materials to which pigs have access should be made of materials that may be readily cleaned and disinfected.

2. Equipment

All equipment to which pigs have access should be designed and maintained so as to avoid both injury and pain.

Mechanical equipment essential to meeting the basic requirements of pigs should be inspected regularly and kept in good working order.

In case of breakdown of mechanical equipment, alternative ways of providing feed and water and of maintaining a satisfactory environment should be available.

An alarm system should be installed to warn the stock-keeper of failures of any automated ventilation equipment in sealed sheds.

All electrical installations at mains voltage should be inaccessible to pigs and properly earthed.

3. Environment

Shivering and cold-stress in new-born piglets should be avoided by maintaining the temperature through the provision of bedding, insulation and/or supplementary heating.

In intensive housing systems wide or abrupt temperature fluctuations within any 24 hour period should be avoided. Extremes of air temperature or of humidity, particularly those liable to cause heat stress, should not be deliberately maintained.

In enclosed houses, the level of air exchanges should provide fresh air for respiration, remove excess heat and waste gases, and minimise the effects of dust and excess moisture. Efficient ventilation is particularly important when fermentation pits are associated with slatted floor systems.

Sufficient lighting should be available when required to enable the proper inspection of all pigs.

4. Protection

Pigs should be protected from predators and, where injury from bullying or fighting may occur, from other pigs. Where unfamiliar pigs must be mixed, this should be done in a manner that minimises aggression, such as, use of a new pen, provision of feed on the floor, or use of a pen with room for escape.

In partial stall systems action should be taken to prevent bullying or deprivation of food in groups of dry sows and gilts. Stalls in which dry sows and gilts can feed individually are strongly recommended.

When individual quarters are provided for dry sows and gilts they should be able to feed and lie down normally. Partitions should prevent aggressive behaviour but enable them to see each other.

Appropriate fire-fighting equipment should be available in all pig houses.

When planning new buildings, consideration should be given to the use of construction materials with a high fire resistance, and all electrical and fuel installations should be planned and fitted so as to minimise the fire risk.

New buildings should incorporate sufficient exits to facilitate the quick evacuation of pigs in emergencies.

Pig housing should be sited so as to be far from the effects of fires and floods.

5. Waste Control

The frequency of cleaning of pig accommodation will depend on the system of housing used, the type of flooring and stocking density. As a guide, pens with solid floors should be cleaned daily. Faeces and urine should not be permitted to accumulate to the stage where they pose a threat to the health and well-being of pigs, or disrupt the normal instinct of pigs to have separate dunging and sleeping areas.

FOOD AND WATER

1. Food

Pigs should be fed at least once each day and the diet should be nutritionally adequate to maintain health and vitality and take account of the requirements of growth, pregnancy and lactation.

Medicated food should only be used on competent professional advice as the overuse or mixing of medication, or the medication itself, may cause toxic injury.

Food provided should be fresh and palatable, being free of any gross contaminants, mould, mycotoxins etc.

There should be enough food on hand, or ready means of obtaining food, in case supply fails or is delayed.

2. Water

Drinkable water or other wholesome liquid should be available in sufficient quantities to meet the physiological needs of the pigs.

Medicated water should only be used on competent professional advice as the overuse or mixing of medication, or the medication itself, may cause toxic injury.

Water provided should be fresh, palatable and cool. Drinker allocation per pen group and drinker design and flow rates should be such that water requirements of different classes of pig are easily achievable without undue effort, taking into account normal expected wastage rates.

When a piggery is first established, or a new water source obtained, the water should be tested for salt content and microbiological contamination, and advice obtained on its suitability for pigs. Information on water testing can be obtained from the local office of the Department of Agriculture.

The daily consumption of water by a pig can vary according to environmental temperature and liveweight. The table below show the range of daily water consumption by various classes of pig.

Water Requirements Per Pig

	AVERAGE WATER CONSUMPTION (litres per day)
Boar or dry sow	12 - 15
Sow and litter	25 - 45
Grower pig:
25 kg	3 - 5
45 kg	5 - 7
65 kg	7 - 9
90 kg	9 - 12

Conversion factor: 1.0 litre = 0.22 gal)

FOOTNOTE: Net requirements for animals excluding wastage.

The piggery should be serviced by an adequate reserve water supply in case of breaks, repairs or failure of pumping equipment.

SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS

1. Inspections

The frequency and level of inspection should be related to the likelihood of risk to the welfare of pigs, but should be at least once each day. In a practical sense it requires a higher level of stockmanship to ensure the welfare of sows in larger groups. Individual feeding in stalls allows the stockman to ensure visually that all sows are up, eating, and not lame or affected by other problems. Group housing systems require a greater degree of skill because sows may have to be observed individually. Electronic stall feeding often leaves the stockman looking at sows lying down 95% of the time which makes it much harder to assess their health and welfare. Inspections are best made at feeding times. Under certain circumstances more frequent inspections may be required, such as during hot weather, during outbreaks of disease or vice, when farrowing is expected, or when groups of pigs have been mixed. Checks should also be made of the effectiveness of any automated feeding or watering systems where these have been installed.

2. Health

Those responsible for the care of pigs should be aware of the signs of ill-health. These include separation from other pigs, refusal to eat, changes in faeces or urine, reduced production or fertility, vomiting, skin discolouration, shivering, sneezing, coughing, panting, lameness and swellings on the body. If the person in charge is not able to identify the causes and correct them, he should seek advice from those having training and experience in such matters. Such persons may be specialist pig veterinarians or other qualified advisers in private practice or Government employment.

Pig producers should also operate an effective program to prevent infectious disease including internal and external parasitism. Vaccinations and other treatments applied to pigs should be undertaken by people skilled in the procedures and in accordance with the manufacturer's directions. Sick and injured pigs should be treated as soon as possible. They should be isolated if necessary.

Dead pigs should be removed promptly and, if not required for post-mortem examination, should be disposed of in a hygienic manner such as incineration or deep burial.

Records of sick animals, deaths, treatment given and response to treatment should be maintained to assist disease investigations.

Pigs with either incurable sickness or painful deformity should be humanely slaughtered as soon as possible. The recommended method of destruction is described in Appendix 3.

3. Farrowing

Sows should be placed in farrowing quarters before the litter is due to allow them to become accustomed to their surroundings.

4. Boars

The floor of the serving area should be well maintained and should not be slippery.

5. Additional Requirements for Pig Keeping Under Extensive Conditions.

The same welfare standards as are applicable to housed pigs should be observed where pigs are kept outdoors.

Huts for farrowing and rearing should be warm and draught-free.

Adequate shelter in winter and shade in summer should be available to all pigs.

Pigs should not be raised on land which is grossly contaminated with poisonous plants or organisms that may either cause or transmit disease to such an extent that the health of pigs is affected. Consideration should be given to methods of reducing the build up of such pathogens by the use of herd health programs, such as routine vaccinations, parasite control and regular pasture rotation and spelling.

Fire breaks should be established around pasture or open range systems where the risk of fires is high.

When large groups are kept outdoors adequate feeding space and watering points are essential. Operators should ensure that younger or more timid pigs which may be subject to bullying have access to feed or are confined with more evenly matched groups of pigs.

APPENDIX 1 MINOR SURGICAL PROCEDURES

1. General

Managers or employees should not carry out minor surgical operations unless they are competent in such procedures. If necessary, advice should be sought on how minor surgical procedures should be performed. They should understand that minor surgery causes little distress if carried out efficiently and with minimal restraint. Strict attention should be paid to:

- suitability of the area in which the operation is to be performed;
- the catching facilities;
- the type and amount of restraint;
- the selection and maintenance of instruments;
- hygiene, particularly of hypodermic syringes and needles and the site of injections;
- after-care of the animals.

Restraint used on pigs should be the minimum necessary to complete the procedures. The use of goading devices for moving and handling pigs should be minimised to avoid distress.

2. Castration

Current marketing practices indicate that castration is rarely required. Castration should be avoided wherever possible.

If, however, castration is considered necessary, it should be performed by a competent operator as early as management practices will allow. Castration using a knife is recommended provided the animal is adequately restrained. Good post-operative drainage is essential.

Castration of boars older than 8 weeks should be performed by a veterinarian using either local or general anaesthetic.

3. Tail-Docking

Where tail-biting is a problem, all aspects of the environment, feeding and management should be investigated to identify the contributing factors so that remedial action can be taken.

Tail-docking should be carried out before pigs are 7 days of age where it is being performed as a routine preventive measure.

Tail-docking of pigs over 7 days of age should be performed only in an emergency.

4. Clipping of "Needle" Teeth

When performed, this procedure should be done within two days of birth to protect littermates and to prevent damage to the sow's udder.

5. Nose Ringing

This may need to be performed when pigs are kept on pasture. The ring should be placed through the cartilage of the top of the snout or the tissues separating the nostrils.

6. Identification

Where it is necessary to mark pigs for permanent identification the ear may be tattooed, tagged, notched or punched, or the body may be tattooed or micro-chipped.

Wherever possible ear notching should be carried out before the piglets reach seven days of age.

7. Backfat Measurement

The preferred method uses ultrasonic equipment. The use of mechanical probes is unacceptable.

8. Tusk Trimming

Tusk trimming of boars is advisable where injury to man or animals is likely to occur.

Acceptable methods of tusk trimming are bolt cutters, hack saw or embryotomy wire. The boar should be appropriately restrained, and if necessary aided by the administration of a sedative. No anaesthetic is required as the tusk lacks nerves for sensory innervation. Tusks should be severed cleanly and skilfully above the level of the gums without causing damage to other tissues.

APPENDIX 2 ACCOMMODATION

1. Stocking Density

It is not possible to relate stocking density to welfare in a simple manner. Adequate welfare involves consideration of group size, pen size, age, breed, temperature, ventilation, lighting and other husbandry factors. The observance of any particular stocking density on its own cannot ensure the welfare of pigs. The suggested minimum space allowance in housed pigs based on contemporary techniques are shown in Table 1. It should be noted that a higher space allowance should be provided when less favourable shed design and environment factors are present.

MAXIMUM RECOMMENDED STOCKING DENSITIES FOR HOUSED PIGS

SYSTEM	MINIMUM SPACE ALLOWANCE (m <sup>2</sup> per pig)	COMMENTS
Growing pigs up to 10 kg in groups.	0.11	Approximately 20 to 30 per cent of space allowance provides for a dunging area.
11 - 20 kg	0.18
21 - 40 kg	0.32

61 - 80 kg	0.56
81 - 100 kg	0.65
Adult pigs in groups	1.4
Adult pigs in individual stalls	0.6m x 2.0m	2.0 m length means 2.0 m clear space, not including feed and water facilities
Sows in farrowing crates	0.5m width x 2.0m minimum length

• stalls	3.2	With piglets up to 4 weeks of age.
• individual pens	5.6	With piglets up to 4 weeks of age.
• multisuckling groups	5.6	For each sow and litter.

(Conversion factors:  $1.0\text{m}^2 = 10.8\text{ft}^2$ ;  $1.0\text{kg} = 2.2\text{lb}$ ;  $1\text{m} = 39.4\text{in}$ )

2. Electronically or mechanically controlled feeding stations.

The objective in using this system is to group house the animals but individually control, to greater or lesser extent depending on the design, the ration provided to each sow through one or more "stations", the number of stations depending on the number of sows housed in the group (about 1 station to 40 sows). Thus the animals benefit from the freedom of group housing while being fed rations related to their individual needs.

Care is required in a number of aspects of operating feeding station systems:-

- building layout and siting of the station within the building
- there are fail-safe provisions so that animals are not trapped in the feeder, fail to obtain feed because their individual identification has been lost, or the system fails without warning to the stockperson.
- the flow of animals into and out of the feeder is controlled in a manner which avoids bullying and aggression.
- the stockperson needs to regularly monitor the health and condition of all animals just as often as would be done with manual daily feeding.
- attention is given to procedures to mix new animals into the group with minimal aggress

3. Temperature

Pigs except the very young, are able to tolerate a wide range of temperatures without detriment to their well being provided temperature changes do not occur abruptly.

The ranges of temperature that afford optimum comfort for different classes of pigs are:

Piglets - newborn	27 - 35°C
Piglets - 3 weeks of age	24 - 30°C (reducing to 21°C at 5 weeks of age)
Farrowing house	20 - 30°C
Weaners	20 - 30°C
Growers	15 - 30°C
Finishers	15 - 30°C
Sows and boars	15 - 30°C

During very hot weather (38°C or more) adult pigs are very susceptible to heat stress and steps should be taken to alleviate distress and avoid deaths. Pigs may die if transported in very hot weather.

4. Ventilation

It is necessary to strike a balance between the need to provide fresh air and prevent the build-up of noxious gases, and the need to protect pigs from draughts.

In general, if the level of irritant or toxic gases within a building is uncomfortable to man, it is also uncomfortable to pigs and may predispose them to respiratory disease.

The presence of ammonia is usually a reliable indicator of the build-up of noxious gases; it should not be allowed to exceed 20 parts per million (ppm) of air in an enclosed pig house without immediate corrective action being taken. (A level of 10-15 ppm ammonia in the air can be detected by smell. An ammonia level of from 25 to 35 ppm will cause eye and nasal irritation in people).

It is important to maintain an adequate airflow during hot weather to ensure housed pigs do not become overheated.

5. Tethering

The restraint of sows by neck tethers is considered an unacceptable practice.

APPENDIX 3

HUMANE DESTRUCTION OF PIGS

Previous sections of this code have drawn attention to those circumstances when, for humane reasons, pigs may need to be humanely destroyed, eg. injury or disease.

Whilst this task is aesthetically unpleasant to most people, the method of slaughter should be effective and cause sudden and painless death for the animal. It is equally important that the animal be handled quietly beforehand to ensure it is not unnecessarily distressed or alarmed.

The methods recommended hereunder are those which are considered the most suitable for a farm situation.

1. Use of the Firearm

This is the preferred method of humanely destroying older pigs on the farm or following emergencies. Use of firearms on public property, eg. roads, or in built-up areas, may be illegal, and under those circumstances assistance should be sought from veterinary practitioners, the RSPCA or the Police.

The effectiveness of shooting is dependent upon the destruction of major centres at the back of the brain near the spinal cord. A common mistake is to direct the bullet too low, damaging frontal areas. Partial recovery may then occur.

(a) Safety

The following aspects of firearms safety should be borne in mind:

- A.22 calibre rifle or .32 calibre humane killer pistol are adequate for humane destruction of most pigs. Where old, large boars are to be destroyed, the .32 Calibre pistol is preferred.
- Persons other than the marksman and a handler for the animal should be cleared from the area or should stand well behind the marksman.
- Never fire while the animal is moving its head; wait patiently for a quiet interval before firing.
- To provide maximum impact and the least possibility of misdirection the range should be as short as circumstances permit.
- Whilst the humane killer pistol and captive-bolt pistol are designed to be pressed firmly on the head prior to being discharged, it is not safe to do this with a standard rifle or pistol.

(b) Methods

Temporal method: The pig is shot from the side of the head so that the bullet enters the skull at a point midway between the eyes and the base of the ear on the same side. The bullet should be directed horizontally into the skull. This method is preferred for adult pigs due to the heavier bone structure of the front of the skull.

Frontal method: The firearm should be aimed at a point midway across the forehead and (for adult pigs) about 2 cm above the level of the eyes, aiming horizontally into the skull.

Humane destruction of pigs:

"a" indicates recommended position for temporal method. ( Suitable for firearms only ).

"b" indicates recommended position for frontal method ( Suitable for firearm or captive-bolt pistol).

2. Use of the Captive-bolt Pistol

An alternative to the firearm is a captive-bolt pistol which is safer since a blank cartridge is used. The operator does not have to be a marksman as the instrument's muzzle is firmly pressed against the skull before firing. It must however, be assumed that the animal has only been stunned and a follow-up method of ensuring death, such as bleeding-out, is required.

Blank cartridges for the captive-bolt pistol are colour-coded according to the amount of charge they contain. For best results, the manufacturer's directions should be followed on the most appropriate blank cartridge for pigs. Regular maintenance of the captive-bolt pistol is essential for efficient stunning.

(a) Method

When using the frontal method, the captive-bolt pistol can be used in the same position as that recommended for the firearm. To ensure death, pigs should be bled out as soon as possible after collapse.

3. Stunning by Clubbing

A hammer or other blunt, but heavy, object may be used to make a blow to the skull to render unconscious small, easily controlled piglets. The blow should be aimed at the centre of the forehead in the position indicated for shooting in the diagram above. The unconscious piglet should be immediately bled out to ensure death.

- (c) prohibit the entry of sheep, goats, deer and alpacas into the control area under specified circumstances.

2. Authoring provision

This Order is made under Section 6 of the Livestock Disease Control Act 1994.

3. Definition

In this Order—

“approved eradication program” means a program to eradicate Mycobacterium paratuberculosis from infected flocks which has been approved by the Manager, Animal Health Operations, Department of Natural Resources and Environment;

“susceptible livestock” means sheep, goats, deer and alpacas;

4. Control Area

The whole of Victoria is declared to be a control area in respect of ovine Johne's disease in respect of the susceptible livestock.

5. Requirements in the control area

Within the control area—

- (a) an owner of any susceptible livestock must—
  - (i) submit the livestock for testing and sampling for ovine Johne's disease, in accordance with any directions that may be issued by the Manager, Animal Health Operations of the Department of Natural Resources and Environment, to a registered veterinary surgeon, an Inspector of Livestock or a person authorised by the Manager, Animal Health Operations of the Department of Natural Resources and Environment to test and sample livestock for ovine Johne's disease;
  - (ii) provide adequate facilities and sufficient assistance to allow the safe and efficient handling of the susceptible livestock during the sampling and testing procedures required under (i);
  - (iii) provide information on the movements of susceptible livestock onto and from the property to an Inspector of Livestock upon request;
- (b) a person is prohibited, except with the permission of an Inspector of Livestock, from selling or transporting, except to an abattoir or knackery for slaughter, any susceptible livestock which originates or comes from a premises where—
  - (i) the infection with the ovine strain of Mycobacterium paratuberculosis in any susceptible livestock has been diagnosed; and
  - (ii) an approved eradication program has not been completed;
- (c) a person transporting suspect or infected susceptible livestock to a knackery or abattoir for slaughter must,

on each occasion following such transportation, thoroughly remove all faecal material and wash out the transport vehicle without exposing other susceptible livestock to the faecal material or washings.

6. Prohibition on entry

For the purposes of preventing entry into Victoria of ovine Johne's disease, the entry into the control area of any susceptible livestock which originates or comes from a premises where—

- (i) the infection with the ovine strain of Mycobacterium paratuberculosis in any susceptible livestock has been diagnosed or is suspected; and
- (ii) a program applying in the State of which the premises is part to eradicate Mycobacterium paratuberculosis infection or to remove the suspect status of the property or livestock, has not been completed—is prohibited, except with a permit issued under Section 10 (1) of the Act.
